NOTE

It would be like carrying coals to Newcastle for me to offer you suggestions.

However when you go to microfilm this record you may very well choose to put the index at the beginning. It is now at the end which is customary for books which are bound.

Wm. K. Hall

Dear Mr. Hall,

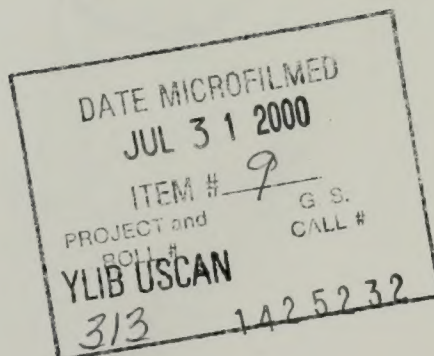

Thank you for your recent letter concerning your long-standing series of donations to the Family History Library. Your work is a valuable part of our collection. To answer your question, we prefer unbound copies of your manuscripts. An unbound copy will aid in microfilming, and later we will have a hard cover binding on the book for use on the shelf.

We recently did some rearranging of the US book collections to free up some space and this has resulted in providing many years worth of space for new books.

If you have any further questions, please give me a call. My number is listed below.

Sincerely,

Michael R. Provand

Motorist Rushes Victim to Hospital But Disappears Without Giving Name; Lad's Screams Attract Father

BOY'S SKULL FRACTURED AS MACHINE STRIKES HIM

Lives But Hour After Being Taken to Hospital, Was Running Across Street From Playground by Home

INJURIES sustained at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile, proved fatal about an hour later to Edward Donnell Greene, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Greene, of 1746 College street.

Although the driver of the automobile stopped and took the boy to a hospital, he did not give his name to anyone and police last night were seeking to establish his identity, their only clue being license number 55-216, said to have been attached to the car.

Father Hears Cries

The accident occurred in front of the boy's home. The lad had been playing in a vacant lot and was running across the street from the playground by his home when he was struck by the automobile.

Mr. Greene, who had been working in the rear of his house, heard the lad's scream and ran to the street, where he seized the body of his son from the arms of the autoist. The driver then prevailed upon Mr. Greene to lift the boy into his car and then hurried to the Springfield Baptist hospital.

His Skull Fractured

Physicians found that the boy had sustained a fracture at the base of his skull.

BOY DIES WHEN STRUCK BY CAR

Edward Greene, 8, Run Over Path of Auto Driven by T. F. Wallace.

Running across the street and directly in the path of an approaching automobile, Edward Greene, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Greene, of 1706 College street, suffered injuries at 8:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon from which he died later. The accident happened almost directly in front of the Greene residence.

The car was driven by T. F. Wallace, residing four miles south of Springfield on the Campbell street road. He immediately stopped his car and rushed the injured boy and his father to the Springfield Baptist hospital, where, Dr. J. H. Fulbright found he had suffered a fracture at the base of his skull.

Mr. Wallace was returning from Joplin. As he neared the Greene home the boy, who had been playing in a vacant lot across the street, started to his home and ran directly in the path of the car. He was struck by the bumper and the car passed over him. Mr. Wallace stopped immediately and gathered the little boy in his arms. The father, who had been working in the rear of the house, rushed to the street and took the boy, and then went to the hospital in Mr. Wallace's car.

The heartbroken father this morning told of the accident and declared that Mr. Wallace had done everything possible for his little son, staying at the hospital until the end. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace called at the Greene home this morning and spent some time with the parents. Mr. Greene declared he did not feel Mr. Wallace was to blame, as the accident was one which probably could not have been averted.

The boy is survived by his parents and two brothers, Robert, 11, and Kenneth, 3.

ANNIVERSARY FOR 'AUNT BETTY' M'QUIGG

Many Members of Family Will Participate in Party Observing Her 92nd Birthday, Recovers Remarkably After Hip Fractured by Fall

A FRAGILE little old lady, delicate of build and feature, with smooth snowy hair, interested blue eyes, a merry smile and vivacious manner, will be the beloved guest of honor at a family reunion and birthday party here today.

She is Mrs. Elizabeth McQuigg, known to a wide circle of friends as "Aunt Betty", who will celebrate her ninety-second birthday surrounded by all the living members of her family.

Mrs. McQuigg's father, John Robertson, was one of the earliest pioneers in Southwest Missouri, and little Betty was born on August 28, 1835, in the farmhouse down on the Gasconade river, in Wright county. While she was still a very small girl, the family moved to Springfield, and Betty spent her girlhood in the old Robertson house which is now the Centenary home.

VIVID WAR MEMORIES

She married young, as was the custom, and when her husband, John McQuigg, joined the home guard in the '60s, she had two baby girls. Of all her memories, those of Civil war days are most vivid, and she relates with lively humor how soldiers occupied her home, and insisted on fiddling and dancing.

"I never had seen a dance-step before the war," she says laughingly, "and when the soldiers began getting out their fiddles, I was afraid my husband wouldn't like it. I told them he might make them stop when he came back, and they just said, 'Well, if he tries it we're two to one.' So when I saw him coming about sundown I slipped out and told him not to say a word about it, and he didn't all evening. But at midnight, he said, 'Now, gentlemen, this room belongs to me.' And they put up their fiddles very nicely, and went out."

BROKE HIP IN FALL

Her husband also was active in the care of wounded soldiers brought to Springfield, and at one time, having been waiting on them tirelessly for many days, she says, while on an errand of mercy he slipped on some steps and broke his nose. His brother was mortally wounded in the battle of Wilson Creek, and Mrs. McQuigg remembers the battle very well, and hearing the noise of the guns from her home.

Mr. McQuigg has been dead for 44 years.

Mrs. McQuigg lives here with her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Jones, at 912 West Walnut street. Last winter, while staying with another daughter, Mrs. J. F. Robinson, about 10 miles out in the country on the West High street road, a dog ran against her and she fell, breaking her hip. She spent many weeks in the hospital, but in spite of her advanced age she recovered nicely, and now gets about with the aid of crutches.

MANY AT REUNION

The family reunion and birthday celebration today will be held at the Robinson home, and will be attended by Mrs. McQuigg, her three daughter, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. W. D. Miller and their families. She has eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Dorsey D. Jones, for six years of history and economics at the senior high school here, and her grandson, who has been attending the University of Iowa this summer, arrived in Springfield Friday to attend the reunion and make it complete. He will return to the University of Iowa after a fortnight's vacation here to complete work for his Ph. D. degree.

Mrs. McQuigg is exceedingly proud of her grandchildren, several of whom are teachers, and takes a keen interest in their activities. They, on the other hand, adore her, and love to listen to her tales of pioneer life and Civil war times.

Ozark Youths Come to Trial End in Experiment of Manufacturing Intoxicants From Blackberries

DEATHS COME SHORTLY AFTER SAMPLING STUFF

Officers Drop Inquiry After Learning They Made Drink Speculate on Nature of This Fatal Poison

Special to The Daily News.

DIXON, Mo., Aug. 27.—Two youths are dead and one is seriously ill as the tragic end of an attempt of three young men to manufacture wine.

The dead are Lu Long, 19-year-old son of Joe Long, and Tom Baker, 20-year-old son of J. M. Baker. Both resided with their parents on farms near here.

The third victim Claude Long, a brother of Lu, still suffering at the home of his parents, is fighting his way back to life.

SOON BECOME ILL

The three youths, according to neighbors, decided some weeks ago to make some blackberry wine. Knowing little of the process of wine making, they made the wine, and it was not until a week ago that they tried to drink any of their product, which had been made at the Long home.

Claude Long, it was said, drank some of the wine and complained that it did not taste right. The others, however, drank more and for a short time felt better.

The following day the three boys had manufactured a drink which they drank, made no more, and thus an investigation of the case which at first were thought to be due to poisoned liquor had purchased.

SPECULATE ON CAUSE

While no test of the liquor drunk by the three was made, it is thought that death may have been due to poison formed by the liquid contents of the containers used, or that the process of fermentation had been such as it should have been due to ingredients that may have been added to hasten this fermentation.

Persons familiar with the making of wine said that metal containers frequently were eaten upon by the wine and a poison thus formed. Others were of the opinion that too much yeast or sugar had been added, and that the poison developed when the right proportions of the various ingredients were not used.

GIRL 'DOPER' AS SHE HAD

Happy Only When Able to Buy
'The Stuff,' She Takes Sleeping Potion and Dies; Body Is Brought Here for Burial

"SOMETIMES I think I shall kill myself. Life, to me, is worth living only when I am able to obtain dope and then I enjoy only a brief period of roscate visions and luxurious contentment, only to awake to a harsh and horrid reality," declared Helen Shockley, when being held recently at police headquarters as a drug addict.

And last week in Kansas City she kept her rendezvous with death.

Sent there to undergo treatment to break the habit, she first was placed in the city hospital, but the place of treatment was changed to the streets and was found unconscious. Taken to the General hospital, it was learned that she had swallowed 35 grains of a sleep-producing drug, evidently taken in lieu of morphine. Death resulted soon afterward.

"Oh, it's great," the young woman had confided to a reporter at police headquarters here referring to the use of narcotics. "Did you ever take it?" she asked whimsically. "But when the effect wears off and you can't make a 'buy' and you want the 'stuff' so badly, then it's hell," she added.

Slender and auburn haired, large, brown eyes glowing from a face lined with suffering, she lay in a cell awaiting removal to a place of treatment.

"I hope I can be cured. Do you think it is impossible?" she asked the reporter.

"Of course you can," was the encouraging reply, although the wasted body and gleaming eyes of the sufferer clearly revealed that she had gone too far ever to break the shackles of the habit.

The body was returned to Springfield Sunday and at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, funeral services were held at the Klingner Funeral home, with burial in East Lawn cemetery.

BARBER FOUND DEAD IN BED AT ROOMING HOUSE

Andrew Johnson, 65. Believed to Have Been Victim of Poison.

CARBOLIC ACID FOUND

Left Shop at 5 P. M. in Good Spirits to Go to Room for Supper.

With a few drops of carbolic acid in a half pint bottle lying on a dresser in his room, Andrew Johnson, 65 years old, a barber of Richland, Mo., was found dead in bed shortly after 8 o'clock last night at a rooming house, 617 College street, where he had been staying for the past few months.

The man apparently committed suicide by drinking a quantity of the acid, according to Coroner Jewell E. Windell, who made an investigation of the death last night.

Mrs. John O. Woody, who, with her husband, operates the rooming house, stated that she entered Johnson's room about 8:15 o'clock to leave some bed linen. She found the man lying dead on his bed. Police were immediately notified.

Belonged to Odd Fellows.

Examination of the man's clothing revealed a half dollar and membership card in the Odd Fellows lodge of Swedeberg, Mo. Little was known of him about the rooming house other than that he worked at a barber shop on College street.

After an investigation by officers, it was learned that Johnson came to Springfield about 18 months ago from Richland. He operated a barber shop in the Pastime Pool hall, College street and Market avenue, for several months, disposing of it about three months ago. For the past three weeks he had been working at the L. A. Montgomery barber shop, 418 College street.

Worked Until 5 P. M.

Mr. Montgomery stated that Johnson had worked until 5 p. m. yesterday when he remarked that he intended to go to his room and cook his supper. He apparently was in good spirits when he left.

Johnson was divorced by Mrs. Eva Johnson of Richland about a year ago. Since then he has lived in Springfield most of the time. Little was known about his relatives. He operated a barber shop at Richland for a number of years and it was the opinion of citizens there that he had children by a former wife. Their whereabouts are not known.

The body is being held at the Alma Lohmeyer Funeral home pending further investigation by Coroner Windell.

An autopsy will be performed at 9 o'clock this morning on the body of Andrew Johnson, 60-year-old barber, who committed suicide by drinking poison early Saturday evening in his room in a small hotel at 617 College street. It was announced last night by Coroner Jewell E. Windle.

Following the autopsy, the body will be forwarded by the Alma Lohmeyer Funeral home to Warsaw, Ind., according to the request of a former wife and two children who live in that city.

Whether or not an inquest will be held will depend upon findings at the autopsy, it was said, although both the coroner and police officials concurred in the belief that it was clearly a case of suicide.

Mrs. Eva Johnson, restaurant proprietor of Richland, Mo., and another divorced wife of Johnson, declined to accept the body, explaining her action as due to illness and to financial difficulties.

Johnson had lived in Springfield for the past 16 months and had worked as a barber in local shops during that time. For the past three weeks and until a few hours before his death he had worked in the shop of L. A. Montgomery at 413 College street.

FEAST OF GRAPES BLAMED IN DEATH OF OZARK TOURIST

Dies in Agony Soon After Eating Fruit Recently Sprayed; Autopsy Will Be Performed Here Today

SPRAY-POISONED grapes, which he purchased at a vineyard near Seymour late last night are blamed for the death of William Merrill, 52 years old, East St. Louis business man, who expired suddenly at 8 o'clock last night at the Galtz tourist camp six miles east of Springfield.

Mr. Merrill succumbed after a few minutes' torturing illness. Dr. J. E. Windle, after an investigation, was certain death was caused either by apoplexy or strychnine poisoning. ~~and he~~ announced an autopsy will be conducted this morning to fix definitely the responsibility.

SAFE, SAID FARMER

With his wife, two daughters and their husbands, Mr. Merrill was on his way back to St. Louis after a weekend tour of the Ozarks. Near Seymour those who were with him told Mr. Windle he purchased a basket of grapes about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The vineyard owner told him the grapes had not been sprayed for two weeks and that they were perfectly safe. He ate several bunches of them, but none of the others touched them.

Even though the autopsy today shows the grapes were responsible for his death, there is little likelihood that criminal charges would result against the farmer who sold the grapes, Mr. Windle said. He added that prosecution on other grounds might be made.

ON CAMPING TOUR

Mr. Merrill left his home in East St. Louis Saturday, and the tourists had been camping out since then. They planned to drive on to St. Louis today.

Mr. Merrill was a member of Eureka Knights of Pythias, lodge No.

GRAPES ARE EXONERATED IN DEATH OF TOURIST

An attack of apoplexy, rather than ptomaine poisoning due to the eating of grapes bearing poison spray, resulted in the sudden death here Monday night of William Merrill, business man of East St. Louis, Ill., according to findings of an autopsy conducted yesterday by Coroner Jewell E. Windle.

Mr. Merrill was stricken at a tourist camp six miles east of Springfield and died within a few minutes. The fact that he had eaten several bunches of grapes a few hours before and the possibility that the grapes might have retained a slight quantity of poison spray, led members of his family to believe his death due to poison.

The body was forwarded yesterday afternoon by the Alma Lohmeyer Funeral home to East St. Louis for burial.

ROMANCE BEGINS FOR AGED COUPLE HERE: 81 TO MARRIAGE

White-Haired Little Widow, Twice Married and Mother of Ten, Tells Secrets of Matrimonial Happiness on Eve of Third Wedding

By DOCIA KARELL

"A PERSON'S never too old to get married," says Mrs. Virginia Robinett stoutly—and acting on the courage of her conviction, this little greatgrandmother of 74 today will become the bride of George Penter, 81, Civil War veteran and several times greatgrandfather.

And a very pretty bride she will be, with her white hair parted in soft waves over a face delicate of feature and complexion. She is a straight and active little woman who doesn't look her age by 10 years. In spite of a life not strange to hardship.

The marriage ceremony will be performed by the Reverend Edward T. Sloan in Mrs. Robinett's homey cottage at 1334 North Fremont—at 3 o'clock this afternoon with her neighbors as guests.

WIDOW 23 YEARS

The two old persons have been friends for about two years, since Mr. Penter's wife died and he moved in from his farm at 717 1/2 North 13th street, near the corner of East Pacific street.

About two months ago, says Mrs. Robinett, they first began to think of marriage. Their friends encouraged the idea, she says, and as both have been lonely, they have agreed to live the rest of their lives together.

Mrs. Robinett has been married twice, and a widow for the past 23 years. She believes that God brought her and Mr. Penter together that each might have companionship.

WE'LL BE HAPPY

"What God hath jointed together, let no man put asunder," she quotes

"I believe that He has brought our hearts together, and that it is right that we should get married. I have lived alone for many years, and now I believe that I am entitled to have a good, Christian companion to make me happy, and I believe we will be happy together.

"Even then," she says, "I would never think of marrying, unless I knew that I loved a man, and that our hearts were really united by God."

Oh, it is a real romance, this unusual bloom in the winter of life—a winter sheltered and comfortable.

Mrs. Robinett's philosophy of marriage is a practical combination of the romantic and the modern feminine.

ON MARITAL BLISS

"Yes," she says, "I think it's good for a girl to get married. If she marries a man of her own kind; but I think she would do better never to get married as long as she lives, unless she marries a man who can do as well by her as she does by herself."

In her own marriage, practical matters are nicely balanced with her love and need of companionship. She has her own home, where they will live, and two cottages which bring in a comfortable income. Mr. Penter has his farm, which is rented, and a pension from the government.

When I asked Mr. Penter what he believed constitutes a successful marriage, Mrs. Robinett answered quickly, "Now, Lady, I've told you as much as any reasonable person can say on the subject—he's only been married once—"as if to imply, "What does he know about it?"

NO EXPERIENCE

Only once, to be sure—yet he lived with his one wife for 60 years, which might be expected to give a man some insight into the subject. However, he rather agrees with Mrs. Robinett on his ignorance in the matter—"I was married when I was 19, and my wife was only 17—just kids," he laughs, "and we just got along the best we could. We didn't either of us know very much about it, but we managed," he explains.

Mrs. Robinett was born in Missouri, the daughter of a pioneer Presbyterian minister, the Reverend Joel B. Kistner. She recalls that after he was too old and ill to go to the church, he gathered his neighbors around his bed and held wonderful evangelistic meetings.

In 1871 she married J. M. Farr, and bore him nine children before his death, 16 years later. In 1893 she married again, and had one more daughter. She has been a widow since 1904.

PROUD OF FAMILY

When her husband died, she left the Webster county farm and came to Springfield, where she has lived ever since.

The early years with nine orphaned children on her hands were not easy—the fact that all ten of her children, five boys and five girls, are living, and all are respected, property-owning citizens, is a great source of pride and satisfaction to her, and shows how successfully she met her problem.

Mr. Penter was born in Illinois, but came to the Ozarks before the Civil war, and has lived in Arkansas and Missouri ever since—on the Davison street road farm for 34 years. He has eight children, all living.

Miss Wilma Crow Weds Walter Bryson

A wedding of interest to a large number of Springfield people took place Wednesday night in Humansville, Mo., when Miss Wilma Crow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Crow became the bride of Mr. Walter Bryson, prominent attorney of Greenville, S. C. The marriage was solemnized at 8 o'clock at the Grace Methodist Episcopal church. Rey-erend Lynch of that church officiated.

The bride was attended by Miss Joe Crow, her maid of honor, who wore a pale green georgette frock, Miss Frances Hamblen of Greenville, S. C., as brides maid, who wore pale yellow taffeta, and by Mrs. Ernest Krocher of Jefferson City and Mrs. Elth Reynolds, matrons of honor, who were gowned in dresses of orchid georgette and rose georgette. Each of the attendants carried shower bouquets of pink roses. Little Miss Marjorie Bodine, dressed in white georgette acted as flower girl and Master David, Lightfoot of this city, wore white satin and carried the ring on a white lily.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Anna Katherine Blanchard sang, "O Promise Me," and Mr. W. E. Bodine sang, "Because." The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrins Wedding march played by Miss Pearl Jackson. The ceremony was performed before an altar of green ferns and white cymatis with rows of candelabras forming the lighting effect. The brides gown was of white beaded georgette and she wore a veil with an orange blossom bandeau. Her bouquet was of white roses and baby breath. After five years of service in New Jersey, Captain Dwyer again was transferred this time to Joplin as western manager for the New Jersey Zinc company, and later the Empire Zinc company, for the interests of his company, Captain Dwyer purchased the old Joplin mine works and 4000 acres of mineral land upon his arrival here.

Captain Dwyer continued in the service of the mining company for more than 30 years, during which time he was inactive for a few years due to eye trouble. Aged Couple Tell of Wedding 65 Years Ago

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Burgdorf Have Seen Many Miraculous Changes in Modes of Living Since They Began Housekeeping.

Sixty-five years of married life and still enjoying each other and life in general is the unusual record of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Burgdorf, 900 Fremont avenue. Mrs. Burgdorf, 81 years old, left a bit of ironing she was doing to speak to a reporter, helping to his chair her 89-year-old husband, who is blind. Together they recalled the events of their lives, and with a clear memory Mr. Burgdorf related the incidents of that wedding day 65 years ago.

"The guests were invited to the wedding, as was the custom, by a friend of ours who went out on horseback and rode through the villages, bidding our friends to the wedding festival. His horse was decorated with white ribbons and he carried a long staff with ribbon bows as he made the rounds," Mr. Burgdorf said. "The wedding party proceeded to the church in the wedding wagon, which was decorated with ribbons and flowers, and was preceded by three young men on horseback, attendants of the bridegroom. The bride's attendants rode in the wagon with her. The marriage ceremony was performed immediately after church in the morning and then all the guests adjourned to my home where the festivities began.

"There was a great dinner, where all the guests sat down at long tables and partook of the varied delicacies, and then games were played throughout the afternoon. After supper, the dancing began, and the festivities continued until after 2 o'clock in the morning, proving, Mr. Burgdorf asserted, that "times then" and "times now" were not so different after all.

Many Changes in Living.

Mr. and Mrs. Burgdorf have seen many miraculous changes in modes of living in the long years they have gazed upon life. They started housekeeping in a one-room house in St. Louis, at the time when coal oil lamps were an innovation, a luxury possessed by only the fortunate few. They did their traveling by horseback or wagon, and the spinning wheel was then an article of utility and not a fireside decoration.

Mr. Burgdorf was born in Hanover, Germany, coming to America and directly to St. Louis when he was only 6 years old, while Mrs. Burgdorf, born in Prussia, came to Illinois with her parents when only a baby, 6 months old. Mr. Burgdorf's parents settled in south St. Louis, then called French town, and there he attended Concordia college. He went to Chicago where he worked as a clerk in a manufacturing concern, and later went to Vandalia, Ill., where he saw Lincoln's train pass through on the way to the inauguration exercises, and was one of the cheering crowd that greeted Lincoln as he stood on the platform of the train and waved to the crowds. He later went to Red Bud, Ill., where he met and married his wife.

Courted on Horseback.

"The best times we had," the old gentleman reminisced, "were when I brought over my mare and let her ride it, while I took one of her wild horses. Our courting was mostly done on horseback."

Mr. Burgdorf took charge of a parochial school in Red Bud and in 1880 became principal of the Lutheran high school, which later became Walther college. He taught in this college for 47 years and was president until 1906, when he resigned because of ill health, but retained his connection with the school until 1918.

"The doctor told me once that he wouldn't give five cents for my life." Mr. Burgdorf laughed. "but that was 30 years ago, and I'm still here." Mr. and Mrs. Burgdorf have eight children, all of whom are living. "But, oh, dear," Mrs. Burgdorf sighed, "they are so scattered over the country."

For the past five years, the elderly couple have made their home with their daughter, Mrs. Otto Meyer and Mr. Meyer, at 900 Fremont avenue.

WILLIAM H. LYNCH, NOTED BOOSTER OF THE OZARKS, IS DEAD

Marvel Cave Owner Passes Away in Carthage Hospital —Native of Canada, He Came to Southwest Missouri in 1894.

William H. Lynch, scholar, idealist, dreamer, poet, inventor and booster of the Ozark region, died at 8:30 o'clock this morning at the Carthage hospital, where he had been a patient for a little more than a week. He was born in Canada and came to this country in 1894.

Death resulted from hardening of the arteries and complications caused by a gangrenous infection to one of his feet.

His condition became critical about two weeks ago and he was removed to the Carthage hospital from his home at Marvel Cave in Stone county, at the request of his daughter, Miss Genevieve Lynch, superintendent of the hospital. Physicians were of the opinion that his condition was improving last week but it took a sudden turn for the worse, Sunday.

Canadian by Birth.

Mr. Lynch was 80 years old. He came to the Ozarks in 1894 from Canada. He was born at Danville, Quebec, Canada, and was a Canadian subject until recently.

For a number of years after settling at Marvel Cave, Mr. Lynch divided his time between this district and the Lake Umbagog country making frequent trips to Canada where he was widely known as a special dairy commissioner. For the last 14 years his Canadian trips had become fewer and he devoted more of his time to his home at Marvel Cave. He once served as a member of the Canadian parliament and was a close friend of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, former Canadian premier.

When he came to Missouri he learned that the land at Marvel Cave was for sale and proceeded at once to Stone county and purchased the land where the cave is located. He became a widely known character of the district and was a booster from the time he first arrived in this section.

Close Friend of Author.

Mr. Lynch was a close friend of Harold Bell Wright, author of "The Shepherd of the Hills," and also was a close friend of a number of the writers of the book, including Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Iser, "Old Matt" and "Lester Merrill," and Levi Merrill. "Uncle Sam" is the novel. The cave to which Mr. Lynch devoted so much of his time and activities was mentioned in the novel.

Several years of Mr. Lynch's life were devoted to literary work and he wrote a number of poems which are quite well known. He also devoted considerable time to inventions. An anti-dust and draft ventilator invented by Mr. Lynch is now being widely used in buildings and on railroad cars. The invention was sold at a nominal sum and he failed to realize any great amount from it.

Besides the daughter at Carthage, he is survived by another daughter, Miss Miriam, who directs the tea room and Marvel Cave lodge near the cave.

Funeral Thursday.

The body will be returned to the home at Marvel Cave where funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Burial will be in Evergreen cemetery, where lie the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Ross and Mr. Merrill in the shadow of a group of mighty pines, which have been the object of a fight of several years by Mr. Lynch to preserve them from the ax of the woodman.

WILLIAM H. LYNCH OF CAVE RENOWN DIES IN HOSPITAL

Owner of Marvel Labyrinth in Shepherd of Hills Country Expires of Poisoning After Long and Vivid Life

TO BE BURIED IN HILLS
BESIDE OLD CHARACTERS

Spent 35 Years of Life There After Winning Fame in Canada as Agricultural and Dairying Expert

"Too little time for quest of gold.
I need my time—to live;
And of the hours I may retrieve,
Would there were more to give."

THIS VERSE from a poem "Service," by William Henry Lynch, was recalled yesterday by Springfield friends of the Ozark pioneer, plot, inventor and scholar, who early yesterday morning died in a hospital at Carthage.

Drawn to the Ozarks about 25 years ago by a vital interest in Marvel cave, which he purchased, and which is located in what is now known as the Shepherd of the Hills country, near Reeds Spring and Branson. Mr. Lynch had made the development of the Ozarks, and particularly of the region in which he lived, the dream of his lifetime.

KILLED BY GANGRENE

Mr. Lynch was born in Canada but became an American citizen.
He was 80 years of age. His death was caused by gangrene in one of his feet due to an infection about 12 years ago from wearing colored socks. When the infection became serious about two weeks ago, he was taken to the hospital in Carthage where his daughter, Miss Genevieva, is superintendent. He has one other daughter, Miss Miriam, who lives at the home near Marvel cave. The first word was received in Springfield of the death of Mr.
Lynch yesterday morning by Mrs.
C. C. McCord, 1230 Roanoke avenue, a friend of the two daughters.
Funeral services will be held in the little Shepherd of the Hills cemetery Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. In this little cemetery a lone pine stands guard over the graves of other pioneers of the Shepherd of the Hills country—Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Ross, known as "Uncle Matt" and "Aunt Mollie" of the Shepherd of the Hills, and Levi Morrill, known as "Uncle Ike." The Reverend John Crockett, pastor of the Tabernacle Presbyterian church and friend of Mr. Lynch, will have charge of the funeral services. Miss Daisy Livingston, of Springfield, will sing.

HAD COLORFUL LIFE

The life of Mr. Lynch was as colorful as the background of the blue hills against which the last 25 years of it were enacted. Born in Danville, Quebec, Can., he held position of responsibility and trust in that country. He was the means of having the Canadian government establish a department of dairy culture which has been of much benefit to the country. He was a leader for the Canadian study training condition. He and served of the Canadian par-traveled in most
the United States, Great Holland, France and Den-and was a scholar and in-

When in the early 30's Mr. Lynch read stories of the wonders of Marvel cave he became so interested that he came to the Ozarks to visit the cave. From that time his love for the cave was a compelling force in his life. He purchased the cave and for several years spent only part of his time there, making frequent trips to Canada.

BEFORE RAILROAD DAYS

Those were the days before a railroad had been built through the rugged hills of the White River country. The Old Wilderness road built before the Civil war and over which Mr. Lynch traveled to his cave, was not the most accessible road in the country. Freighting was done in wagons from Springfield and Harrison, Ark. Even then, however, the dream of Mr. Lynch for introducing the wonders of the Ozarks to the world was not to be daunted. He had a grand opening of the cave about 1895. A piano was lowered into the cave, a platform built and an orchestra hired. A temporary hotel of several rooms was partially constructed to accommodate the visitors. Few, however, came from very great distance, so difficult was travel at the time.

In those days Mr. Lynch must have been a striking figure in the sparsely settled frontier country.

Friends who had known him for many years recalled him as he came to the hills wearing a Prince Albert coat, an English cravat and derby and a Van Dyke beard.

REMARKABLE VITALITY

For about 14 years Mr. Lynch has made his permanent home near Marvel cave. He owned about 1000 acres of land stretching out over the hills and hollows about the cave. Always his dream was to develop the region. He labored carving out a road across the hills and boosting for the region.

Mr. Lynch had a remarkable vitality which in spite of his age, enabled him to guide and explore in the cave. Seldom a day passed that he did not go into the cave if only to get a bucket of water from the cool spring many feet below top of the ground and known as "The Fountain of Youth."

Mr. Lynch was inventor of an exhaust and draft ventilator which he sold and which is used in buildings and railroad cars, but which brought him small financial return. He also was writer of several poems which attracted favorable comment from prominent critics.

Mr. Lynch was a friend of Harold Hell Wright, author of "The Shepherd of the Hills." When that writer came to the region for a visit about seven years ago he presented the cave owner with the khaki suit which he wore while writing "The Winning of Barbara Worth." Wright also did some sculpture from clay in one room of the cave now called "Wright's studio."

Always interested in literature, Mr. Lynch numbered among his friends and acquaintances many prominent writers of this country and Canada.

NAME IN BAD REPUTE; COURT GRANTS CHANGE

Setting forth that their name is too long for convenience, that it subjects them to ridicule and that it has been brought into disrepute by the frequent arrests of the former husband and father, Mrs. Math Edna Tourtellotte and her children, Kathleen and Effie Jane, were granted permission yesterday to change their surname to Williams. This is the maiden name of the mother and former wife of Ray Tourtellotte.

The order authorizing the change of the name was made by Judge Guy D. Kirby shortly after a petition asking the change had been filed in the office of Guy C. Gibbs, clerk of the circuit court.

WILLIAM H. LYNCH AT REST IN HILLS

Under Lone Pine in Shepherd Of Hills Cemetery Famed Character Is Buried

In the little Shepherd of the Hills cemetery where a lone pine softly whispers and the rugged hills loom in the distance through their veil of misty blue, William Henry Lynch, owner of Marvel Cave, was buried yesterday afternoon.

Friends and neighbors throughout the Shepherd of the Hills country and surrounding towns gathered at the home near Marvel Cave about 10 miles from Reeds Spring, for the funeral services. These were held with a talk, prayer and songs. A final song was sung and brief services were held at the little cemetery about one and one-half miles away.

Rev. Crockett Speaks

Vision—the vision of one who labors for an ideal—was the theme of the talk given by the Reverend John Crockett, pastor of the Tabernacle Presbyterian church who quoted from Proverbs, "Where there is no vision the people perish."

The Reverend Crockett quoted from the Watchtower of the Daily News in which Edward Eddy spoke of the love of Mr. Lynch for Marvel cave as "a love in the grand manner." He read the following portion of the Watchtower:

"People have said that it was queer for a man to spend nearly half of his life, and he lived for 80 years, in the embrace of that fantastic love. I do not think it was queer. I think it was a passion, a strange bizarre passion, perhaps, but nevertheless a passion to me strange and wonderful. He did not always live with his cave after he had come to know it—but it called him back, called him back relentlessly and irresistibly, called him at increasingly frequent intervals until he came to give himself entirely to it. And, as true lovers are wont to do, they become as one."

Old Friends Pallbearers

Miss Dalay Livingston and Harry Nelson of Springfield sang, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. C. McCord, also of Springfield.

Pallbearers were Col. Tom Loy, of Aurora, Mr. Conrad, of Aurora, F. A. Morey, of Branson, Mr. De Groff, of the Shepherd of the Hills community, Mr. Hammer, of Springfield, and Homer Johnson, of Notch, which is the postoffice near Marvel Cave.

In the little cemetery—called the "Evergreen" cemetery in the days when it was established—also are buried other famous persons of the Shepherd of the Hills region.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Ross known as "Old Mag and Aunt Mollie," of the novel by Harold Bell Wright, Levi Morrill, known as "Uncle Ike" and Truman S. Powell, who opened up the Marvel cave a few years before Mr. Lynch bought it, and who served as a member of the Missouri state legislature, are all buried in the shadow of the lone pine.

DR. HARRIS, PHYSICIAN HERE 12 YEARS, IS DEAD

Dr. E. A. Harris, 42, prominent negro physician of Sedalia, who practiced in Springfield for about 12 years and was well known here, died at the home of his brother, Dr. Mayo Harris, in Toledo, Ohio, Tuesday night. Funeral services will be conducted at Sedalia at 2 30 o'clock this afternoon.

Dr. Harris was born in Sedalia, and attended the George R. Smith college there, completing his professional education at the Universities of Kansas, Cincinnati and New York. While in college he was a famous athlete, and member of two championship football teams.

He did conspicuous service in Springfield during the epidemic of influenza before the war, and his tireless efforts saved many lives of both negroes and whites.

He returned to Sedalia to practice about a year ago.

His death was due to pneumonia. He is survived by his wife and two small children.

Dr. Harris was a member of Truth Lodge, No. 151, Masonic Order, A. F. and A. M., and of the Knights of Pythias Lodge No. 77. The worshipful master of Truth lodge, Langdon Smith, and members of the official staff, left last night for Sedalia to attend the funeral. Besides Mr. Smith, those who went were James Burns, N. C. Armstrong, Henry Barker, Clarence Wilburn and Andrew Kelley.

Springfield Youth Is Freed of Murder Charge at Mt. Vernon

Aaron Stratton, Springfield youth, charged with having murdered Waymond Connor, 19-year-old Mount Vernon youth on the night of June 2, was acquitted at Mount Vernon when Judge Charles H. Henson sustained a demurrer at the close of the state's testimony.

Connor was beaten to death by bandits during a carnival. His body was found on the High school campus at Mount Vernon and several persons were held in connection with the crime. Stratton's attorneys claimed only circumstantial evidence had been submitted by the prosecuting attorney resulting in Judge Henson sustaining the demurrer.

"Big Thursday."

One more day in division No. 1 of the circuit court in which the ever-changing, ever-changeless story of domestic unhappiness and desire for freedom from the bonds grown irksome was unfolded.

And when Judge Guy D. Kirby, late yesterday afternoon, adjourned the day's session, 47 default divorces had been granted.

A GREAT ATTRACTION

The court room was crowded to capacity and the air stifling when Judge Kirby mounted the bench at 9 o'clock and Sheriff Alfred Owen rapped for order. Every seat was occupied and the passageway at the side of the room was occupied by a standing crowd that extended into the lobby.

After the first case on the docket had been called and passed, Eliza Forrester, 17 years old and hesitant, took the stand. Wearing a black hat faced with pink, a yellow flowered dress with gray silk hose and shoes, she told quietly the story of heartbreak, abuse by her husband, Herbert Forrester, of his failure to support her and of his final desertion. Here was the first decree granted.

The case of Gladys E. Burk for a divorce from George N. Burk was called, and it was found that service had not been obtained in time for trial at this time.

"Your honor," Val Mason, attorney for the defendant, remarked, "Perry Allen is trying to beg me into accepting service and I don't feel in the mood to do it."

"Then we'll pass the case," Judge Kirby announced, "and give you lawyers time to get together."

"SURE"—AND IT'S HERS

Mila M. Wells was testifying in her suit for a divorce from Homer Wells.

"Are all the charges you make true?" Judge Kirby asked.

"Yes, your honor," she answered.

The decree was awarded to her in contrast with recent "Big Thursdays," not a woman with rolled hose appeared among the plaintiffs. Lavi E. Clinkenbeard, however, set the style for the husbands when he took the stand.

He was awarded a divorce from Sadie L. Clinkenbeard, and the custody of the children was awarded to the mother with the provision that the father should have the privilege of visiting them at reasonable times.

An attractive blond, wearing a check black felt hat, a green crepe dress, silk hose of a delicate bamboo shade and gray shoes, entered the court room as Pauline L. Cheek and left as Pauline Morris when she was awarded a divorce from Charles L. Cheek and her former name was restored. During their slightly more than a year of married life, her husband not only had been abusive but had failed absolutely to support her although able to do so, she testified.

PICTURE OF VIVACITY

With the same snapping black eyes and ready responses that marked her as a witness in the trial of Warren Street for alleged attempted robbery last spring, Ruth Shoopman took the stand to testify in her suit for a divorce from Forrest Shoopman.

Attired entirely in white, jaunty felt hat, silk dress, silk hose and immaculate shoes, she was a picture of vivacity as she testified.

Following her, an elderly woman mounted the stand as a character witness.

"How long have you known the plaintiff?" Judge Kirby asked.

"Thirty years," she replied, and even the judge joined in the laugh at the thought that anyone could have known the girl who had just left the stand that long.

"You got acquainted rather early, didn't you?" Judge Kirby asked as the laughter subsided.

The witness explained by saying she thought she had been asked how long she had known the family.

The plaintiff was awarded a divorce and her former name of Ruth Warf was restored.

JUDGE DEMANDS SILENCE

Low-toned conversation had become a buzz a few minutes later and Judge Kirby surveyed the crowd.

"If this talking isn't stopped," he announced, "I'll dismiss court and hear no more cases today."

The threat was effective. The conversation stopped.

"What's your wife's name?" Judge Kirby demanded as Fred K. Woodall was testifying.

"Woodall," the witness replied, and, noticing the smile on the judge's face, hastened to add: "Irene."

He was granted a divorce.

"You mean your wife made you so much trouble in four months time that you couldn't stand it?" Judge Kirby asked after H. O. Newberry had testified that his wife nagged and quarreled with him continually and then refused to live with him longer.

"Yes," the witness answered, and was granted a divorce from Irene Newberry.

"She just left me," Albert Mason, elderly workman, answered quietly when asked why he desired a divorce from Lela S. Mason.

He was awarded the decree.

WITH BABY IN ARMS

Frail and pathetic as she mounted the stand with a babe in her arms, Navis Burgess told the story of indignities heaped upon her by Joe J. Burgess.

Judge Kirby awarded her the decree and also the custody of the child.

"He was so cross and so cranky I just couldn't stand him," Edna E. Nightwine testified in her suit for divorce from Homer Phillip Nightwine.

She also charged nonsupport and abandonment, and the decree was granted her.

Thula May Brown was testifying in her case against John W. Brown.

"How did he treat you?" Judge Kirby asked.

"Well, he wasn't so mean to me, but he associated with other women."

"That's enough," Judge Kirby remarked, and awarded her the decree.

Alexander Moore of Ash Grove, testifying in his suit against Parmelia Moore, said they had been married in 1911. Then he added:

"She left me a year ago the sixth of last April."

"Default decree," Judge Kirby announced. "There's no use to waste time in hearing character wit-needed."

MYSTERIOUS CONDUCT

After testifying that his wife "wouldn't stay at home, that she got mall under an assumed name, and conducted herself in a mysterious manner," David A. Cremeens obtained a divorce from Amanda Cremeens.

"Let's hurry along," Judge Kirby urged, after granting Virgie Eaton a divorce from Walter Eaton and awarding her the custody, of the three children.

A minute later, Louise Baker, who testified that her husband had failed to support her, that he had abused her and once had threatened her life with a revolver, was granted a divorce from James K. Baker.

"My father gave him $100 to make a payment on our furniture and I haven't seen him since," Inez Wilson testified in her suit for divorce from Onus Wilson.

She was awarded a decree.

"Aren't we through yet?" Judge Kirby demanded, after having granted George L. Forsythe a divorce from Clara Forsythe. "I don't see how there can be any cases left."

"There are only 16 more, Judge Kirby," Miss Irene Harper, deputy circuit clerk, replied.

"BLACK FRIDAY" OBSERVED WITH 24 DIVORCE DECREES

"Black Friday" was observed today in division two of the circuit court, with Judge Warren L. White granting 24 default divorce decrees.

Matrimonial knots were severed with less rapidity today than yesterday, when Judge Guy D. Kirby granted 47 decrees in division one of the circuit court during the morning session and increased the total this morning to 55 by granting an additional eight.

The hearings this morning moved more slowly, due to the cross examination of the plaintiffs and witnesses by the court. The courtroom was again crowded to capacity with interested spectators, parties to the suits and the character witnesses.

Few humorous incidents occurred during the morning session to vary the monotony of the steady grind of the divorce machinery.

Default decrees were awarded in

from Ava." Clara Clickner testified in her suit against James Clickner, "and he took $30, all the money I had, and went to Kansas City. He was going to send for me, but he never did." She obtained a divorce.

During the call it developed that Joseph E. Earls was a defendant in two divorce suits, brought by Virginia Lee Earls and Elsie Earls.

"One was a mistake," Jerry B. Penton, attorney for one of the plaintiffs, explained, "and the other isn't necessary because Earls got a divorce in Joplin."

Declaring that her husband is a "rascal within the meaning of the law," Nona Z. Patterson obtained a divorce from Edward F. Patterson and the custody of their child.

After Flo Curtis had testified in her suit against James R. Curtis, Judge White remarked:

"I want to think a little as to whether I have any jurisdiction. This plaintiff came here from Polk county on August 15 and filed her suit here on August 18. I'm not sure that she can be regarded as a citizen of Greene county. During the afternoon session, Judge White heard further evidence and granted the decree, awarding the mother the custody of a minor child.

DIVORCE SESSION OVER JUDGE KIRBY TURNS TO KIDDIES

Homes Found for 14 Youngsters During Juvenile Court Hearing; Many Nameless Waifs Are Made Happy

LARGE ROOM RESEMBLES BUSY DAY AT BABY SHOW

Scene Entirely Different From Day Before When Scores Crowded Corridor Seeking Divorce Decree

FOR two days there had passed through the court house cordors a seemingly endless procession of husbands and wives who had found marriage a burden—those one ambition was the severance of those ties that failed ingloriously to bind “until death do us part.”

And spectators of that pageant watched and wondered. Are there any homes left? Are there any longer to be found couples happy in their marriages—content in mutual love—upon whose hearthstones the fires of love and kindness still burn?

The answer came yesterday in another procession through those “corridors” and that answer—no uncertain terms—was “yes.”

14 TOTS MADE HAPPY

When Judge Guy D. Kirby adjourned the session of juvenile court yesterday morning, 13 couples had been made happier. Fourteen little folks—some of them nameless waifs for whom the future had held little hope—found new happiness the welcome sunshine of contented smiles henceforth to be their own.

The 13 deeds of adoption had been passed by Judge Kirby in that brief session.

In the same court room which the day before had seen too little of children took on yesterday all the assurance of a busy show. Fond mothers and mothers proud as fathers could be—and with the little folks all wearing “their very best Sunday clothes” for this very special occasion, occupied the benches.

LITTLE BABE ABANDONED

Ada Bateman, only five months old and abandoned by her mother in Dade county, it was said, passed her home with Mr. and Mrs. E. Jones of Ash Grove. An infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jones had died shortly before the abandoned child was found. Mr. Jones, knowing of the loss of the Jones home, took the infant home, thinking it might lessen his grief.

Perhaps that grief was not lessened—for only parents know—but the helpless little child found a welcome in the home and now, since she has been adopted, can have a future so much brighter than it was.

Little John Robert Jones displayed no interest in the hearing as to his adoption, for he is only five months old. He lay in a large maroon basket, prettily lined and trimmed with fluffy blue material while Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hall of 10 South New avenue, who were to become his legal parents, testi-

CHILD IN BASKET

When the adoption was approved, the new father took the basket on his arm and he and the mother left the room. Judge Kirby looked up. "He's got the baby in a basket?"

Judge exclaimed in amazement. "John Robert, with his light hair, blue eyes and chubby face, rested his head on the dainty blue pillow and didn't care."

A four-year-old youngster appeared not the least disconcerted as he received his third name and went through his second adoption. Here Herman Estell, he and a twin brother were separated when he was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph William Bloom and the brother was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Alford.

But now the twins will be together again, for Mr. and Mrs. Alford liked their son so well they persuaded Mr. and Mrs. Bloom to let them have Herman, and he is now Harold Herman Alford.

MUST MEET REQUIREMENT

Only a legal requirement yet to be complied with halted the adoption of Leora Chandler and George Alford, and that will be met within a few days, it is expected.

Life, for them, has not been altogether pleasant. After their mother died, the father, it is claimed, did not take care of them and they were placed in the Children's home here.

Learning of this some weeks ago, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Overturf of Tulsa, Okla., parents of their mother, came to Springfield and took them to their home. Only the fact that the grandfather had not signed the adoption deed prevented the adoption yesterday. His failure, it was said by court attaches, was due to an oversight.

Meanwhile, the father, Robert B. Chandler, confined in the county jail here, faces a charge of bigamy.

Mrs. W. R. Keller of 1008 South Pickwick avenue, while visiting her sister, Mrs. Jay Brito, was attracted to a pretty two-and-a-half-year-old child whose mother, deserted by the husband and father, was employed in the Brito home.

DESERTED BABE ADOPTED

With a hard struggle ahead, the mother finally consented to the adoption of her child by Mr. and Mrs. Keller, so Irene Golden is now Nancy Jane Keller.

Other adoptions were:

Eight-year-old Lawrence Glazier by Mr. and Mrs. Isaac D. Brown, who reside on a farm in Polk county; Verna Hazel Kincade by Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Barber of Lebanon; Edith Lee Cissna, 17, by her stepfather, W. T. Wadley of 1851 North Broadway; Nelson Richmond, now Margarelle Fay Snyder, by Mr. and Mrs. George L. Saxler of Joplin; Helen Eugene Welch, now Roncoe Audrey Robertson, by Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Robertson of 1642 East Commercial street; Virginia Rose Smith by Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Godfrey; Ingles Infant by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jones; George Lee Owens by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Vogt, who reside north of Springfield, and Deverne L. Newton by Mr. and Mrs. Orval Ash of 1113 West Springfield.

This attractive bride was Miss Margaret Lackland Stoddard and has visited in this city several times. The wedding was attended by a number of Springfield guests.

Cowgill-Stoddard.

The grounds of "Twin Oaks," the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Stoddard at Barcozie were the setting for a wedding in which society of this city, as well as of Kansas City and Barcozie, is intensely interested, when Miss Margaret Lackland Stoddard, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard of Kansas City and Barcozie, was married to Mr.

Henry Stevens Cowgill, Jr., of Carthage, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The nuptial event was an al fresco affair with the colorful garden and the giant oak trees as a background. The Rev. Robert Nelson Spencer of Grace and Holy Trinity Episcopal church of Kansas City read the service before a flower-banked altar at the end of an aisle, carpeted in white, which began at the south portico of the house. Down this aisle which led between a double row of Chinese cedars came the bridal party to strains of Lohengrin wedding march.

The matron of honor, Mrs. William D. Orthwein II, of St. Louis, and the brides-maids, Mrs. Byron Spencer and Mrs. Frank Everts of Kansas City, Miss Marie Neville of Los Angeles, Cal., Miss Miriam Whitney of Montclair, N. J., and Miss Claire Garneau of St. Louis, were the bride's attendants. Mr. Cowgill was attended by Messrs. William B. Pollock, Youngstown, O.; Robert McKean, Jr., Pittsburgh, Pa.; Frank B. Hayne, Jr., New Orleans, La.; Cornelius Clarke, Dallas, Tex., and William Drake and Joseph McMillan of Carthage.

The bride's period gown in old Spanish design, fashioned of ivory wedding ring satin, had a full length skirt from which a train was formed. Old rose point and duchesse lace, a heirloom, made the lace yoke and insets in the long sleeves. The bridal veil of magnificent old rose point and duchesse over tulle was caught at the head with pearls and orange blossoms. Mrs. Cowgill carried a sheaf of calla lilies. Mrs. Orthwein wore a replica of the bride's dress satin with a large hair braid hat and slippers to match. The gowns of the bridesmaids were also in the same style and were in autumn shades, ranging from pale yellow to deep orange, and their large hats of hair braid had long velvet streamers in matching shades. Their bouquets were formed of snapdragons and asters. Slippers in matching shades were worn with the frocks. An orchestra played throughout the afternoon and the two-course supper served to the 300 guests in the garden. The bride's table was covered with a banquet cloth of Italian filet and held decorations of sweetheart roses forming a double heart in the center. Place cards were brides in tulle. The guests were served at small tables surrounding the bridal table. The wedding cake, a huge formation in four tiers and elaborately hand-decorated, was placed on a separate table and was topped by a bride costumed like Mrs. Cowgill and with tuck pieces of silver falling from satin ribbons held by swans. At the entrance of the grounds the arriving guests were served punch from a large cake of ice filled with grapes which was placed under a bower of smilax and roses. The orchestra was screened by amilax. Fall flowers in baskets suspended from the trees added beauty.

Following the ceremony the bridal party joined Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard, who were assisted in receiving the guests by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cowgill, Sr., of Carthage, parents of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Harmon of Kansas City, who formed a colorful group under the trees. Mrs. Stoddard's gown was of beige lace and chiffon with a hat of rose and beige satin slippers. Mrs. Cowgill, Sr., wore yellow chiffon and Mrs. Harmon wore ciel clue chiffon.

The honeymoon trip will take the young couple to Hot Springs, Va., and New York, and they will be at home in Carthage after October 15. The bride's going-away gown was of beige, satin and duveten, a "Mangane" model and a coat furled with beige ermine, small hat and slippers of suede, completed the costume. The wedding was a notable event and was attended by many distinguished guests. Springfield guests were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Moore and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Barbour and Miss Mary Ellis Barbour. Many pre-nuptial functions have been given for this popular bride since the announcement of her betrothal last spring. Mrs. Cowgill was educated at Ogontz school, Philadelphia, with travel and study in Europe in company with her mother, following her debut in Kansas City. Mr. Cowgill is a graduate of Yale.

THEN HE'S NO PHANTOM

Going to Oklahoma to Work Fails to Write and Killing of Another Leads to Unusual Confusion

A WIDOW and her five children sat in their little farm home some 25 miles east of Thayer, Mo., last Friday night and mourned for their husband and father, but a few days buried in the family plot of a nearby cemetery.

The children hovered near their mother, sensing her despondency and grief when a sudden noise at the door attracted their attention. The door swung open and the man for whom they grieved, stepped into the room!

The mother stifled a scream as she clutched her children to her breast and shrieked back in her chair.

Wiley Fry, 35, of Thayer, Mo., "barber" just one week before, walked toward his wife, and then realized that a ghost would not walk. And then she appeared in the doorway of Constable Barney McCourtney, of Thayer, completely reassured her and she sank into the outstretched arms of her husband.

But this most unusual story has its beginning almost one month ago when Fry informed his family that he had planned a trip to Oklahoma where he hoped to get work. For some time nothing was heard of him.

HOW ERROR STARTED

Then the erratic hand of fate pointed to Tulsa, Okla., and on the night of Sunday, Sept. 2, a man was shot by officers during an attempted holdup of a drug store there. For several days the unidentified body of the bandit lay in the morgue. Then officials, by use of finger prints, identified the man as Jack Lamar, holder of long police records, who had served two terms in penitentiaries.

But fate again scrawled an uncertain hand across the web of events and relatives of Fry learned that the body of a man, whose identity had not conclusively been established, occupied a slab in the Tulsa morgue. Fearful of what they might find on that slab, a brother and a sister of Fry journeyed to Tulsa, viewed the body and positively identified it as that of their brother.

BRING BODY HOME

In the face of such positive identification Tulsa officials released the body to the relatives and dropped investigations tending to prove that it was the body of Lamar, the criminal.

The body was returned to Thayer and thence to Jobe, Mo., some 25 miles east of Thayer, where it was buried in the Fry family plot last Thursday afternoon, September 8.

Just eight days later, Fry dropped from a train in Thayer. Citizens of the town stared in undiluted amazement at the seeming apparition as Fry walked along the street until he encountered Barney McCourtney, constable, whom he had known for years.

"AREN'T YOU DEAD?"

"What's the matter here, Barney?" asked Fry, "what have I done? These people all know me but you'd think I was a crazy man walking up the street the way they're acting now."

Instantly realizing that the real Wiley Fry stood before him instead of lying beneath six feet of soil in the Jobe cemetery, Constable McCourtney replied:

"You're supposed to be dead, Wiley. You can't blame people for being afraid of you. I was myself, and I'm still shaking. We had a funeral service for you last Thursday and buried you in the family lot but I'm sure glad it wasn't you. And you can bet your folks will be glad."

PLAN TO EXAMINE BODY

Constable McCourtney then offered to go with Fry to his home and the two left as soon thereafter as possible for the Fry farm.

The family has decided that the body of the criminal will be allowed to remain in its grave on their plot for a few more days, awaiting possible action on the part of Tulsa officials. If it has not been taken after a reasonable time, it will be removed and reburied in the Potter's field at Thayer.

Funeral services for Mrs. Blair Bedell, 70, who died Saturday at her home, 113 East McDaniel street, will be held at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon at the residence with burial in Lincoln Memorial cemetery under direction of the Alma Lohmeyer Funeral home.

Miss Esther Marie Tornquist, sister of the bride, served at bridesmaid, and carried a bouquet of red and white dahlias. Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served to about fifty guests.

The couple left for a week's visit with friends and relatives in Kansas City, Lawrence, Kan., and Verona, Mo., after which they will go to Brooklyn, N. Y., where Mr. Peterson is connected with the New York Central railroad.

MAN THOUGHT DEAD RETURNS TO HIS HOME

Happiness again reigns in the home of Wilfred Fry, young Oregon county farmer, who reappeared at his home Friday night after a month's absence, during which time the body of an alleged bandit killed during an attempted holdup at Tulsa, Okla., had been identified as Fry and was taken to his home for burial.

Oklahoma officers identified the bandit as Jack Lamar, notorious police character, but gave up the body to a brother and sister of Fry, who went to Tulsa and "positively" identified it as that of their brother.

So positive were members of Fry's family of the identification, that Mrs. Fry at first believed her husband to be a ghost when he walked into their home Friday night.

What disposition will be made of the body buried in the family plot has not been determined.

McClinton of Diamond, Mo., yesterday afternoon at 8 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Maddox of this city attended the couple. Mrs. Maddox is a sister of the bride. Mrs. McClinton wore a street frock of black georgette with matching accessories. The Rev. Ira Karr, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Diamond, performed the services which was attended by Miss Norine McClinton, sister of the groom; Mrs. Ira Karr and the parents of the bride and groom in addition to the attendant couple from this city. A four-course dinner followed the wedding ceremony and places were laid for 10. The bride presided and cut the large bridal cake. The centerpiece for the table was fashioned of a wreath of ferns and pink begonia blooms. The young couple, both of whom have been residing in Joplin, will be at home in that city after September 25. They plan to visit several nearby points before returning to Joplin where Mr. McClinton is employed by the Southwestern Creamery company of Joplin.

KILLED BY FRISCO FREIGHT CAR HERE WHILE THEY WERE ON SPUR BUMPER

Dead Two Days When Bodies Discovered by Crew Going For Car That Had Crushed Them Fatally

LETTERS FROM MOTHER ESTABLISH IDENTITY

Tell of Pathos in Arkansas Home, With Indication They Were Returning in Answer To Her Plea

LIFE crushed slowly from them by a ponderous box car as they slept Saturday night on an earth on railway bumper, the bodies of two youths were found by a Frisco switching crew at 7 o'clock last night near the intersection of Chase street and Lyon avenue.

The bodies were lying side by side on the bumper which ends the Frisco spur alongside the railway's record file building. Their crushed chests told how they met death sleeping on the bumper to which they failed to hear an approaching switch engine and was ground against the bumper as the engine crew shunted a car against it.

It is believed they have been identified positively as Harry and Calvin Smith, brothers, who were hurrying to their home in Winslow, Ark., after spending the summer working in Detroit, Mich.

PATHOS IN LETTERS

Letters which established their identity told also of a loving mother in Winslow, pleading with her boys to come home, of a father who is too ill to support his family and of the daily drudgery which the return of the youths was expected to end for their mother.

They had been dead for nearly 48 hours when they were found last night. Members of the switching crew who discovered the bodies were shunted into place about 10 o'clock Saturday night, and then it had been found that they had been dead for some time. The bodies were found in bad condition.

They had been in the spur for several days in the spur.

KILLED AS THEY SLEPT

Railway officials said they believed the youths had been "waiting" their way home on freight trains and stopped near the north side yards Saturday.

Finding a resting place in the shade of a box car on the switching spur, they said, the youths probably decided to spend the night there, lying down together on the gradual slope of the mound which ends the spur. A switching crew, bringing a car of coal onto the spur late Saturday night, sent the boxcar lumbering against the mound. The youths probably died a few minutes after the car struck them, either of internal injuries or suffocation.

A telephone call to the chief of police at Winslow revealed that a Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith live there. It is believed they are the parents of the youths.

A bill of lading for a valise shipped from Detroit on September 14 to Winslow by Harry Smith, found on the body of the older boy, served to further establish their identity.

OTHER CLUES FOUND

Letters from "Mrs. W. A. Smith, Winslow," were found on the bodies of both the youths, one addressed to Calvin Smith and the other to Harry Smith. In these she begged her sons to come home, and urged Harry to stop in Winslow for a short time if he insisted on "going on to the oil fields."

Both the youths appeared to be of a good family, though they were dressed for the road. One wore an expensive wrist watch and a small gold pin, a tiny airplane model set with stones. On the body of this youth were found two mail money order receipts for money believed to have been sent to his mother. The wrist watch had stopped at 1.30 o'clock.

A driver's license issued in Detroit was found on the body of the older boy, and the description given of him on it was seen as an accurate description of the youth found here. It gave his Detroit Address as route 5, and described him as brown-haired, blue-eyed, and 21 years old.

A LETTER FROM HOME

The poverty of the youths' family is plainly but graphically told in the following letter from Mrs. Smith, found on the body of the youngest boy:

"Winslow,

"September 9.

"Dear son: I will once more write you to let you know I am not quite dead yet. Calvin, I want to know why you don't write home any more. Your father is not well—he hasn't been since you left home. I pray that you are feeling fine.

"We just finished working in the fields a day and a half, making $1.75, and are going to pick again today. Please, Calvin, you and Harry come home and help take care of the crop. Two boys you know here are going to the oil fields about the 15th of next month, so you boys come home and help your father with the crop, and if Harry wants to go on he can go to the oil fields with them. Your father is not able to take care of the crop by himself. Hurry and do come home. Answer, please.

Love to you—from your mother and all at home to Calvin."

The bill of lading for the valise indicated that the youths decided to return home immediately, packing their clothing and shipping it on ahead of them on September 14.

FATHER WILL COME HERE

Another letter from Mrs. Smith, found on the body of the youth believed to be Harry Smith, contained a plea similar to that found in the other letter.

A pipe carried in a breast pocket of one of the youths was smashed to bits by the crushing weight of the box car. An old large copper coin carried by the other bore a dent apparently made by the car.

Reached by telephone at Winslow last night, W. A. Smith, a farmer, declared his two sons had left home early this summer, and that he believed there was no question of the identification. He will come to Springfield today to claim the bodies and complete funeral arrangements. The bodies lie at the Anna Lohmeyer funeral home.

FIND MANGLED BODIES OF TWO BROTHERS HERE

Harry and Calvin Smith, Winslow, Ark., Meet Death on Frisco Tracks.

KILLED AS THEY SLEEP

Youths Apparently Had Gone to Sleep on Bumper at End of Switch Spur.

Crushed by a Frisco freight car as they slept, the bodies of Harry and Calvin Smith, brothers, of Winslow, Ark., were found by a switching crew at 7 o'clock last night near the intersection of Chase street and Lyon avenue.

The chests of both youths, lying side by side on the bumper which ends the Frisco spur alongside the railway's record file building, were horribly crushed. They were believed to have been killed Saturday night when the car, loaded with coal, was cut loose from a train and backed into the siding.

Identification Made.

The bodies were taken to the Alma Lohmeyer Funeral home where a letter and other articles found on them gave their identification. A letter bore the signature of their mother and was mailed at Winslow, Ark.

After talking with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith of that town, Coroner Jewell E. Windle said that almost positive identification was certain. The parents of the boys will come to Springfield, probably arriving at midnight tonight, to take charge of the bodies.

Inquest Tomorrow.

An inquest will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow, Coroner Windle announced.

ed.

It is believed that the youths had been "bumming" their way and were en route home, as the letter found on one of the boys written by his mother urged them to come home as she needed aid. Railway employees believe that the boys stopped on the spur Saturday night and comfortably situated themselves for a few hours rest.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Marx were honored last night at a dinner at the Colonial hotel on the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding. Sixty guests attended the dinner, arranged by local friends of the Springfield pioneers, among them being a score of relatives of the couple, who came here from several cities to participate in the anniversary celebration.

Ignace Glaser acted as toastmaster at the speaking program which followed the banquet, and in a short talk paid his compliments to Mr. and Mrs. Marx.

Complimentary talks also were made by Dr. Herbert Spits of Nashville, Tenn., a nephew of Mrs. Marx, Irving Schwab of Springfield, and others. The guests joined in informal dancing afterward.

Mr. and Mrs. Marx were the recipients over the week-end of many messages of congratulations from friends in other cities, as well as the personal felicitations of Springfieldians, and of many gifts to mark their golden anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Marx have lived in Springfield with the exception of a few months, all of their married life, coming here nearly 50 years ago from Louisville, Ky. Mr. Marx engaged in the clothing business after coming here and is one of the city's business pioneers.

Miss Wingo Married To E. Savage

ONE of the prettiest home weddings of the season took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wingo, 317 South Pickwick avenue, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon when their only daughter, Freda Mabel, became the bride of Mr. Ewing Savage, son of Mrs. Lee Savage, 643 South Market avenue.

The ceremony room was attractive with its color motif of pink and white which was developed with roses and dahlias in large art baskets. An improvised altar of greenery was arranged before the fireplace, forming a lovely background for the bridal couple, while the stairway was outlined with amilax and asparagus fern. The other rooms were adorned with a profusion of garden flowers emphasizing an arrangement of many colors.

Previous to the ceremony Miss Irma Rathbone sang Schubert's "Song of Love" and "Deep in My Heart" from "The Student Prince." As the bride descended the stairway and entered the ceremony room on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, Mendelssohn's wedding music was played by Miss Nell Ross and Mrs. Enola Calvin Handley, who also softly gave Caoman's "At Dawning" during the service, which was read by the Reverend J. W. Paerren, pastor of St. Paul Methodist Episcopal church.

The bride's gown was of white satin studded with rhinestones and a large rhinestone buckle and with silk fringe finishing the rippling cape. With it she wore a head dress of orange blossoms and slipper of white satin. Her bouquet was of white roses and baby breath in shower effect. Her going away frock was of delph blue Jersey, with black trimmings, with hat and other accessories of harmonizing colors.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held and a two-course luncheon was served in the dining room. The assisting guests were Miss Louise Rosenbauer, Miss Margaret Banks, Miss Louise Martin, Miss Helen Reed and Mrs. Victor Dorrell. About 35 close friends of the two families were present.

The bride is a graduate of the Senior High school and attended Drury college two years. She is a member of Tau Phi Gamma sorority and very popular among the young members of the society set. Many showers and parties have been given in her honor during the past few weeks.

Mr. Savage, who is a graduate of the Senior High school and a member of Delta Phi Omega fraternity, is associated with the Lee Savage painting company.

Mr. and Mrs. Savage left last night for a motor trip through southern states and upon their return will be at home at 317 South Pickwick avenue.

Garden flowers in art baskets and vases decorated the other rooms of the home. Miss Irma Rathbone sang Schubert's "Song of Love" from Blossom Time and "Deep in My Heart" from the "Student Prince" presiding the entrance of the bridal couple. NO BLAME FIXED IN DEATH OF TWO Coroner's Jury Finds Arkansas Brothers Were Killed Accidentally.

A coroner's jury empaneled at 10 a. m. today by Coroner Jewell E. Windle to investigate the deaths of Harry and Calvin Smith, brothers of Winslow, Ark. whose crushed bodies were found Monday night near the old banana plant at Chase street and Lyon avenue, gave a verdict that their deaths were due to an accident and that no criminal responsibility could be laid.

The verdict follows: "We the jury find that Harry and Calvin Smith came to their deaths by internal injuries caused by being struck by a brake beam of Frisco record car No. 12626, the said car being kicked onto a dirt bumper, located on the south side of the old banana plant, Chase street and Lyon avenue. Evidence shows that accident could have occurred Saturday, September 17, or more probably Sunday, September 18. Evidence further shows that death was an accident and no criminal responsibility can be laid for their deaths."

W. A. Smith of Winslow, Ark., father of the youths, Harry, 29, and Calvin, 18, arrived in Springfield last night to take charge of the bodies. Pending word from two sisters and Harry's wife, the bodies will remain at the Alma Lohmeyer funeral home. Burial will be at Winslow.

FATHER CLAIMS MANGLED BODIES

Mother Dangerously Ill in Arkansas As Result of Apoplexy Stroke

The bodies of two youths who met death under a Frisco box car here Saturday night were sent yesterday to a grief-torn home in Winslow, Ark., a home where their aged mother lies dangerously ill.

W. A. Smith, father of the youths, confided to Coroner Jewell E. Windle before leaving Springfield for Winslow yesterday that his wife had suffered a stroke of apoplexy a short time before word of her sons' deaths was received, and that he feared the shock of this tragedy would cause her death.

No question of the youths' identities remains. They were Harry Smith, 21, and his brother, Calvin, 16, both of whom were on their way home from Detroit to aid their family, now in almost destitute circumstances. They were killed as they slept on a Frisco spur bumper here Saturday night, a box car crushing them to death against the bumper, and their bodies were not found until Monday night.

Seven of nine children in the Smith family have died in recent years, Mr. Smith said. He owns a small farm near Winslow, and has worked for many years with the Frisco there.

A coroner's jury called by Mr. Windle decided yesterday morning that the brothers' death was caused by an unavoidable accident, and that no one could be held criminally liable. The bodies were sent to Winslow for burial by the Alma Lohmeyer Funeral home.

ONE of the most delightful of all the answers to this enigmatic question, "What is Love?" is contributed by Mrs. Jake Marx, Engle-nook apartments, whose romance really inspired the contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Marx (shown above) celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding Monday, and in the evening were guests at a banquet at the Kentwood Arms hotel, attended by about 70 of their friends. The room and tables were beautifully decorated with golden blossoms, and a great golden wedding bell hung over the heads of Mr. and Mrs. Marx. Mr. Ignace Glaser acted as toastmaster, and congratulatory speeches were made by several of the guests, including Irving Schwab and Dr. Herman Spitz, Mrs. Marx's nephew from Nashville, Tenn.

From her more than 50 years experience being "in love," Mrs. Marx says:

"Love is a flower of fairest hue,
But stormy waves surround it;
And bitterly must a woman rue
The hour she does not find it."

FORMER REPUBLIC MAYOR IS DEAD

Henry Hayes Came to United States From Germany When Two Years Old

Republic's village blacksmith, Henry Hayes, friend and confident of townspeople and farmers for many years and a former mayor of Republic, died at his farm homelate Saturday night after a long illness.

Born in Amsterdam, Germany, in 1841, Mr. Hayes came to the United States when he was little more than two years old. The family moved immediately to a farm in Southwest Missouri, and young Hayes grew up near Republic.

Well Known Character

For 27 years he occupied a position in Republic much like that of Longfellow's famous character, spending most of his time in his blacksmith shop. About 15 years ago Republic's political leaders put their heads together and decided the village blacksmith was the logical man for mayor. He was elected easily.

Ten years ago ill health forced him to retire from his shop, and he moved to the George O'Bryant farm three miles east of Republic, where he died. He is survived only by two children, Jerome Hayes of Springfield and Mrs. Ella Ward of the home address.

Buried Today

Funeral services were conducted at the farm home at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon with the Rev. E. C. Bechler of Springfield delivering the funeral sermon. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery at Republic under the direction of the H. E. Thurman Undertaking company.

A Starne ambulance brought the injured woman to Springfield, where she was given medical attention. The three women are staying at 316 South National boulevard, where they obtained rooms later.

All Strangers Here

All are strangers in Springfield. They were en route from Tulsa to Dexter.

Mrs. Kelgore was badly cut and bruised, with especially severe cuts on one leg and wrist, and her back was injured so that she was unable to rise or stand last night. The physician attending was unable last night to say how dangerous the injury to her back is, and said that it might take a day or more to determine its extent. He does not, however, believe that it will be permanent.

Other Driver Unknown

The car was badly damaged. The driver of the car which struck it is unknown. The other two women, and a fourth passenger, a beautiful white Russian wolfhound, were not hurt.

Box, Disregards Warning And Is Knocked Down

With both sight and hearing impaired by old age and able to walk only with the aid of a heavy cane, I. H. Leverton, 82-year-old veteran of the Civil war, last evening hobbled directly in front of a street car as he attempted to cross Beaville avenue to the postoffice, sustaining injuries which proved fatal at 2 o'clock this morning.

Stopping his car as quickly as possible, David Ferguson, motorman, called a Klingner ambulance and the injured man was rushed to the Springfield Baptist hospital where an examination revealed that his injuries included a badly crushed skull. An emergency operation was performed by Dr. Wilbur Smith and Dr. Lee Cox and a large piece of the skull, which had been forced into the brain, was removed.

BEGGED SISTER COME

Homeless since the death of his wife 15 years ago, the aged veteran had written a letter to his sister, Miss Mary Leverton, of Reynolds, Mo., in which he urged that she move to Springfield and make a home for him, explaining that he planned to buy a small home here. It was to mail this letter and to take a little exercise that Mr. Leverton had walked from present boarding place at 505 West Walnut street.

Coming to Springfield a few months ago, the veteran had taken a room at 430 South Market avenue where he lived for only a few weeks, later moving to the home of Alford Baker, at 505 West Walnut street.

Little was known about the aged man since his impaired hearing prevented his taking any great part in the conversation at his boarding places.

DISREGARDED WARNING

He had seemed in excellent spirits last evening when he left his room, according to Mrs. Baker, who explained that he had entered their living room and jested with them regarding the payment of his rent. He seldom even talked with them, she said, remaining in his room much of the time.

When he explained that he wished to walk to the postoffice to mail his letter, Mr. Baker urged him to deposit the letter in a nearby box rather than to attempt the walk, but the veteran insisted that he needed the exercise.

AGED MAN DIES FROM INJURIES

I. H. Leverton, Civil War Veteran, Run Down by Street Car.

Attempting to cross Boonville avenue to the main postoffice late yesterday afternoon, I. H. Leverton, 82-year-old Civil war veteran, was run down by a street car and suffered injuries which proved fatal at 2 o'clock this morning in the Springfield Baptist hospital, where he was taken shortly after the accident.

Immediately after the man was struck by the street car, Motorman David Ferguson called a Klingner ambulance and the injured man was rushed to the hospital. An examination by Dr. Wilbur Smith and Dr. Lee Cox revealed that he had suffered a badly crushed skull. A piece of the skull, which had been forced into the brain, was removed by the surgeons in an effort to save his life.

Homeless since the death of his wife 15 years ago, the aged veteran had written a letter to his sister, Miss Mary Leverton, of Reynolds, Mo., in which he urged that she move to Springfield and make a home for him. He was on his way to the postoffice to mail this letter when struck by the street car.

Mr. Leverton had lived at the home of Alford Baker, 508 West Walnut street, since coming to Springfield several months ago.

About 75 friends and relatives were in attendance. An attractive background for the ceremony was formed by the altar decorated with two baskets of pink bride's roses and a candelabrum holding five white candles which were lighted at the beginning of the service. A color motif of green and white with touches of pink was used throughout the church. The illumination from a large electric cross fell on the path of the bridal procession. Miss Thelma Epps sang

"O Promise Me" preceding the ceremony and was accompanied by Miss Vivian Tucker, pianist, who played the wedding march from Lohengrin (Wagner) for the procession. Rev. J. A. Roper officiated. The bride entered the room on the arm of her father who gave her away. She wore a gown of white frost crepe with a full-length veil caught at the head by a wreath of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was formed of rosebuds and baby breath. The bride's attendants included Mrs. Roy Hornbuckle of Kansas City, matron of honor, who wore blue stain, Miss Velma Martin, maid of honor, who wore peach georgette and lace, and the bridesmaids, Misses Beulah Wells, Ruth Kelley and Elizabeth Gibson, whose taffeta gowns were of apricot, pink and orchid, respectively. The bouquets carried by the attendants were of rose buds and baby breath. Six shepherds' attendants, in pink taffeta dresses formed an arch at the steps of the altar by holding their white shepherd's crooks with large pink bows over the procession. These were: Misses Enid Thomas, Mildred White, Ellen Gamblin, Virginia Hartwell, Lena Solomon and Mary Day. The groom was attended by Mr. Louis Truman, brother of the bride, who acted as best man and the groomsmen, Messrs. Tom Crabb, George Hall, Jr., and Ned White. An informal reception at the home of the bride's parents followed immediately after the service. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Davidson of Dallas, Tex. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. W. G. Davidson, mother of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hornbuckle of Kansas City. The young couple left immediately after the reception for Wichita Falls, Tex., where they will be at home. Mr. Davidson is an employe in the Wichita Falls post office.

TRAGEDY

Family Isolated by High Waters, New-Born Baby Weakens and Dies With Simple Burial at Home

HOW a farm family near Rogersville, shut off from the rest of the world by flood waters, welcomed the birth of a baby and then helplessly watched the child weaken and die for lack of medical care was revealed yesterday in the monthly report of Coroner Jewell E. Windle.

The tragedy occurred during recent high waters which left the farm home of the Wancy family, two miles north of Rogersville isolated for nearly two weeks. Telephone lines were down; there was no way of communicating with friends on neighboring farms or with physicians in Rogersville.

No Help Possible

The child was born without medical care. For three days it was as well as any babe. Then it sickened, and for six days it grew weaker and weaker. The stranded family could do nothing. On the ninth day the child died. There was a simple family service, and the baby was buried on the farm near the home where it was born.

First word of the strange tragedy was received here when Coroner Windle noticed an unsigned death certificate. He went to Rogersville and learned the story.

Baby Starves to Death

Coroner Windle's report for the month of September told, too of an infant born in a hovel here, dying six weeks later of "nothing less than starvation." Another child in this family, the report revealed, also is near death from lack of care and proper food.

During the month there was one suicide here and one death of acute alcoholism. Two youths were killed in a railway accident; an aged man died of injuries suffered when he was struck by a street car; and two other sudden deaths were blamed to heart disease.

Will Place Marker

On College Campus

Near Indian Mounds

THE thirteenth of the University club's historical markers, erected to identify and commemorate sites of historic significance in and near Springfield, will be dedicated on the Drury college campus this month with interesting ceremonies. The program is still tentative.

The marker will be placed amid the ancient mounds which remain in the open space between the Clara Thompson music and the president's home, about half-way between McCullagh cottage and Benton avenue.

The top of the marker will be inscribed "University Club Historical Marker, No. 13." The west faces will bear this legend: "These mounds mark the site of prehistoric Indian homes. They are believed to represent the remains of thatch-roofed circular adobe huts similar to those built by the Mandan Indians. Thousands of similar house mounds are widely scattered in groups throughout the Ozarks, but are being widely destroyed by agricultural agencies. Their builders antedated the Osages. Meager evidence indicates a non-warlike and agricultural race, probably effaced either by pestilence or by warlike enemy tribes. Erected by Drury college, October, 1927."

The east face of the marker will read: "100 feet east was the old St. Louis road which once ran diagonally through the Drury college campus from southwest to northeast. The remains of the earthworks thrown up to fortify this road in the early days of the Civil war can still be obscurely seen on the southwest corner of the campus."

Dr. E. M. Shepard is chairman of the University club committee on historical markers, which is cooperating with a committee from the college in making the dedication arrangements.

Army Man Dies

Sergeant William A. Casey, 79 years old, a retired first sergeant of the United States army, died in West Plains following a long illness. Mr. Casey was taken to West Plains from Monteer, Mo., 10 days ago in such critical condition that no hope was offered for his recovery.

Sergeant Casey was born in Dublin, Ireland, his father being a city engineer there. However, the spirit of adventure, which probably was responsible for his long army career, cropped out at a very early age, and he ran away on a ship while a lad of eight. Four years later he returned home, but after a few years ran away again. Still later he joined the English army, serving four years. Then he came to America and joined the United States army, his loyal service covering a period of 30 years. He served in the Spanish-American war, and had five years of foreign service with the United States regular army.

BLIND BOONE, PIANIST, DIES

Noted Negro Musician's Career Is Ended After Heart Attack.

WARRENSBURG, Mo., Oct. 5.—(A. P.)—Death has ended the career of Blind Boone, Negro pianist, who won fame in many countries for his ability to reproduce a piece of music after hearing it only once.

Born in a federal army camp near Miami, Mo., Boone gained his love of music from his father, who was a drum major in the northern forces during the Civil war. Brain fever caused the loss of his eyesight when he was six years old, and when his father placed him in school he ran away and organized a boy's band at St. Louis.

He later attracted the attention of John Lang, director of a Sunday school orchestra at Columbia, Mo., and under Lang's management toured the United States and Europe for 36 years. Ill health forced Boone's retirement last June, soon after the death of Lang.

Boone died here last night after a heart attack. He was 63 years old. Burial will be at the pianist's home at Columbia.

About three years ago Blind Boone made his last trip through this section of Missouri. At that time he announced that he probably would never appear in concert in Springfield again. Not only was Boone well known in Springfield but also in practically every small town in this section of the state. He frequently gave concerts in high school auditoriums in the smaller towns, donating a portion of the box office receipts to the school library.

One of his most interesting piano interpretations was "The Marshfield Cyclone." In all his concerts in this section of Missouri, he was sure to be requested to render this number. Boone played entirely by ear and one of his favorite features was to have some musician from the audience to play a difficult selection, if possible one that Boone had never heard, then he would repeat the selection without skipping a measure or beat.

50 WEDDED IS HERE GIVES HIS RECIPE OF LOVE

Church Orchestra Director, Married Month Today, Says
Age Is no Barrier.

"OLD ENOUGH TO KNOW"

Wife Won in Whirlwind Courtship 8 Years Older Than Step-Daughter.

Affectionately embracing each other, William J. Adams, 50, and his young bride, 16, today celebrated the first month of their married life by giving a "love recipe" on how middle age can be happily wedded to youth.

Possessing all the ardor of a bridegroom of 20, Mr. Adams, orchestra leader at the Campbell Avenue Methodist church, who wooed and won his bride after a brief courtship of two months, declared:

"Age makes no difference in true love. There is no reason why a couple with 10, 20 or 30 years difference in their ages should not be blissfully happy if they love each other.

"Men with their youth behind them generally have better jobs than 'flaming youth,' therefore are better able to provide a home and the things for a home which every woman wants and which makes them contented.

Old Enough to Know.

"And besides, I was old enough when I got married to know whether I wanted to get married."

"And he's much younger than his years, don't you think," interjected Mrs. Adams, who had been eagerly awaiting her husband's arrival from work.

Marjorie, 8, Mr. Adams' daughter by a former marriage, came onto the porch while Mrs. Adams was talking and laid her head in her youthful step-mother's lap.

daughter's head.

Mrs. Adams' father, who is only 10 years older than his son-in-law, calls Mr. Adams "son."

Mr. Adams, who is a broom worker, intimated he was comfortably fixed by saying he could "quit work any time."

"Too many homes are smashed by financial trouble," he said. "A man should not marry unless he is able to support his wife."

Mrs. Adams sings in the choir at the Campbell Street Methodist church.

Their romance began with a meeting at a social function which members of the choir and orchestra attended.

They reside at 1006 Chase in a home which Mr. Adams had furnished and had waiting for his youthful bride when he led her to the altar.

METHODIST-REARED MAN WAS FOUNDER OF FIRST BAPTIST

Braxton McCord Roberts, long since laid to rest in the Roberts cemetery near Springfield, was the founder of the First Baptist church here which celebrates its seventy-fifth anniversary this month.

The church was organized in 1852, in a little wooden shack near the site of the present building.

Mr. Roberts came to Missouri when he was 14 from North Carolina, his native state. He has been called the father of the Baptist cause in Southwest Missouri.

In his early youth he was a Methodist, but differed with the beliefs of that church and became a Baptist early in his career.

His last speech was made for the Southwest Baptist college at Bolivar, in which he was intensely interested.

B. L. Roberts, 650 Delmar street, is a grandson of the church founder.

The First Baptist church was organized as a mission of the Liberty church, which still is in existence, being located about ten miles from Springfield on the Fair Grove road.

DIES IN HOSPITAL AFTER RECEIVING MYSTERIOUS HURT

Ambulance Bringing Farmer to Hospital Here Overturns
Truck in Collision and Young Suffers Broken Arm

BUT CRASH NOT BLAMED FOR AGED MAN'S DEATH

Apparently Fatally Injured While at Work in Field Operation is Performed Here Without Success

A FEW hours after the ambulance which was speeding him to hospital here crashed into a Ford truck at the corner of Broad avenue and Division street, S. A. Smith, 67 farmer who lived near Fair Play, died last night in St. John's hospital of a fractured skull.

Leater Moore, 11-year-old son of H. T. Moore of Elwood, an engine of the truck which collided with the ambulance bearing the aged farmer suffered a broken arm.

About 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning, Mr. Willard B. Erwin, driver of the ambulance, was driving on his home road near Fair Play, when he could tell little of the accident which caused his death. He said, the ambulance was plowing in a field a quarter of a mile from the house, and the next he remembered he was lying on the ground, his head against a sharp rock. It is believed he either suffered a stroke of paralysis or was jerked down by the team, his head striking the rock.

TRIES TO AVOID CRASH

An ambulance of the White Star undertaking company at Bolivar, driven by Willard B. Erwin, was summoned to take the injured man to St. John's hospital here. He lost consciousness shortly after 11 o'clock.

Doctor Brown of Fair Play, Mr. Smith's wife and a son came to the ambulance with him. The drive from Bolivar to Springfield was made quickly, and the ambulance was nearing the hospital when a Ford truck driven by H. T. Moore of Elwood loomed in front of it suddenly at the corner of Broad avenue and Division street. Erwin tried vainly to avoid a crash, but the front of the ambulance struck the rear end of the truck and turned it over. Moore's 11-year-old son was thrown from the truck and his arm was fractured. A Herman Lohmeyer ambulance took him to St. John's hospital.

OPERATION IN VAIN

Erwin, driver of the Bolivar ambulance, said here last night that the ambulance was traveling not more than 20 miles an hour at the time of the crash. The force of the collision was not enough to move his patient on the ambulance cot, he said, declaring he is certain the accident did not complicate Mr. Smith's injuries.

The Bolivar ambulance proceeded immediately after the crash to the hospital, where an attempt was made to save Mr. Smith's life by an operation. He died at 8 o'clock.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed. The body lies at the Herman Lohmeyer funeral home.

Miss Patterson To Wed Saturday

Denton, 316 South National avenue, will take place next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the South Avenue Christian church, with the Reverend E. F. Leake reading the service.

The bride will be given in marriage by her father and she will be attended by Miss Josephine Umbarger, while Mr. Denton will be attended by his brother, Mrs. Charles Denton.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast will be served to the bridal party and a few very close friends at the Johnson tea room and the newlyweds will then leave for a wedding trip through southern states, returning to this city to make their home.

Miss Patterson has been honored by a large number of pre-nuptial affairs since the announcements of her engagement.

MY MISTAKE

I CERTAINLY pulled a "boner" in this column the other day when in a character sketch of A. M. Haswell, who is doing such wonderful work in writing novels of gripping interest though well past 80 years, I stated that he was a Manxman by birth.

I setting me right as to the place of his nativity, Mr. Haswell writes: "I was born much farther from the U. S. than the Isle of Man, in the old Baptist Mission house in Maulmain, Burma, East India. But I am in no way a heathen Chinese either, for my father was born in the old battle town of Bennington, Vermont, and my mother in the adjoining county of Berkshire, Massachusetts. So if there is a full blooded Yankee on earth I am one. Also I voted without being naturalized. Three of my great grandfathers, and four of their sons fought in the battle of Bennington and at Saratoga. My father's father, Anthony Haswell was in Washington's army at the siege of Boston; the battles of Brooklyn and White Plains; and was one of those who marched barefooted in the snow to cross the Delaware and capture the Hessians at Trenton, and then at Princeton. After that he was chosen by the committee of safety of Massachusetts to edit the Worcester Spy, the hottest liberty paper in the colonies, and he was only 21 years old at the time. The first on father's side came to America in 1639, and on mother's side in 1645. So I have not a drop of blood in my veins that is not pure American-Yankee. I must tell you, too, that Anthony Haswell, at the close of the Revolution, loaded his wife and baby, and his hand press and font of type, into a two-wheeled cart and drove through the woods from Springfield, Massachusetts, to Bennington, Vermont, where, in 1783, he established the Vermont Gazette, which he and his sons printed until 1852."

I hope Mr. Haswell doesn't feel hurt at the way I balled up his first appearance on earth. He would still be a man of sterling character and courage and an American to the core even though he had been born in the furthestmost corner of the world from this land of the free and home of the brave.

I doubt not that if his country needed him A. M. Haswell would promptly enlist in the assertion of its honor and the glory of its flag.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH 1869-1991

Springfield, Missouri
by George T. Harper

I. ORIGINS IN ENGLAND, LEIDEN, The MAYFLOWER, PLYMOUTH COLONY

As the Reformation developed, dissent took corporate form in the Puritan movement, of which Congregationalism was the most radical wing. John Robinson, one of the most influential early Congregational leaders, fled in 1609 to escape persecution in England and settled at Leiden in the Netherlands, with the exiled congregation from Scrooby in Nottinghamshire. For twelve years his congregation enjoyed peace under the Dutch, but he was haunted that their children would not grow up as English people. A large part of the company sailed for America in 1620 aboard the historic MAYFLOWER. The democratic ideals of their Plymouth colony were the cornerstone of the structure that gave the U.S. its free state, free schools, and free social and political life.

By 1640, there were 20,000 at Massachusetts Bay from England and with the "Plymouth People" joined forces to establish an all-powerful theocratic government. They produced some powerful leaders such as Jonathan Edwards and George Whitefield. In the education field, this church founded Harvard in 1636, Yale in 1707, Dartmouth in 1769, along with Williams, Amherst, Bowdoin and Middlebury. At Plymouth, they began work immediately with Native Americans and by 1674 there were 4000 "praying Indians" in New England with 24 native preachers. While some did come with the western movement, Congregationalists had a virtual monopoly in New England. (1)

II. THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, SPRINGFIELD 1869

In 1869 Springfield, Missouri had grown to about 5000 and was slowly getting over the old animosities of the Civil War. The railroad was building toward Springfield, having reached Rolla. While Springfield's original settlement had been largely from Tennessee, there were people coming in anticipation of the railroad. The original town had been built around the Public Square. In 1869, there was a brash new competitor. This came about because thrifty businessmen were cool to suggestions of eastern builders that the town donate cash as well as right-of-way for the oncoming railroad. Springfield civic leaders thought it inevitable that tracks would be built through their thriving town. Why spend unnecessary money? Result of this miscalculation was North Springfield. The rival town, a mile and a quarter north of the original settlement, was centered around a broad business street called Commercial, parallel to the railroad right-of-way. The Frisco Depot and the Ozark Hotel, owned by the railroad company were there, along with several business houses huddled along Commerical Street and residence streets radiated from it.

Newcomers in North Springfield were concerned about schools. Several of the more prominent former easterners were members of the Congregational Church. At that time the only religious congregations north of Olive Street were two Negro fellowships--Pitts Chapel Methodist and Washington Avenue Baptist. Actually the Congregational Church began in 1868 with a mission Sunday School started by Rev. James Haswell Harwood, who was a graduate of Williams College and whose ministry had mostly been in the Chicago area. The class met in a carpenter shop on the southeast corner of Boonville Avenue and Chestnut Street. The Sunday School grew and it was decided to organize a church, which was done February 14, 1869 when eleven persons formed The Union Evangelical Church of Springfield, as it was first called. The charter members were Rev. and Mrs. James H. Harwood, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Harwood, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred P. Harwood, Mrs. Eliza Haswell Harwood, Miss Katherine S. Harwood, Stephen Burton, Charles J. Burton, and Dr. Edwin Taylor Robberson. Dr. Robberson was one of the town's leading physicians and had large land holdings. Today's Robberson Avenue and Robberson School were named in his honor. He and Charles Harwood became associated in laying out and developing North Springfield, mostly from land already owned by Dr. Robberson. Rev. James H. Harwood, organizer of Union Church was a vigorous young man who had had successful pastoral and evangelistic work in the north, including active participation with D. L. Moody in his work in Chicago. He traveled all the time, organizing Sunday Schools and churches. From Lebanon on the northeast, to Carthage and Neosho on the southwest, and Lamar and Barton City on the northwest, he was known and welcomed in every little frontier village and farm home, and his beautiful gray saddle horse, Ranger, was known to every child along the rugged route.

In 1868, a 21-year-old cousin of the Harwood brothers, Alanson Mason Haswell, followed the family to Springfield. His diligence as historian was of inestimable value to the church, and many of his newspaper articles have been preserved. He described the day of his arrival in Springfield, September 15, 1868. "Along St. Louis street as we came in we saw several neat two-story residences, the homes, as I learned later, of the Keets, Shephards, Hollands and other of the old families of the place. But aside from those homes there were far more one, two, and three room cottages. There was a big livery stable (where the Colonial Hotel stood) at the corner of St. Louis and Jefferson streets. I wish I could make you see the Square as I saw it that day. The street which the stage had come in on was a perfect sea of mud, worked up by the ceaseless procession of wagons bringing freight from the railroad; the street was bad enough but the Square was ten-fold worse. In the center was a circular cistern, for a water supply in case of fire. The circular top of this cistern was the auctioneer's block where many a slave had been sold."

Such was the Springfield which the organizers of First Congregational Church were helping build into a city. The little carpenter shop soon became too small with 38 members and 100 in Sunday School. On March 10, 1870, they voted to purchase two lots at the northeast corner of Jefferson and Locust Streets in North Springfield for a church to be known as First Congregational. To obtain larger quarters, the group moved diagonally across the streets into a former millinery shop to await the new building. There on August 10, 1870, was organized the Springfield Association of Congregational Churches--Lebanon, Lamar, Barton City, Carthage, Neosho, and First. At that meeting a tremendous step was taken by the six little churches. They adopted a resolution: "Resolved that a committee be appointed to take into consideration the founding of a Congregational College, somewhere within the bounds of this association." This was the birth of Drury College, first liberal arts college in a vast area of the Ozarks. The first passenger train on the future Frisco tracks to North Springfield pulled in, April 21, 1870, about two months after First Church observed its first anniversary. Mr. Haswell described the new town as "perhaps thirty small frame business houses, strung along on either side of an eighty foot space labled "Commerical Street." Of the business houses, he wrote, thirteen were saloons, and every saloon had an annex of a gambling den or worse. There were probably 300 people who had built houses and settled more or less permanently.

The new white frame home of the First Congregational Church was dedicated May 21, 1871. The $5000. cost had been contributed by members and was debt free. The building was 40 feet wide and 70 feet long, with a tall bell tower. The membership had reached 56 and was having a great impact on the spiritual and cultural life of the city. Among the pillars of First Church were Frederick S. Denny, Frederick Ball, A.B. Conkling, Dr. William M. Smith, and Henry T. Rand, all deacons. Others included Mr. & Mrs. W.L. Hardy and daughter, Georgia; and Mr. & Mrs. P.W. Bahl and daughter, Madge.

III. CHURCH AND COLLEGE

The idea of a Congregational College for southwest Missouri seemed important to members of First Church. Naturally, they hoped it would be established in Springfield. A College, however, was not founded without difficulties. There was a determined effort of several Ozarks towns to obtain the institution. Neosho and Carthage especially, were strong contenders. Springfield won over Carthage by one vote.

Drury College was founded in 1873. North Springfield was now claiming 1000 population and Old Town had about 6000. Rivalry between the two was intense. The proposed college was the first thing on which they united. Even then, the cooperation of business leaders outside the church hinged on an agreement that the college would be located between the towns. It was a substantial link toward the eventual merger of the two Springfields in 1888. (2)

There were four transplanted New Englanders who brought about the beginning of Drury College: James H. Harwood, home missionary and evangelist; Charles E. Harwood, real estate developer with legal training; Nathan J. Morrison, a college administrator; and, Morrison's friend Samuel F. Drury. James H. Harwood (1837-1932) was mentioned above as organizer of Union Church which became First Congregational Church. Charles E. Harwood (1830-1933) older brother of James H. Harwood was considered the second founder of Drury College. He was born in Bennington, Vermont and studied law after his graduation from Williams College. He was a Judge in Springfield and would have much to say and contribute when it came time to find a college campus. The third "founder" of Drury College was Nathan J. Morrison (1828-1907) who was the first President of Drury College. He received a Doctor of Divinity from Dartmouth College in 1853 and in 1884, he received a Doctor of Laws degree from University of Missouri. The fourth "founder" was Samuel Drury (1816-1883) who was born in Spencer, Massachusetts. In 1838, he came to Otsego, Michigan and established a country store which became a successful venture. Dr. Morrison was teaching at the new Olivet College and he and Mr. Drury became close friends. Later, when Dr. Morrison was in Missouri and was working toward establishing a new college, he presented the need for start-up money to Mr. Drury. He asked for $25,000 on the condition the school should bear his name. After that, Mr. Drury frequently visited Springfield to attend board meetings and to make additional gifts to the new school. On September 25, 1873 the first classes began at Drury College. There were thirty-nine students on opening day. Later records indicate that of those enrolled on opening day, fourteen eventually earned their baccalaureate degrees. They were: eight women, Anna and Emma Grigg, Mary A. McCluer, Cora J. Perkins, Alice Porter, Georgetta Hardy, Hattie S. Robberson, and Aurelia Harwood; there were six men, A.P. Hall, J.T. White, Joseph Shepard, McClain Jones, Edward F. Townsend, and Walter B. Robberson. (3)

IV. The MIDDLE YEARS

At one time there were five Congregational Churches in Springfield; First (1869-1991), Pilgrim (1884-1908), Central (1883-1899), Swedish (1886-1918), and German (1885-1919). On January 10, 1899, First Church merged with Central Church, with a total membership of 440. Two lots were bought at Benton Avenue and Calhoun Street for the new brick church across from the Drury College campus. It had a steeple, stained glass windows, a pipe organ, and a beamed Gothic ceiling in the sanctuary.

Unfortunately, 40 years later, the beautiful church was destroyed by fire, in 1952. Dr. James F. Findlay, president of Drury College offered Stone Chapel as a meeting place. The community responded to the church's loss with gifts toward a new building. The cornerstone for the new church was laid July 21, 1953 and the dedication was December 13, 1953. However, there had been a great difference of opinion about the type of building--traditional or functional. The building committee sent out a ballot and 156 voted for the functional plans; 73 voted for New England architecture. (4)

V. The CONCLUDING YEARS to 1991

The last pastor, Rev. Nelson Parnell (1974-1991), still lives in Springfield and updated the writer on more recent history. With a decline in membership, the church disbanded in 1991. The First Congregational was a progressive church and took on causes which sometimes were controversial. They chose to pay taxes to Springfield, supported the American Civil Liberties Union, supported food stamps and helped Crosslines with food and clothing for those who needed the help. They supported scholarships for Drury College students and helped in other educational causes.

The church building and parsonage are now owned by Drury College. Dr. John Moore, president of Drury College, informed the writer that the college has a "Covenant Relationship" with the United Church of Christ (successor to the Congregational Church) and has the same relationship with the Disciples of Christ (Christian Church). While the college is completely independent, they maintain a special relationship with the former parent church groups. He stated the Drury College Mathematics Department now occupies the former church building. The parsonage now serves as a Bed and Breakfast for guests of Drury College.

Nosier Kin to Ozarks.

While not a native born son of the Ozarks, Loyd Nosier's parents are Ozark people, having been residents of Aurora a number of years ago. Mr. Nosier's mother's maiden name was Miss Ida White and is well remembered, having visited in Aurora this summer, and while there was the guest of Mrs. Offie Taylor, who is a cousin of Mr. Nosier.

Loyd Nosier was the film editor of "Ben Hur," and next to the director of a picture, the film editor has the next most responsible position. In editing "Ben Hur," Mr. Nosier was given the task of taking scenes from 1,600,000 feet of film that was taken in filming "Ben Hur," and cutting this to 12,000 feet. The Los Angeles Times has this to say about the task given to Mr. Nosier:

"The task of cutting and editing 'Ben Hur' fell into the hands of the most youthful film editor that cinema land harbors today. When one understands the importance of taking thousands of feet of film that were shot of every sequence and finally bringing the picture down to its present stage as did Loyd Nosier, who is credited with accomplishing this seemingly impossible feat, one can readily see what a gigantic task he had.

"Mr. Nosier started his film work eight years ago as office boy for Fred Niblo, the director of 'Ben Hur,' and has risen to his present position to a salary of $500 a week in this time. He is 28 years of age."

Stone 10,000 Years Old Is Dedicated at Drury

"Early Man Liked the Ozarks," Says L. E. Meador at Ceremony for Unveiling of Campus Marker; Relic Is a Link With the Past.

"The mound upon which this stone is placed is all that remains of the house of some chieftain of the Neolithic age," said L. E. Meador, in an address at the dedication ceremony of the historic marker placed on the Drury college campus by the University club this afternoon.

The marker, a simple stone, with explanatory inscriptions, rests on a mound beneath a clump of evergreens between Wallace hall and the music hall.

Miss Alice Thrasher, registrar of Drury college, unveiled the marker, and T. W. Nadal, president of Drury college, made an address in which he accepted the marker on behalf of the college.

Dr. John Pearson gave the invocation. The ceremony followed a luncheon of the University club served in the domestic science room at Burnham hall.

Mr. Meador made a historical address in which he explained the old trails and the Indian mounds, both of which the marker commemorates. "This stone," he said, "marks the achievement of the past. It tells of a race too busy with life to leave written evidence of its existence. But life consists in action, in functioning, and we are therefore interested in what the men did. The house which once stood here was made some 10,000 years ago by perhaps the second race of men to inhabit Greene county."

According to Dr. L. M. Sheppard, the best living authority on the history of the county, there are about 10,000 of these mounds in Greene county. The mound dwellers built the walls of their houses of adobe, the roofs of thatch.

"We know nothing about the men and women who lived in them, but much is coming to be known of the part the men played in the long and interesting story of civilization," he said. "It was the men of the Neolithic age that first made the rough patterns of all the essential tools which make industry possible today, the wheel, the wedge, the arch and the screw. Much of our civilization of today we owe to unknown men and races of the silent past. This marker represents our unpaid debt to these men."

"This stone marks an old trail, one of many old trails over which men have traveled for centuries to one of the most attractive places in the Ozarks," said Mr. Meador. "Two of the most important of these trails crossed at Springfield, one, the Wilderness road, leading from the Osage settlement to the Osage river at Berryville, Ark.; the other, the Virginia warriors' path, leading from the Atlantic to the Rocky mountains. There were other trails made by the Indians in coming to this hunting ground. One of these, the trail to St. Louis, became important during the Civil war and earthworks were thrown across the trail to protect it. The remains of these earthworks can still be seen on the Drury campus, and this stone is placed here also as a memorial to the action and men of this later day."

Mrs. Nancy Ann Price, who today planned to celebrate her 101st birthday November 27. She is pictured above at her spinning wheel.

FEARED DEATH HAD HER IN '33; - NEARS 101 NOW

Oldest Woman in Ozarks Primps for "Birthday Picture."

HER SISTER IS NINETY

"I'm a Wee Bit Old-Fashioned, But I Think Knee-
-skirts are terrible."

Mrs. Mary Price, oldest woman in the Ozarks, who thought her "time had come" way back in 1838, when she saw the sky empty its stars onto the ground, today began plans for celebrating her 101st birthday.

But this year she wants a quiet one. One thousand helped her celebrate reaching the century mark last year at her quaint cottage tucked away on a 200-acre farm northeast here.

At 101, she speaks authoritatively on the subject of longevity.

Here's her recipe:

Drink plenty of good water—like that found throughout the Ozarks.

Eat wholesome and substantial food—nix with the rich delicacies.

Go to bed at a reasonable hour.

Don't use tobacco and by all means leave intoxicants alone.

Read the Bible and enact its teachings.

That's all.

The wonderful little old lady was found today, sitting in her favorite 100-year-old rocking chair in front of

90 Attends 100.

"I feel fine for a woman of my years," she said. There was a twinkle in her eyes as she said this.

"Will I let you take my picture?
Well, I suppose there's no harm in it, and besides I've had too much experience to let it flatter me. Wait until I get 'fixed up,' though."

"Elizabeth," she called, "get that little box of mine over there in the wardrobe."

Elizabeth is Mrs. Price's sister, Mrs.
Elizabeth Sumner, who is 90 years old herself. She takes care of her elderly sister—doing the cooking and other small household duties. It is remarkable to note how she flits about the house with such great ease.
She handed Mr. Price her prized box.

The little old lady nimbly lifted the lid and searched for fully two minutes. Suddenly a smile played about her countenance and from within the box she removed a fancy lace hood.

Done Fancy Hood.

"I couldn't think about having my picture taken without this," she remarked, as she tied a neat bow beneath her chin.

It has not been definitely decided whether or not a celebration will be planned for Mrs. Price on her birthday. Mrs. Price declares that she had much rather spend the day in peace and quiet.

"It's nice to have all my children—sons, daughters, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and even great-great-grandchildren—gather here, but the excitement is too great," she said.

Mrs. Price was born at East, Tenn.,
McMinn county, November 27, 1823.
Her parents were Mr. and Mrs.
George Washington Simms. Her father being of a roving nature, he traveled with his family extensively throughout the unsettled country.
From McMinn county the family moved into Georgia. They were there only a short time when he loaded the family and belongings into a wagon and drove to Bedford county, Tenn.

Saw Sky Rain Stars.

Later the family moved near the Cumberland mountains and lived there about four years.

In 1833, Mrs. Price saw an unusual light, opened the door and saw stars falling just like drops of rain.

She called her older sister to the door and they thought the end of the world had come.

The Price family moved into Missouri when Mrs. Price was but 10 years old. They drove through the iron mining region south of St. Louis on Greene's ferry boat. At that time there wasn't a railroad from St. Louis to Springfield. The entire journey was made with ox-drawn wagons. If they traveled 10 miles a day they considered this a record. Mrs. Price declared.

Wild Game Abounded.

At night they would find a place to camp and cut trees down to make a warm fire.

Mrs. Price said there were plenty of wild turkeys and other game then. Her father killed several on the journey here.

The wagon train reached Greene county, April 10, 1837. While coming through Springfield it was necessary for Mrs. Price's father to pick his way around stumps and trees—even in the exact lot where our public square is located today. Land was selling at $1.25 an acre in Springfield at that time.

Mrs. Price remembered distinctly the place where they first located—Hickory Barrens—and their neighbors were people by the names of Headlee and Steele.

There were eight Headlee boys and seven Steele girls, she remembered, and seven of the Headlee boys married the Steele girls. Mr. Headlee wished for another Steele girl so that his son, John, could marry her.

Mrs. Price, formerly Nancy Ann Simms, was married December 14, 1848, to Terry Griffin Price. Her uncle, Briggs Simms, performed the ceremony.

The most wonderful thing in her life was to watch the growth of Springfield. When she first saw the town it was nothing, figuratively speaking.

There was a long log cabin, logs not even hewed, used as a boarding house. The hotel was run by Nick Smith.

There was one dry goods store and a small grocery store owned by Robert McKimany.

Saw City Grew Up.

Daniel B. Berry married a niece of President James K. Polk. Mrs. Berry made a dress for Mrs. Price at one time. When the Democrats nominated Polk for president, people would cry out, "Don't vote for Polk, he's poison," having reference to the polk weed, the "grand old woman" recalled.

In 1848, Mrs. Price's brother, Robert Simms, 17 years old, left home to go to the gold fields in California. It was at the time the peaceful religious life of the Spanish mission was disturbed and destroyed by the fierce onset of American progress. A man named Marshall found a piece of metal which proved to be gold. In a few weeks it was discovered that gold was abundant throughout California. Mrs. Price recalled.

It was finally known all over the civilized world that in California there were fields of gold that could be worked by anyone who could buy a miner's outfit, a pick, shovel and a tin pan.

At least that was the news that reached Springfield and caused many to join in the mad rush to the coast, she said. People traveled on foot, on horseback, in wagons, in carts. Mrs. Price said they never heard anything of Robert. He was given up for dead. Fifty years passed, and one day to their surprise and great joy, a friend informed them of Robert's whereabouts. He attended the World's Fair in St. Louis in 1904. He thought all of his family was dead. Learning that his two sisters were here, he paid them a visit in 1905. He died a short time after the visit.

Relative Founded Joplin.

Mrs. Price had an uncle named Harris Joplin. He was a Methodist preacher. He founded a small settlement where Joplin now is. He put up a commissary house to keep provisions for the Cherokee Indians. He was so liked by all who knew him that they named this settlement Joplin, Mo.

"I don't visit very much," Mrs. Price said. "I've been taking The Leader since the first publication. It keeps me posted on all the events of the day—clappers, unsuccessful marriages, murders and most everything.

"Girls' smoking?" she pondered. "Well, I most certainly don't like it—and those short skirts are terrible. But then of course times have changed and I might be a wee bit old-fashioned. I'm for the younger set having a good time—but in the right way."

UNIVERSITY CLUB DEDICATES MARKER ON DRURY CAMPUS

Site Marks Former Homes of Mound Dwellers of Neolithic Age, Said To Be 10,000 Years Ago

BUILT on a mound which, supposedly, was the home of the chief tribe of Ozark mound dwellers of the neolithic age—some 10,000 years ago—a marker was yesterday dedicated by the University Club in commemoration of the event. The marker, of white stone, and uniform with others placed about the city on historic spots, was set slightly north of the Music hall.

"The mound dwellers were the second race of people to inhabit the Ozarks," Prof. L. E. Meador told the University Club members, "the cave-dwellers being the first. The mounds were circular, from 15 to 30 feet in diameter, and there were at least 10,000 in Greene county alone. There are a great many on the Drury campus. We have but a few bare facts concerning these people, but we know this much: they were the makers of the first rough tools, the wedge, the wheel, the screw, the lever — tools that modern industry could not do without."

The marker accidentally serves a double purpose—the other being to mark the spot where one of the most famous trails leading into the Ozarks crossed the Drury campus.

"The Ozarks were particularly attractive to the Indians, as the country possessed several large springs, besides being an ideal hunting ground. As a result, numerous trails into this country were established by the Indians, some of which later developed into great highways and other routes for railroads. Many of these trails began near the Atlantic seacoast, and led as far west as Kansas. One of the most traveled of these trails crossed the campus at the very spot where the monument now stands."

Miss Alice Thrasher of the English department at Drury college, unveiled the marker.

'Uncle Job' Newton At 102 Is Thrilled by Long Auto Journey young" today.

"Uncle Job" Newton, who is approaching his 102nd birthday, decided Sunday that he wanted to make a business visit to St. Louis.

The pioneer wholesaler, who boasted one of the first "covered wagon" trains from St. Louis to California in 1848 and who came to Springfield from St. Louis in a wagon pulled by oxen, decided that a trip over "The Main street of America" would do him good.

In company with friends, he started late in the day for St. Louis in an automobile and a message to his son here stated that he stood the trip well and was having a good time in St. Louis.

Mr. Newton ran a wholesale house in St. Louis when that city was a small village on the Mississippi river.

BROTHER, SISTER UNITED ON VISIT TO OZARK REGION

Pair Separated More Than 35 Years, Have Joyful Meeting
At Moorehouse; Accident Causes Reunion

Special Dispatch to The News

MOREHOUSE, Mo., Oct. 15.—Fate is believed to have directed the paths of Mrs. Tom Fonville and Addie Martin, brother and sister, who, 35 years ago, were separated and had not had trace of each other since that time.

A few days ago they were reunited at the home of Mr. Martin here.

Came for Visit

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fonville came here a few weeks ago to visit Mr. Fonville's mother and other relatives, near Dexter. They came to Morehouse last week on business. During their visit here they met Joe Cambron, who had resided near Hartford, Ky., where Mrs. Fonville was raised. In their conversation familiar names were recalled. When Mrs. Fonville told Cambron that her maiden name was Martin, he startled her with the information that her brother "lives just across the street."

Found Her Brother

She hurriedly went to the house designated and found Addie Martin, whom she had not seen or heard from in 35 years. It was a joyful meeting.

Martin had married at the age of 19 and moved to Indiana. Their father died and the children became separated. Mrs. Fonville left Kentucky and went to Illinois at the age of 18.

Well Known Couple Weds

A VERY pretty church wedding took place at 10 o'clock yesterday morning when the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Patterson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Patterson, 1001 East Elm street, to Mr. Jack B. Denton, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Denton, 316 South National avenue, was solemnized at the South Avenue Christian church. About 75 guests were in attendance.

An attractive color motif of green and white was developed with ferns and palms and a profusion of white chrysanthemums, both large and small, in art baskets and vases.

Just before the entrance of the bridal party Mrs. Enola Calvin Handley, violinist, played "Deep In My Heart," followed by Miss Nell Ross who played Lohengrin's wedding music as the bride entered on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. The bride was attended by Miss Josephine Umbarger as honor maid, and Mr. Denton was attended by his brother, Mr. Charles Denton, as best man.

During the wedding service, which was read by the Reverend E. F. Leake, pastor of the South Avenue Christian church, Mrs. Handley softly played "Yesterday." The ring service was used.

The bride's gown was of Flanders blue transparent velvet, trimmed with lace, with which she wore a small hat of the same color trimmed with silver lace, and black satin pumps. She carried a shower of rose buds and valley lilies and wore a string of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. Her maid of honor wore rosewood velvet and georgette, with a black hat, and she carried Ophelia roses. The bride's going away frock was a combination of black and gold with which she wore a black coat and hat.

Following felicitations a wedding breakfast was served at the Johnson tea room to the bridal party, the two families and a few very close friends. Covers were placed for 22.

The bride is a graduate of the Senior High school and spent one year in Drury college where she became affiliated with Pi Beta Phi sorority. She is popular in the younger social set and many pre-nuptial affairs have been given for her during the past few weeks. Mr.

Denton also is a former student at Drury college and is a member of Theta Kappa Nu fraternity. He is associated with his father in the Denton drug store.

After a two weeks wedding trip to New Orleans and other southern points the newlyweds will return to Springfield and will be at home to their friends at 361 South Kimbrough avenue.

Dean of Flue Cleaners Knows His Chimneys

L. K. Gibbens, Oldest "Sweep," Writes Songs When Not Chasing Soot; His Hat Holds 15 Cents Worth of Beer—At Pre-Volstead Prices.

L. K. Gibbens, who claims to be the oldest active chimney sweep in America, for the past 15 years a picturesque and familiar figure on Springfield streets, sings the songs he wrote himself, as he strolls about the city, clad in a sooty suit, his tall peaked cap upon his head, and his brushes on his back.

Until recent years he wore scarlet stockings, gay red shirt, and corduroy breeches. He quit wearing them for the very good reason that his wife burned them.

"She said they were too gaudy," he laughed.

Sixty-six years old, Mr. Gibbens has spent his entire life as a chimney sweep, and he is familiar with the insides of more chimneys than Santa Claus himself.

"Do I like my work? Say, Listen," he said. "I've been a chimney sweep all my life and I wouldn't do anything else."

Mr. Gibbens bears the marks of four severe falls, but he says his chimney sweep luck saved him each time.

Once he thought he was dead, but when he heard that the doctor was coming, he jumped up and went home by himself.

He worked up and down the Mississippi river in the old days.

"I learned the business from my grandpa, who was the first chimney sweep in America. He came here from England and was the best chimney sweep that ever crawled through a pipe. He wasn't really my grandpa, though, he was my wife's grandpa, but I always called him mine." The little old man sighed for the veteran of the flues, "how dead many years."

"There's one thing about being a chimney sweep, you can't afford to get fat because some of the pipes are only 18 inches in diameter, and more than 50 feet long, and let me tell you something, if you don't know how to breathe just right, you'll quit breathing. Not everyone, of course, could be a chimney sweep, that is a scientific, intellectual chimney sweep. You have to move your arms like this," and he crawled across the floor to demonstrate just how a scientific, intellectual chimney sweep works himself through a soot filled pipe.

"I used to work the river towns, up and down on the boats as long as the weather stayed warm and in the winter when it got cold I laid over some place."

"I have lots of fun with this cap of mine. One time I bought the whole thing full of beer for 15 cents. Of course that was in the old days, and I think I was in St. Joe."

"Why do I wear this cap?"

"Well, that's the reason—to make people ask me why. It's advertising, you see."

"One time I fixed up a half-breed Indian in a suit like mine and paid him to walk the streets to advertise my business. We wandered into a saloon and everybody looked at us and wondered, and I took off my cap and asked the bar tender what he'd take to fill it up with beer. He said 15 cents and so he filled it up and the whole crowd had plenty to drink."

Mr. Gibbens has worked from Arkansas to Illinois, and he'll tell you he's cleaned some dirty chimneys in his day.

"But I believe in being clean, even in a dirty job," he declared, and I guess I shouldn't say it, but some of the basements I go into are sure a disgrace. But I can't ever leave any dirt around my furnace."

Life has presented a peculiar mixture of adventures to Mr. Gibbens and he has found much pleasure in the world of chimneys he has worked.

He sat in his home the other evening, a happy contented wife and a pretty daughter sewing on bits of frilly green something beside him, frankly proud of this unique father, and he told with glee of the times he has outwitted policemen who reprimanded him for singing his song:

"Chimney sweep, Oh, chimney sweep,

Don't forget the chimney sweep, He'll sweep your chimneys while you sleep.

Sweep, chimney sweep.

"An'", Mr. Gibbens added with a sparkle in his eye, "you can put it in the paper that I couldn't find a wife in this country to suit me and had to send to the old country for one."

Mrs. Gibbens was born in England and came to America when she was a young girl.

Dr. L. West, an old and highly respected citizen of Monett died at his home Saturday night. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Lenox Crockett, Monday afternoon.

DALLAS COUPLE WED 50 YEARS

Children Help Elderly Pair Celebrate Golden Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Butts, residing in Dallas county near Urbana, were feted with a dinner in their honor last Sunday in celebration of the 50th anniversary of their wedding. The wedding took place October 9, 1877, at the home of the Rev. Mr. McCutcheon in Hickory county. Prior to the wedding, Mrs. Butts was Miss Josephine T. Cox.

Following their marriage they resided in Dallas county and with the exception of two years, shortly after their marriage, they have resided in that county since. Here they reared a family of six children, all of whom, with the exception of the oldest daughter, Gertrude Maybelle, who died while a young woman, are still living.

The children all are married and three of them reside near the home of their parents. The others live at a distance. With the exception of one daughter, Mrs. L. E. Van Buskirk of Dayton, Wash., all of the children attended the celebration.

The children present were Mrs. A. T. Vaughan of Springfield, and Mrs. Burel Reynold, W. R. Butts and B. R. Butts, all of Urbana. The children presented their parents with gifts, a gold watch for the father and a gold ring for the mother, and Mr. and Mrs. Butts received numerous gifts from the large crowd of friends present.

The Rev. J. B. Smith, pastor of the church which Mr. and Mrs. Butts attend, made a short talk explaining the occasion of the celebration and following the dinner preached a sermon.

Elizabeth Patterson Wed to Jack B. Denton

Ceremony Performed by Rev. E. F. Leake at South Avenue Christian Church—Miss Josephine Umbarger Serves as Maid of Honor—Now on Tour.

A church wedding lovely in its simplicity took place yesterday morning at the South Avenue Christian church when Miss Elizabeth Patterson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Patterson, 1000 East Elm street, became the bride of Mr. Jack B. Denton, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Denton, 318 South National avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. F. Leake, pastor of the church, at 10 o'clock before approximately 125 members of the families and close friends of the couple.

The bridal party was led by Miss Josephine Umbarger, maid-of-honor, who wore a gown of rose crepe and a close black hat and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Umbarger met the honor man, Mr. Charles Denton, brother of the groom, at the altar. The bride followed on the arm of her father. She was costumed in a bright king blue, her dress being fashioned of chiffon velvet with close bodice and full skirt. Her small hat, which was of a matching shade of velvet, was trimmed with silver lace. A shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and lilies of the valley was carried by the bride. Mrs. Enola Calvin Handley and Miss Nell Rose, organist, played "Down in My Heart" preceding the wedding march and "Yesterday" softly throughout the service. The altar before which the single ring ceremony was performed was lined with palms and ferns and white chrysanthemums combined with greenery and tied with streamers of silver tulle. A wedding breakfast at the Johnson tea room followed the service at the church. Members of the families and a few intimate friends were guests. A flax cloth centered by a large white bridal cake placed in a wreath of vari-colored flowers and fern decorated the table at which the bride and groom and eight intimate friends were seated. The members of the family and other guests sat at another table.

The bride's going away gown was a golden jersey with a coat of black trimmed with badger and she wore a small black hat. Both young people are well known here, both having attended Drury college where Mrs. Denton was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority and Mr. Denton of Theta Kappa Nu. Mr. Denton is connected with his father in Denton's Drug store. They left after the breakfast for a trip, the destination of which was not divulged, and will be at home after November 1 at 1 Kickapoo avenue. Many pre-nuptial affairs have been given for the bride.

Seek Relative Of Man Who Died In Hospital Here

AUTHORITIES here and in St.

Louis yesterday continued an apparently futile search for relatives of William King, 53, believed to be of St. Louis, who died in a hospital here Wednesday after he had been found unconscious in his room at a cheap boarding house.

Physicians believe King died of an apoplectic stroke or some strange malady. Discovered unconscious in his room more than 24 hours before his death, he remained in a dazed condition until the end, muttering only "St. Louis" in reply to all questions. He had registered at the rooming house as William King of St. Louis, and the same name and address were found in a notebook in his room. Except for the red notebook, his eyeglasses and a peculiar scar on his back, authorities found little on which to base identification.

The body lies at the Starne mortuary, pending word from relatives. Assistance of a bureau of identification in St. Louis has been enlisted, but no relatives have yet been found.

IN MEMORIAM.

SEILER—In loving memory of our dear daughter, Vivian Katherine Seiler, who died one year ago today, October 18.

In silence she suffered,
With patience she bore,
Till God called her home
To suffer no more.

'Twas hard to break the tender chord
Where love has bound the heart;
'Twas hard, so hard, to speak the word,
We must forever part.

Dearest one we have laid
In the peaceful grave embrace;
But your memory will be cherished
Till we see thy heavenly face.

Badly missed by mother, father and sisters.

CARROLL—In fond remembrance of our dear husband, father, grandfather and brother, John Riley Carroll, who passed away at his home, 2062 Howard street, one year ago, October 12, 1926.

We cannot say—we will not say—
That he is dead—he is just away.

With a cheery smile and a wave of his hand

He wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since he lingers there,
And we—O we, who so wildly yearn
For the old-time step and the glad return.

We think of him still as the same, I say.
He is not dead—he is just away.

Badly missed by his wife, children, grandchildren, brother and sisters.

SEYMOUR PASTOR LIVES FEW HOURS TO EXACT PLEDGE OF HIS CHILDREN

Suffering Nervous Collapse, Reverend Crocker Fatally Wounds Himself and Expires
In His Parsonage

'I COULDN'T HELP IT,'
ARE HIS DYING WORDS

Fully Conscious That He is Bleeding to Death, He Voices
No Personal Regret for Tragic Action

"So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory, O death where is thy sting, O grace, where is thy victory?"

BLEEDING to death of self-inflicted gunshot wounds, the Reverend Harry T. Crocker, 47, pastor of the First Baptist church at Seymour for more than two years, expired at the Seymour parsonage at 7:15 o'clock last night. The Reverend Crocker, who suffered a nervous breakdown several months ago and had been in bad health since, shot himself dramatically early yesterday. Slipping a .38 calibre revolver from his bedroom while the rest of the family prepared for breakfast, he walked into the front yard of the parsonage and sent a bullet through his chest, falling unconscious on the lawn.

Engulfed in death a few hours before his death, the pastor called his children about him and whispered:

"I know that I have killed myself. I am bleeding to death. I am sorry for your sake that it happened, but I could not help it. Promise me only that you will take care of your mother and the youngsters."

From shortly after noon until the time of his death, he was conscious at brief intervals, recognizing those about him. He seemed fully aware that he would die and expressed no personal regret for his act.

He is survived by his wife, three sons and two daughters. The oldest son Luther, 21, is a teacher in the Seymour High school, and the youngest child is Frances Louise, 2 years old. The other children are Claybrook, 19; Rachel, 12, and Harry T., Jr., 7.

FROM THAYER PASTORATE

The Reverend Crocker came to the Seymour church in February, 1925, from a pastorate at Thayer, Mo. Several months ago he suffered a nervous breakdown and was forced to quit the pulpit for a time, though his suggestion that a successor be named for him was refused by the Seymour church board.

He returned Sunday from a St. Louis sanitarium, where he had been under treatment for a nervous trouble for the past six weeks. Letters from sanitarium physicians had led the family to believe that his condition was much improved, and this belief was strengthened by the minister's appearance when he returned to Seymour. Finally he lieve he feared, however, that he never would be able to resume his duties in the ministry.

Mrs. Crocker collapsed when told of her husband's death.

DENY ANOTHER CALLED

Officials of the church board, questioned regarding a possible motive for the suicide, denied that they had planned to call another minister to the pastorate.

Hearing the report of Mr. Crocker's revolver early yesterday morning, the family rushed into the front yard to discover his body there, apparently lifeless. Blood flowed from a wound on the chest, near the heart, and from another wound on the back, where the large calibre bullet had left the body. Only one bullet was fired, the Reverend Crocker apparently aiming the gun at his heart.

Dr. J. H. Bollinger, who lives across the street from the parsonage, was summoned. The minister was carried, unconscious, into the parsonage. After a brief examination Doctor Bollinger declared the man had little chance to recover.

Funeral arrangements had been completed last night.

WEST PLAINS FARMER IS KILLED BY WILD HOG

WEST PLAINS, Mo., Oct. 20.—(A. P.)—Sam Chappel, 41-year-old farmer who lived 20 miles southwest of here, was killed Tuesday by a wild hog which he and a neighbor were attempting to kill. The hog had been making depredations in the neighbor's cornfield.

The hog attacked three dogs which the men took along for the hunt. Having no weapons, the men began throwing stones at the hog to save the dogs. The hog suddenly charged Chappel.

PASTOR SUICIDE BEGGED WIFE'S FORGIVENESS

Rev. H. T. Crocker Dies Ten Hours After Shooting Himself.

REGRETTED HIS A C T

Exacts Sons' Promise to Care for "Mother";
Funeral Tomorrow.

Eliciting forgiveness from his wife and exacting a pledge from his older sons "to care for mother," the Rev. Harry T. Crocker of Seymour died at 6:50 last night at his home.

The pastor of the First Baptist church at Seymour fatally wounded himself early yesterday by shooting himself in the chest. The tragedy was enacted in the front yard of his home as a climax to a two months nervous illness.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the church where the pastor had filled the pulpit for more than two years.

Family Hovers Near.

The Rev. Lewis M. Hale, pastor of the First Baptist church of Springfield, will conduct the funeral services over his fellow clergyman.

The Rev. Crocker will be buried in the Masonic cemetery, not far from his home in Seymour.

Surrounded by his grief-stricken wife and four of his five older children, the pastor, who had been an ordained Baptist minister 21 years, gasped a farewell late yesterday.

The minister remained conscious until the day.

He told us he knew he should not have done it. Luther, his oldest son, a teacher in the fifth and sixth grades at Seymour, said today.

"But he told us he just couldn't get himself together." He returned Sunday from St. Louis where he had been under treatment at the Baptist sanitarium.

"The family met him at Springfield. He seemed quite jolly after reaching home. We avoided talking to him about his illness, because he disliked to discuss it.

"Mother, we haven't anything to worry about," he said Sunday. But we couldn't get him to take an interest in things about the home. We asked him about buying wood for the winter, but he listlessly said, 'Let's put it off awhile.'"

Felt Death Approach.

Throughout yesterday, as the family hovered near his bedside, the pastor said little to his family.

"Once he said to mother, 'I love you.' He seemed to want to get well."

As he realized the end was near, Mr. Crocker called to his two older sons, Luther and Claybrook, 19, and begged them to take care of their mother, which the boys sobbingly promised to do.

Luther recounted the details of the suicide.

"I was upstairs dressing," he said. "Mother was cooking breakfast. Suddenly I heard a shot. I looked out from a window and saw father lying on the ground, the pistol near him."

Neighbors Astounded.

Shocked neighbors ran to the home, he said.

Mr. Crocker's illness seemed to creep gradually upon him, the son said. Members of his church first noticed his breaking health.

Encouraging reports of his condition were received from the St. Louis hospital by the family while the pastor was a patient there, his son said.

Prior to going to Seymour two years ago last February, Mr. Crocker was pastor of a Baptist church at Thayer for 18 months.

He has served as spiritual advisor of several Baptist churches in Oklahoma before coming to Missouri.

He was a graduate of Clinton college, Clinton, Ky. He also attended Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth, Tex.

He was born March 2, 1868 in Gibson county, Tenn.

Deacons of the church today declare the minister was a forcible speaker, a capable organizer, and an energetic pastor.

He was popular with his congregation.

LICENSED TO WED.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Louis H. Gummersbach, 38, St. Louis, and Catherine M. Quinn, 24, Springfield.

Wedding Anniversary.

Their marriage occurred on October 25, but the celebration is being held on Sunday so that a greater number of people may attend.

WILD HOG TAKES LIFE OF FARMER

Sam Chappel, 41 years old, a farmer who lived two miles west of Curetall, near West Plains, was almost instantly killed when he was attacked by a wild hog in a field on the farm of Rev. T. B. Minson, a neighbor, with whom he had gone to help capture the outlaw animal.

Rev. Minson and Chappel went to the field with their dogs at 2 o'clock in the morning to capture the hog which has been making nightly raids on the minister's farm and destroying his corn crop.

The hog attacked the three dogs and was wounding them severely. The men were throwing rocks at the hog to beat it off the dogs, when the hog suddenly charged at Chappel. Before he could flee, the hog struck Chappel twice with its tusks, the first slash cutting the knee cap bone in two and the second inflicting a deep wound a few inches above the knee. The second wound tore open an artery, and Chappel bled to death before Rev. Minson, who rushed to his aid, could do anything for him.

Rev. Minson said he did not think the man lived more than three or four minutes.

"I had gone a few feet away to get more rocks, when Chappel called to me," the Rev. Minson said. "He told me the hog had cut his leg off. I rushed to him and caught him in my arms as he fell backward, but he was able to speak only a few words."

Escape With Lives From Flaming Car Near Roll

INJURIES suffered yesterday morning when the car in which she was riding, skidded in loose gravel and plunged into a ditch on Highway No. 66 near Hapfeldt caused the death of Mrs. Harriet C. Choate, 54, member of a prominent Springfield family, in a hospital here at 10:50 o'clock last night.

Her husband, John C. Choate, 57, night clerk at the Benjamin Franklin hotel, lies dangerously injured at his home, 545 South Jefferson avenue. In the crash, which resulted in his wife's death, he suffered a fractured collar bone and severe bruises. Mrs. Laura Kirk, 33, the other occupant of the car, was badly bruised. She had roomed with the Choate family for some time and accompanied them on yesterday's motor trip.

STARTED TO FARM

A special nurse was called to attend Mr. Choate last night after he learned of his wife's death. But he received the news bravely.

Mr. and Mrs. Choate and Mrs. Kirk left Springfield at 8 o'clock for a shallow ditch, landing on a pine tree and pinning the car.

HER SKULL FRACTURED

The accident victims were rescued from the wreckage a few minutes after the crash and taken to the O. T. Hotel at Mansfield in a bus. Dr. Alvin Fuson administered first aid treatment, finding that Mrs. Choate had sustained a fractured skull. She and her husband were brought to the Springfield Baptist hospital in a Springfield ambulance.

Mrs. Choate was the daughter of Thomas H. Cox, for many years a federal revenue collector here. She was born in Springfield and spent virtually all her life here. She is survived by her husband and one brother, D. W. R. Cox, of Springfield.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night, but burial will be under direction of the Alma Lohmeyer funeral home.

Sister of Widow Here Fatally Shoots Mate

Mrs. Tammehill, Mother of First Day Nursery Inmate, Awaits Pay Check to Telegraph Woman Who Killed Mate in Quarrel.

Word received here yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Beale Tammehill, 330 West Wall street, advised that her sister, Mrs. Emma Reams, Wednesday night shot and instantly killed her husband, Clayton Reams, when they became engaged in a quarrel at the home in Kansas City.

Their disagreement was over a dime spent by the Reams' 14-year-old daughter. The man, it is said, punished the girl and Mrs. Reams got a revolver out of a table drawer to frighten him, she said.

In the scuffle that followed, the gun was discharged and Reams was shot through the heart.

No charges will be filed against Mrs. Reams, who is the mother of five children, according to word received here by her sister. The Kansas City woman only wanted to frighten her husband and prevent him from injuring the daughter, but the revolver was accidentally discharged and Reams was killed.

"This thing is just another worry," Mrs. Tammehill said. "I haven't enough money to get in touch with my sister, but when I get my check this afternoon from the Farm club I am going to wire her. I don't like to spend it for a wire, as I need everything I can make to take care of my own five children, but since I heard of Emma's trouble I have been so worried I haven't been able to work."

Mrs. Tammehill, who is a chicken picker at the Springfield Farm club, is the mother of Jimmie Tammehill, who was the first child to be taken care of at the Salvation Army day nursery, which opened on Boonville avenue Monday.

*The woman has received aid from the Army for the last three years, when she came to Springfield from Kansas City with seven children and three cents in her pocketbook

AUTO ACCIDENT VICTIM DIES IN HOSPITAL HERE

Funeral Services Sunday for Mrs. John Choate; Husband of Victim Recovering from Injuries; Three Pinned Under Wreck.

Mrs. Harriet C. Choate, 50, wife of John C. Choate, of 508 South Jefferson avenue, who suffered a fractured skull and a broken back early yesterday when their automobile, driven by Mr. Choate, overturned near Mansfield, died at 10:50 o'clock last night in the St. John's hospital.

Mr. Choate and Mrs. Laura Kirk, 29, also received serious injuries.

Mr. Choate's condition was reported slightly improved today. He is being cared for by a special nurse at his home.

Suffered Bruises.

Mrs. Kirk is suffering from bruises, but her condition is not critical.

Mrs. Choate was a member of a Springfield pioneer family. She was the daughter of Thomas H. Cox, for many years a federal revenue collector here. She had resided practically all of her life in Springfield.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Alma Lohmeyer Funeral home. Burial will be in Maple Park cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Choate and Mrs. Kirk left Springfield at 8 o'clock yesterday morning to drive to the Choate farm, 12 miles east of Mansfield.

As the car approached a curve on highway 60, four miles west of Mansfield, Mr. Choate attempted to check the car's speed by applying the brakes. The machine skidded in the loose gravel, swerved across the road and overturned into a ditch.

The occupants were pinned beneath the wreckage. Freed from the car, they were taken to Mansfield where physicians attended them. Mr. and Mrs. Choate were brought to Springfield in an ambulance.

Mrs. Choate is survived by her husband, who is night clerk at the Ben Franklin hotel, and a brother, D. W. R. Cox, of Springfield.

Miss Catherine Quinn Weds.

The wedding ceremony of Miss Catherine Marie Quinn and Mr. Louis Gummersbach of St. Louis, an event that attracted the interest of society in the city today, was performed this morning at 9 o'clock at the St. Agnes church by Rev. Father L. Curtis Tietman.

White chrysanthemums and greenery in art baskets adorned the communion rail and palms formed an entrance to the altar. The beauty of the church formed a lovely background for the wedding rites and mass. The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Quinn, 800 South National avenue, was given in marriage by her father. She was beamingly gowned in a period gown of white satin, fashioned with a bouffant skirt and uneven hem line and trimmed with lace. Her full length veil fell from a cap caught at the sides with orange blossoms. Long white gloves were worn by the bride, who carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and baby breath tied with white tulle.

The gowns of Mrs. John Quinn, matron of honor, and Miss Agnes Meyer, maid of honor, were also period style. Mrs. Quinn was costumed in shell pink chiffon with silver lace and Miss Meyer wore seafoam green chiffon with the same trimming. Matching picture hats, long white gloves and corsages of roses and valley lilies were the accessories of both attendants. Master John Quinn, in white satin, preceded the procession, carrying the ring in the heart of a lily on a white satin pillow.

The Lohengrin wedding march (Wagner) was played for the entrance of the bridal procession. Mr. Gummersbach was attended by Mr. John Hawke, honor man, and Mr. John Quinn, groomsmen. Mr. John Meyer and Mr. Ed Higgins of St. Louis acted as ushers.

The bridal party and close friends of the couple were guests at the breakfast at the home of the bride's parents following the church service. The house was decorated lavishly with flowers and greenery for the occasion and music was played throughout the breakfast. Mr. and Mrs. Gummersbach departed for a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., New York City and points in Canada. Mrs. Gummersbach has been the inspiration for numerous social affairs since the announcement of her engagement, and the functions in her honor have been

Among the most interesting events of the fall, as the bride is a popular member of the young set as well as member of one of Springfield's most prominent families. She is a member of Lambda Alpha Lambda sorority and attended Elfindale academy here. Dinner was given last night for the bridal party and the parents of the bride at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Quinn, 804 South Florence avenue. Covers at the dinner were placed for eleven.

Among the out of town guests who were here for the wedding are Mrs. Joseph Gummersbach, mother of the bridegroom; Miss Mary Gummersbach, a sister; Mr. Vic Gummersbach and Mr. Gene Gummersbach, brothers to the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gummersbach and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Higgins, all of St. Louis; and Mrs. A. Schneiderbahn of Sioux City, Ia.

Presence of Maid-of-Honor and Best Man, Whose Romance Blossomed at Robertsons' Marriage, Will Be Unique Feature

WHEN 18-year-old Eliza Garoute became the bride of the young Union veteran, W. W. Robertson, in a ceremony performed at Republic, Mo., 61 years ago today, the bride's niece, Sarah, acted as maid-of-honor, and James Brashares was best man. Traditionally, a second romance blossomed at the wedding—

And chief among the guests at the anniversary reunion of kinsfolk and old friends who today will celebrate the anniversary of the wedding of Eliza and W. W. Robertson at their home in Crane will be Sarah and James Brashares, who "stood up" with the celebrants so long ago.

NATIVE MISSOURIANS

Both Mr. and Mrs. Robertson were native Missourians—Mr. Robertson being born 82 years ago in Lawrence county, and Mrs. Robertson 79 years ago in Greene county.

Shortly after young Robertson came home from the Civil war service in the Union army, the two were married, and moved to a farm in Lawrence county. Later Mr. Robertson assisted in building a rail fence along the Frisco's right-of-way before the road itself went through; operated a sawmill for a time; and finally became a mine operator at Aurora and at Stotts City. He retired several years ago, and for the past nine years the two have lived at Crane. Mr. and Mrs. Brashares still live at Republic.

MANY AT CELEBRATION

Mr. and Mrs. Robertson, now in their seventh decade of life in Missouri together, are among the oldest couples in the state, and the anniversary celebration today will be attended by their children and grandchildren, and many lifelong friends, who will come to enjoy a basket dinner together and to spend the day in pleasant visiting and reminiscence.

LEBANON COUPLE OBSERVE EVENT

Sixtieth Wedding Anniversary Celebrated at Christian Church

Special to The News

LEBANON, Mo., Oct. 22.—Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Billings, 84, tonight celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary at a reception given in their honor at the Christian church here.

Is Pioneer Physician

Dr. Billings, pioneer Ozarks physician, was acquainted with Lincoln and Grant and dined at several banquets with them. He also heard the famous Lincoln-Douglas debate.

The program at the Christian church tonight was opened by an address, given by Dr. Al McComb. A quartet, composed of Ralph and Claude Burley, Miss Jessie Burley and Arthur Billings sang, "Silver Threads Among the Gold." Mrs. H. C. Clark was the accompanist.

Vernon Gives Address

Don O. Vernon, Lebanon attorney, delivered a short address, praising Mr. and Mrs. Billings. Miss Myrtle Campbell sang a solo and Mrs. J. M. Billings, the bride of 60 years, recited a poem. A song by the quartet, "When You and I Were Young Maugli" was followed by refreshments.

Miss Quinn Becomes Bride

MISS CATHERINE QUINN, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Quinn, 600 South National Boulevard, became the bride of Mr. Louis H. Gummersbach, son of Mrs. Joseph Gummersbach of St. Louis at 9 o'clock yesterday morning at nuptial high mass service at St. Agnes church in the presence of more than two hundred of her friends.

The church presented a lovely scene with its natural beauty enhanced by a profusion of huge white chrysanthemums in large art baskets interspersed with beautiful ferns and palms in attractive jardinières, over which a soft glow was cast by the lighted tapers. White bouquets marked the seats reserved for the immediate relatives.

As an introductory to the service Miss Lura Heckenlively played the prelude to the third act of the Lohengrin opera by Wagner and she played the Lohengrin bridal music as the bride entered the church accompanied by her father who gave her to Mr. Gummersbach in marriage. During the service Miss Heckenlively softly gave "Dreams" from the seventh sonata of Guillemant, and she accompanied Mr. Will Kennedy who sang Schubert's "Ave Marie." Following the service which was read by the Reverend Father James A. Moffatt, the ring ceremony being used, Mendelssohn's wedding march was played for the recessional.

The bride's gown was a lovely creation of white satin, made in period style and trimmed in Duchess lace, with seed pearls outlining the neck and following the lace trimming on the skirt. Her full length veil, which formed a train, was of Duchess lace and was held by a wreath of orange blossoms, and her slippers were of white satin. She carried a shower of white roses and valley lilies and wore a platinum and diamond pin, a gift from the bridegroom. Her going-away frock was of tan silk crepe and with it she wore a tan coat with a large brown fox collar and hat and slippers to harmonize.

The bride was attended by Mrs. John Quinn, a sister-in-law as matron of honor, and by Miss Agnes Meyer, a cousin to the bridegroom, as maid of honor. Both wore gowns of chiffon. Mrs. Quinn's of pale pink and Miss Meyer's of Nile green, made bouffant style with large chiffon hats of harmonizing shades trimmed in silver ribbon and lace and they wore silver slippers. Their flowers were old fashioned nosegays of pink roses. Master John Quinn, nephew to the bride in a suit of white satin, carried the ring in a large key on a white satin pillow.

Mr. and Mrs. James Quinn, mother of the bride, wore black chiffon trimmed in gold over flesh colored satin with a small black hat. Mrs. Joseph Gummersbach, mother of the bridegroom, wore blue and white chiffon and lace and also wore a small hat of black.

Mr. Gummersbach was attended by Mr. John Hawke of St. Louis as honor man, and Mr. John Quinn, brother to the bride, as groomsmen. The ushers were Mr. Edward A. Higgins of St. Louis and Mr. John Meyer of this city, cousin to the bridegroom. The bridegroom, his honor man and ushers were classmates of 1914 in the college of arts at St. Louis university.

Immediately following the service breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents to the bridal party and members of the two families. The newlyweds then left for St. Louis and from there they will go to New York City and other eastern points, visiting also in Canada before returning to St. Louis about December 1 to make their home at 6957 Waterman avenue.

The bride is a member of one of Springfield's most prominent families and is one of society's most popular young women. She is a graduate of St. de Chantal academy of Springfield and of Sacred Heart Junior college of St. Louis, and received her degree of bachelor of arts from the state college here. She is a member of Lambda Alpha Lambda sorority and is vice president of the St. de Chantal Alumnae association. Since the announcement of her betrothal to Mr. Gummersbach in September she has been honored by an unusually large number of dinners, luncheons, bridge parties and teas.

Mr. Gummersbach is a graduate of the St. Louis University and is secretary of the B. Herder Book company of St. Louis.

Among the out of town guests at the wedding were: Mrs. Joseph Gummersbach, Miss Mary Gummersbach, Mr. Vic Gummersbach, Mr. Gene Gummersbach, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Higgins, all of St. Louis and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Steadman of Sioux City, Ia.

Fourth Generation of Family

Now Living on Ewingacres

Arthur Ewing, Tennessee Pioneer, Settled Land in 1837; Shorthorn Cattle Featured on 500-Acre Tract North of Springfield

By CLIFFORD FARMER

A TEAM of oxen labored up the hill, slowly pulling the covered wagon after them. The driver, a tall, broad-shouldered Tennessean, walked beside the team, urging them on. Behind the wagon was tied a cow, the family milk supply.

"Are we most there?" called the wife from the wagon.

"Almost—just over the hill," came the reply from the teamster.

Slowly the oxen pulled until finally the brow of the hill was reached. As they got spread a beautiful Ozark panorama. A silver stream traced its way across the valley. Giant trees grew on the slopes away from the river. Here and there were natural clearings where velvety bluegrass grew, dark green spots in the distance.

Dear Bill:

Both Billie and I really appreciated (and astonished) the copies of the articles in the Springfield newspapers about my accident. I had no idea that there was any publicity in the papers about it. Nobody ever mentioned it to me.

As best I can remember, I was apparently in a coma for about four days and in the hospital for about a week. My first recollection after the coma was Uncle Lee standing over me, and his first question was "Have you had a bowel movement?"
I had never heard the term before,

Jim and Edwin were at the scene when the accident occurred, and both thought I was a dead duck for sure. Jim lived until 82, and every time I talked to him on the phone, he reminded me that I really should have been named Lazarus.

Apparently I did recover rather quickly--so far as I know the only lasting effects were a slight drooping of my left eyelid, and the need for glasses.

At any rate, I'm glad to know I was so famous, even if I did it the hard way. My only other publicity in the Springfield papers was in connection with the high school yearbook--a copy of which I am enclosing, the pictures that is. If you don't have the 1935 Resume, I have two copies, and would be happy to give one of them to you, as you are in several group pictures.

Time does fly, even faster than before retirement. Billie has a new Dell Computer, with all the features including largescreen, color printer, and scanner. We don't travel at all-haven't been to Springfield since 1989. Should you ever travel this way, we'd surely love to see you!

Thanks again, hope things are going well with you, and keep in touch.

Sincerely,

Lo. Lohmeyer, Jr. Billie

P.S. - In your letter you mentioned some guy named Jack Benny.

Was he the masked man in the Lone Ranger series, or was that before your time? I have no idea what you two are talking about!

Success or failure of the High school yearbook, the Resume, will rest largely upon the shoulders of Charles Cox, 16, above, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cox of 942 Robber-son avenue. Charles was elected to edit this year's publication, which will contain no advertising.

CORONER THINKS STRONG CURRENT CARRIED SWIMMER TO WATERY GRAVE

Strange Disappearance of Springfield Nurse Solved With Finding of Body Near St. Genevieve, Mo.

SUICIDE THEORY DOUBTED
BY CORONER FINDING BODY

Body Will Be Returned Here
For Burial; Miss Farnsworth
Only Recently Released From Hospital

MYSTERY surrounding the strange disappearance of Miss Elsie C. Farnsworth, Springfield nurse, from the Veterans' hospital at St. Louis nearly two weeks ago lifted yesterday with the discovery of the woman's body in the Mississippi river near St. Genevieve, Mo.

A telegram to Springfield yesterday from Coroner Baser of St. Genevieve, 45 miles below St. Louis on the Mississippi river, told of the discovery of Miss Farnsworth's body.

Miss Farnsworth, 41, who for the past year had lived with her aged mother on a small farm three miles northwest of this city, disappeared October 12 from the Veterans' hospital in St. Louis. She had gone to the St. Louis hospital for diagnosis and treatment of nervous trouble resulting from her harsh experience as a Red Cross nurse during the World war.

A week later her body was found on the banks of the Mississippi near Jefferson Barracks in St.
Louis. Discovery of the clothing led authorities to believe she either had committed suicide by drowning or had been robbed and thrown into the river.

Following discovery of the body at St. Genevieve yesterday, identification was made by a wrist watch which friends recognized. The body was clad only in an undergarment.

Coroner Baser declared his theory of the tragedy agreed with that of friends of the woman, who believe Miss Farnsworth was in swimming and had been carried beyond her depth by a strong current. This theory, he said, was substantiated further by the fact that persons committing suicide by drowning usually wear clothing.

MOTHER HYSTERICAL

Mrs. L. E. Farnsworth, the nurse's mother, had clung desperately to the belief that her daughter had left the hospital to go to the home of some friend before breaking "bad pension news" to her. She became half-hysterical when informed of the discovery of the body, but finally proceeded to arrange for the warding of the body to Springfield and burial here. It seems most likely to her that Miss Farnsworth of a highly nervous disposition grew over-wrought at the "red tape" and technicalities of the hospital and, fearing that her small federal pension might be taken away, chose death in the river.

That the nurse should go swimming alone in the river after quitting the hospital was not considered strange by friends here, who revealed letters from her which showed the river held an odd fascination for her.

Miss Farnsworth suffered a nervous breakdown shortly after the war, largely as a result of her fight against the influenza epidemic in a southern training camp, and she twice had been to the St. Louis hospital for treatment.

Following discovery of her clothing on the banks of the Mississippi at St. Louis a week ago, an extensive search was conducted for many miles along the river.

BODY HERE TUESDAY

The body will arrive here Tuesday and burial will be in a Springfield cemetery under direction of the Klingner funeral home. Miss Farnsworth is survived only by her mother and a brother, J. L. Farnsworth, head of a business college in Corpus Christi, Texas.

Discovery of the nurse's badly decomposed body was a gruesome climax to a series of tragedies in the Farnsworth family following the war. Miss Farnsworth's father died about a year ago, and his daughter's strength was weakened greatly as she nursed him during his last illness.

She and her mother lost a small sum in a recent bank failure, and their farm home near Jefferson City was lost in litigation. With her savings and the small pension she received from the government for disabilities resulting from her work during the war. Miss Farnsworth came here with her mother and bought a 3-acre home on the Willard road northwest of Springfield. Leveling such surroundings would aid her in winning back her health.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE BY LEAP IN RIVER

Former Springfieldian Leaves Note Saying She Was Tired of Life

Mrs. Ada T. Shockley of Grandview, Mo., who leaped to her death in the Missouri river Saturday from a bridge at Kansas City, formerly lived in Springfield and is survived by two sisters residing here.

Mrs. William S. Thomas, 1109 South Jefferson avenue, a sister of the suicide, left Springfield yesterday for the home of Mrs. Shockley's son-in-law in Kansas City, E. G. Good, where funeral arrangements are being completed. Mrs. Shockley also was a sister of Mrs. Stewart Shockley, 1231 St. Louis street.

Born in Canada

Mrs. Shockley was born at Saint Thomas, Canada, and came to Springfield while she was a young girl. She lived here for many years.

Carefully folding her coat and laying her purse upon it, Mrs. Shockley leaped from the center span of a bridge over the Missouri river at Kansas City. With relatives, she had gone to Kansas City on a shopping trip.

A note found in the coat she left on the bridge provided the only motive for her action. She wrote to her daughter at Kansas City:

"Don't worry about me. I cannot stand the strain. My mind seems to have snapped. Let me sleep with my mother. So sorry to bring this to you. May God have mercy on you and keep you, my children. I did not think this ever would come to me."

Worried in Recent Years

Relatives said Mrs. Shockley, who was 55 years old, had been depressed and worried in recent years. They could give no specific motive for the suicide.

In addition to the sisters here and relatives at Grandview and Kansas City, she is survived by three brothers, George Cole of Wyoming, Paul Cole of Colorado and William Cole of Minnesota.

JAMES A. SALTZ

James A. Saltz, 55, died at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of his son, route 5, Springfield. He is survived only by the son here and a daughter who lives in Kansas City. Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Clear Creek cemetery, 10 miles west of Springfield, and burial will be in the cemetery there under direction of the Klingner funeral home.

J. L. MITCHELL

J. L. Mitchell, 69, formerly of Springfield, died at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home in Joplin. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John W. River Yields Unclothed Body of Elsie Farnsworth at St. Genevieve, Mo.

Brother Demands Autopsy to Disclose Cause of Death; Skidmore Directs Investigation by Local Organization.

An investigation into the death of Miss Elsie C. Farnsworth, Springfield war nurse, whose body was found yesterday in the Mississippi river at St. Genevieve, Mo., is to be conducted by the young woman's brother and Goad-Ballinger post, American Legion, according to an announcement made today by the Legion and a dispatch received by The Leader from the brother.

Suspecting foul play in the death of his sister, Jesse Farnsworth, Corpus Christi, Tex., left St. Louis today for St. Genevieve to insist an autopsy be performed on his sister's body to determine whether she died by drowning.

To Probe Treatment.

The local Legion post has announced that it will investigate Miss Farnsworth's complaints that she was not given proper care at the Veteran's hospital at St. Louis from which she disappeared.

An investigation to determine whether Miss Farnsworth had been told she was about to be deprived of her government compensation also will be conducted, it was stated.

"We don't know that Miss Farnsworth was ill treated or that she was to lose her compensation," said George H. Skidmore, commander of the local Legion post. "But she told me she was not receiving proper care at the hospital, which did not have proper facilities for the care of a patient in her condition.

Heard Complaint.

"When she talked to me she was in a highly nervous state. I can't say she was ill treated, but she was complaining of being ill treated. She was in the hospital, but was getting to be what they call about the post commander said.

The nurse's brother has been in St. Louis for the last four days, seeking a clue that might lead to his sister's whereabouts. He interviewed officials at the government hospital at Jefferson barracks, where Miss Farnsworth was a patient until her disappearance on October 12.

Identified By Watch.

Word received by Farnsworth yesterday advised that when the body was taken from the river it was not clothed. A wrist watch served to identify the corpse as that of the local nurse. Farnsworth said today that he would demand an autopsy to ascertain cause of her death.

The brother has been unable to account for the fact that his sister's clothing was found scattered along the river bank a mile south of the Veteran's hospital. Several suits of underwear, towels and handkerchiefs were in a satchel on the river bank.

The brother believes that if Miss Farnsworth had planned to take her life she would not have brought extra apparel to the river bank.

Compensation Uncertain.

In regard to Miss Farnsworth's death, Dr. R. Y. Peak, local Legion official said:

"There's no doubt about it. I found a lot of red tape in connection with government compensation. Things are better, but still veterans are kept on pins and needles wondering how soon their compensation is to be cut off."

"I don't know that Miss Farnsworth was about to lose it. But some mention may have been made to her that she was to be cut off of the compensation list. A veteran never knows from one day to the next when he no longer is going to be on the compensation list."

At the time word first reached

Springfield that Miss Farnsworth had disappeared, neighbors of Miss Farnsworth advanced the theory that the nurse had met death by violence.

She, they said, was in the habit of carrying a considerable sum of money on her person. Due to great modesty on her part, neighbors said, Miss Farnsworth would never have stripped herself of her clothing before flinging herself in the river. Religious scruples also would have prevented her from taking her own life, they said.

Miss Farnsworth's mother, who resides on a small farm three miles northwest of Springfield on route 11, ~~was on the verge of a breakdown to-day.~~

She had clung to the thought that her daughter was yet alive—just visiting friends in St. Louis—and would return to her home here. When word of the body being found yesterday was given to Mrs. Farnsworth, she became distraught.

Miss Farnsworth's body will arrive in Springfield tomorrow morning, ~~was reported here today advised.~~ Funeral arrangements are incomplete, but it will be under the direction of the Kingler Undertaking company.

Fulton, who formerly resided and held citizenship in the Legion business college. Col. I. R. Wagner, in American Jefferson Barracks hospital, investigation, according to an Assoc. the Press dispatch.

Mr. Farnsworth who resides in Corpus Christi, Tex., and his mother, who lives on a small farm, two and one half miles northwest of here, were busy today making funeral arrangements for Miss Farnsworth.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Klingner Funeral home. Burial will be in East Lawn cemetery.

TWO COUPLES WED.

McKee, recorder of deeds, after having obtained marriage licenses at the office, Frank Jones, 22, New Blaine, Ark., and Dolly Cardwell, 28, Ash Grove, were married by Rev. Thomas H. Wiles, and Claude L. Reynolds, 22, Springfield, and Pearl Sherrod, 18, Holland, Mo., were married by Rev. E. C. Sechler.

A marriage license also was issued to Paul W. McClernon, 27, and Henrietta Jones, 23, both of Springfield.

Talking about old time events R. L. Myers of Everton writes:

"I want definite information about all of the towns and streams and mills of Dade county. Here is what I want to know: Who named Greenfield? When and why? Was it named for a town in the old home state? How did you get your information? Who named Lockwood? Dade county? Who can tell me about some of the place-names listed below: Dade county, Greenfield, Lockwood, Everton, South Greenfield, Arcola, Pennsboro, Pilgrim, Emmett, Neola, Bona, Sylva, Nelnert, Cedarville, Kings Point, Corry, Glenntown, Seybert, Melville (Dadeville), Ernest, Comet, Hulston's Mill, Dilday's Mill, Gillespie's Mill, Ragdale's Mill, Hoyle's Mill, Sac, Turnback, Sinking Creek, Lumby Branch, Limestone, Linn Branch, Horse Creek, Cedar Creek, Bon's Creek, or any place I have not listed."

Probably there will be many versions of the Dade county names just as there are about how Springfield got its name.

One of the Dade county names, however, is clear enough. It is Lockwood, named in honor of J. E. Lockwood, general passenger agent of the old Memphis railroad. Mr. Lockwood named this section "the land of the big red apple" and boosted apple growing. The Ozarks went through many trials in learning the apple business and after several years some of the orchards were abandoned. The apple, however, has come to stay in this section and with better marketing facilities many of the troubles of the early day fruit grower have been removed.

 Drowning Self Will Resume
 Investigation After Funeral Rites Are Held

NOT SEEKING REVENGE,

THE story of a happy home of mother and daughter abruptly broken two weeks ago when the daughter was driven to suicide in the Mississippi river allegedly as a result of continued persecution by veteran's bureaus was related yesterday by Jesse Farnsworth, head of a chain of business colleges in Texas, who arrived in Springfield with the body of his sister, Miss Elsie C. Farnsworth, Red Cross nurse.

"My sister will be buried today but the case will not end there," Mr. Farnsworth said yesterday. "I have no desire to get revenge but I'm going to desert my business and remain in Springfield long enough to see that this affair is straightened out."

"It's painful to think of some of the insults my sister was subjected to in racing from this bureau to that bureau when she should have been in bed. The questionnaires these government agencies send to patients are too silly to be submitted even to a child."

The little Farnsworth home, three and one-half miles northwest of Springfield, paid for by the nurse out of her earnings and pension, will be deserted for some time. Mr. Farnsworth will take his mother to Texas to live with him until she is ready to return to the Ozarks. Last night, they were busy making plans for the funeral.

Services will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at the Klingner funeral chapel. The Reverend R. C. Raines, pastor of the College street Mission Baptist church, will conduct services. The Rebekah lodge, of which Miss Farnsworth was a member, also will participate in the services.

LEGION WILL ATTEND

Members of the American Legion will march to the funeral chapel in a body out of respect to a fallen comrade. Miss Farnsworth is the first world war nurse to be buried in Springfield. The body will be interred in East Lawn cemetery.

Friends of Miss Farnsworth yesterday charged that an incident in Springfield a few years ago caused Miss Farnsworth to suffer a breakdown after she had returned from one of the examinations. She was seeking a small home for herself and mother and went to a realtor and instructed him to buy a place. He demanded a deposit fee of $100. When he failed to find a suitable home, she asked that the fee be returned but was refused.

Mr. Farnsworth said he would confer with Legion officials today regarding his sister's case. He pointed out that at each bureau his sister was told she was suffering with a different disease. The diagnosis ranged from tuberculosis to a nervous breakdown.

TRAIN CREW IS UNAWARE OF TAKING DEAD MAN FOR RIDE

Body Is Found In Freight Car at Crane Which Was Hauled There from Carthage; Murder Theory Is Scouted.

The body of an unidentified man, discovered Tuesday morning in an empty freight car at Crane, was buried last night after an investigation had failed to shed any light on the man's identity.

The car in which the body was found was brought to Crane in a regular freight train from Carthage at 4 a. m. Tuesday. Six hours later a car inspector opened the car doors and discovered the decomposed body. An examination by Dr. J. C. B. Doggett of Crane revealed that the man probably came to his death by natural causes. The man had been dead at least a week.

The theory that the man may have been robbed and murdered and then hung into the freight car was abandoned when a plain gold band ring was found on the third finger of one hand. The man also carried an empty billbook in one pocket, a toothbrush, safety razor and shaving out-

The man was over 30 years old, weighed 165 pounds and was five feet and six inches in height, Dr. Doggett reported. He wore a neat brown serge suit, bow tie and a cap. The suit was made by a Birmingham dealer and the cap at Covington, Ky. The man wore tan shoes. His hair was brown, streaked with gray. The words, "Blanche" and "Effie" were tattooed on each of his forearms. He had false teeth, both upper and lower, and the thumb was off his right hand.

The investigation by the Missouri Pacific agents revealed that the freight car in which the body was found was unloaded at Butler, Mo., and then taken to Carthage, where it was sidetracked 16 days before being moved to Crane. For this reason, it is believed the man entered the car at Carthage. Dr. Doggett said that the man apparently had been ill for some time before his death.

Found Body in Car.

When car inspector Val Pritaner of Aurora, who works at Crane, opened empty Missouri Pacific box car No. 18265 at Crane this week he was greeted with a gruesome sight. It was the dead body of a man, lying flat on his back with legs and arms extended. Tracing the movements of the car, Station Agent Ellison of Crane finds that it was moved from Butler, Mo., Nov. 13 passing through Nevada on the same date and switched into the White river yards at Carthage the 14 where it lay until the night of October 24, when it was picked up and brought to Crane, arriving there at 11.35, and being opened. The county refused to accept any responsibility and burial was at the expense of the railway company, in Masonic Potter's field.

LOSS OF LEGS FATAL TO MAN

P. S. Cornell, 28, Dies De- spite Physicians' Bat- tle to Save Him.

A losing battle was fought by four prominent physicians in an effort to save the life of P. S. Cornell, 28, brakeman on the M. & N. A. Railroad company at Harrison, Ark., who suffered the loss of his feet Sunday afternoon in a railway accident.

Cornell died in the St. John's hospital shortly after 11 a. m. today.

Cornell was brought here Tuesday night from Harrison by Drs. Frank Kirby and C. M. Routh. An infection having developed, it was necessary for surgeons to make a second amputation of the left leg, the last severance being near the hip joint. The operation was performed by Drs. F. C. Roseberry and E. L. Evans, of Springfield, and the two Harrison physicians.

Cornell's condition yesterday afternoon was very good and physicians were hopeful for his recovery. However, at 10 o'clock last night, the patient suffered a relapse and his condition grew worse until death today.

Cornell was coupling cars at the M. & N. A. shop yards at 8 o'clock Sunday evening. In swinging onto a freight car he fell beneath the train. His legs were severed above the ankles.

Threatened with blood poisoning, the Harrison physicians ordered him brought to the hospital here. An amputation of the left leg just below the knee was performed Tuesday night. Later it was necessary for the physicians to make a second amputation.

Mr. Cornell's wife, mother and father were at the bedside when death came. The body will be forwarded to Harrison for burial.

PIONEER BANKER OF OZARK REGION DIES AT AURORA

Jackson Coleman, President of Bank of Marionville, Identified With Many Business Concerns

Special Dispatch to The News.

AURORA, Mo., Oct. 29.—Jackson W. Coleman, 66, for 30 years president of the Bank of Marionville, a director of the Bank of Aurora and one of the largest land owners in Southwest Missouri, died today at his home here.

The story of Mr. Coleman's life is the romance of one of this section's best known business men. From a partnership in a small mercantile store at Republic in 1851, his business interests grew rapidly and steadily, embracing a wide range of enterprises.

Mr. Coleman was born November 27, 1860, in Webster county the son of John S. Coleman and Sarah Ruffin Coleman. During the Civil war the family moved to Marshfield, returning in 1867 to Webster county to establish the old Coleman mill on the James river.

Move to Springfield

The mill was moved to Springfield in 1872, opening as the Anchor mill. The family moved to Springfield and lived there until 1877, when the elder Coleman organized a mercantile company in Marionville with two of his sons, M. L. and J. W. Coleman, and moved the family to Marionville.

J. W. Coleman and a brother purchased a mercantile store in Republic, operating it until 1883, when the store was traded for a mill at Marionville. Soon after the brothers had expanded the enterprise into a roller mill, the structure burned at a great loss. Another store was organized by J. W. Coleman and U. L. Coleman, a younger brother, at Marionville, and this latter expanded into a hardware and implement business. The three brothers opened a wholesale lumber company at Tuska-homa, then in Indian Territory, in 1893, and after a remarkable success the firm was sold in 1896. A controlling interest in the Bank of Marionville was accepted as part payment for the Tuskahoma company.

Heads County Bank

J. W. Coleman took charge of the bank in January, 1897, and immediately was elected president. A few months later the long partnership of the three brothers was dissolved, U. L. Coleman assuming control of the hardware company and M. L. Coleman taking charge of a similar enterprise at Aurora.

For 30 years Mr. Coleman continued at the head of the Marionville bank. The institution grew accordingly. In 1897 its deposits totaled $32,300. By 1916 they had reached $402,999.

Mr. Coleman suffered a paralytic stroke in November, 1926, and moved to Aurora with his family, becoming a director in the Bank of Aurora.

He is survived by the wife, two daughters, Mrs. Charles H. Fite of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Mollie Adams of Aurora; one brother, Benton D. Coleman of Springfield, and a sister, Mrs. W. H. Bradford of Marionville.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

SHOTGUN CHARGE KILLS LAMAR BOY

A. J. Spencer Killed While Squirrel Hunting With Companions

A. J. Spencer, 14-year-old High school student at Lamar, was instantly killed at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon while squirrel hunting with two companions near Lamar.

Young Spencer, together with Ralph Springer, son of the Friaco agent at Lamar and Edgar Diamond, son of Dr. W. B. Diamond, Lamar dentist, had approached a small stream and were preparing to cross when young Spencer threw his shotgun to the opposite bank.

The trigger was released by the impact and the charge struck the boy in the forehead and carried away the top of his skull.

His companions hurried to town and notified officials of the accident. Coroner C. F. Konantz decided an inquest was unnecessary. The body was removed to the Konantz Undertaking company. Funeral arrangements have not been completed pending the arrival of relatives from distant states.

Miss Ciella Collins of Monett and William Welsh of Cleveland, Okla., were married October 24 by Rev. C. P. Mills at his home 407 Sixth street. They will make their home in Oklahoma.

FIND HUMAN BONES IN RUINS OF BARN

Barton County Officials Fear Foul Play; Man Lurks Near Fire

An investigation has been launched by Coroner C. F. Konantz as a result of the finding of human bones in the ashes of an old barn, destroyed by fire early yesterday morning at the home of William Frey, farmer living near Lamar.

Frey called Coroner Konantz after noticing a suspicious character lurking near the blaze. After searching the ruins, Frey found a charred bone, believed to be the hip of a man.

No animals have been kept in the barn for some years, the coroner was told.

The fire was discovered at 2 o'clock yesterday morning and about 9 o'clock Frey said his dogs continued to bark near the old barn.

Coroner Konantz took the bones to Lamar for examination and Barton county officers will conduct an investigation in an effort to apprehend the firebugs.

Elmer Glasscock died Monday morning, the 24th, at his home in the south part of town after a short illness of dropsy and heart trouble at the age of 68 years. FAMILY OF FOUR SUFFERS INJURIES IN ROADSIDE ROW CLOSING FATALLY

Laclede County Man Critically Wounded Before He Manages to Seize Knife and Stab Rowdy to Death

DAUGHTER LOSES AN EYE AND WIFE IS BADLY CUT

Gang of Four Attempts to Break Up Pie Supper, and Once Driven Away Returns To Waylay Lebanon Folk

Special Dispatch to The News.

LEBANON, Mo., Oct. 28.—Defending his wife, daughter and himself from an attack by three youths whom he had ordered away from a pie supper, Frisco Alenstain, a resident of Lebanon, last night instantly killed one of the attackers, Ollie West, 20, by plunging a pocket knife into his side after West had knocked him down and was attempting to drag him.

Alenstain was critically injured in the fight and his recovery is considered doubtful.

In the attack which the three youths made on the family, waylaying them on the road near Mill creek school house, where the pie supper was held, the Alenstain girl's left eye was knocked out by a rock and Mrs. Alenstain was struck several times on the head, receiving severe scalp wounds.

ALENSTAIN EXHIBITS

A coroner's jury this morning exonerated Alenstain of any blame in the killing, finding it a justifiable homicide.

The three other boys in the attacking crowd besides West, who was killed, are still at large.

West was shot and killed. When the boys saw that the family was taking the body to the hospital for treatment, but Alenstain, led by the frenzy of the youth, seeing that the boy was dead, refused to let them leave the body.

They then put the corpse back in the car and drove back into Lebanon, where the sheriff and coroner found them.

STARTS AT PIE SUPPER

The trouble started early Saturday night at a pie supper which was held at the Mill Creek school house, eight miles northeast of Lebanon, under the direction of Loran Jackson, teacher, and patron of the school.

Coming up to the school house building, the four youths, Ollie West, Carrol West, Herman Smittle and Rich Lillard began annoying the persons in the building by loud talk and noise outside.

J. D. Brakelield and Alenstain, both citizens of Lebanon, joined with the boys, attempting to get them to behave.

The youths then attacked the two men, Lillard hitting Brakelield and slashing a cut down the side of his head. Alenstain was knocked down but was not seriously hurt at the time and the boys were induced to leave the place.

As the crowd filed out of the school building after the close of the entertainment, three of the youths, the two West boys and Smittle, came back and seeing that the supper was over, went a distance down the road to waylay Alenstain.

ATTACKED ON ROAD

As Alenstain and his family came along the three attacked them, throwing rocks at all three, and attacking Alenstain with clubs. Alenstain was knocked down and Ollie West got down on top of him, beating him in the face.

Managing to draw his knife from his pocket Alenstain plunged it into West's side, killing him almost instantly.

With one of her eyes mangled by a rock, the Alenstain girl ran to her home only a short distance away and called the sheriff. Mr. and Mrs. Alenstain were then taken to their home where medical treatment was given all three.

A jury was summoned to investigate the case this morning and after taking the testimony of West and Smittle, had to go to the Alenstein home.

THE JURY'S VERDICT

The jury returned the following verdict:

"We the jury, having been duly sworn and approved by S. R. Palmer, coroner of Laclede county, find the following: Ollie West came to his death by knife wounds under left arm inflicted by Frisco Alenstein, a knife then and there in his hand held.

"We the jury also find that it was a justifiable homicide and exonerate the said Alenstein of above homicide."

Members of the coroner's jury were: W. I. Diffenderfer, Bert L.

Benton, Harrison Holman, Homer Griffen, Charles R. Taylor and Homer D. Hough.

Carrol West and Herman Smittle are being held in the Lebanon jail.

The condition of Alenstein was regarded as critical tonight. He has been in a semi-conscious condition since the fight and is unable to move.

The mother of the boy who was killed and the West boy who is now being held in jail arrived here tonight from her home in Oklahoma. Viewing the body of her son in the morgue here she collapsed and had to be carried to her room. Funeral arrangements for West have not been completed.

Lamar High School Students in Final Tribute to Comrade

Mourning the death of their chum, A. J. Spencer, killed in a hunting accident Saturday near Lamar, students in all classes of the Lamar High school were dismissed yesterday afternoon to attend funeral services for the Spencer youth at the Lamar Methodist church.

Young Spencer, 14-year-old high school student, was killed instantly early Saturday afternoon while squirrel hunting with two companions. Preparing to cross a small stream, the boy threw his shotgun to the opposite bank. The fall forced the trigger and the charge of heavy shot struck Spencer in the forehead, blowing away the top of his skull.

The boy had been one of the most popular young students at the Lamar High school. Scores of his classmates, and many townspeople, gathered at the Methodist church for the funeral service. Burial was in Lake cemetery at Lamar. The Spencer youth is survived by his father and mother, a sister and a brother.

PICKED UP UNCONSCIOUS

Saw Train Pull In While Driv-

Effort to Overtake It

HURLED headlong to the rocky right-of-way as he made an unsuccessful attempt to board a moving Frisco passenger train at Galloway, five miles south of here, Charles Leon LaHawn, 19, of 918 West Monroe street, suffered fatal injuries at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The youth died two hours after the accident in the Frisco hospital here.

Thrown from the Chadwick Springfield train to the right-of-way as he grabbed for the iron railing on a passenger coach, young LaHawn suffered fractured skull, a deep scalp wound, a crushed right shoulder and other internal injuries. It is believed his head struck a sharp object as he was unconscious when he landed in the Ash Grove Lane and Oakwood cemetery at Galloway reached him and remained unconscious until he died, though he seemed to be conscious at first.

LaHawn was a native of Chicago and had been in Springfield for some time. He was a member of the Ash Grove Lane and Oakwood cemetery at Galloway. He was seen here yesterday morning when he came here to go to Galloway to have lunch at the home of his mother and Mrs. Mary Kane, to visit his son, Charles. He decided to return to Springfield on the afternoon train. Leaving the Kane home as the train pulled into the Galloway station, he ran along the Ocmulgee-Springfield highway for several yards, crossed on a private roadway to the railroad tracks and attempted to board the moving train.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. LaHawn, and two brothers, Henry L. and Jackson E. LaHawn, all of Springfield. Funeral arrangements are incomplete, but burial will be under direction of the Alma Lohmeyer funeral home.

TO HOLD INQUEST

Jewell E. Windle, Greene county coroner, will make a full investigation of the accident today. An inquest to fix responsibility for the youth's death probably will be ordered, he said last night.

An ambulance from Springfield reached the scene of the accident in less than ten minutes after it occurred. Mrs. George Proctor and Mrs. Kane of Galloway accompanied the injured youth in the ambulance to the hospital here.

Coroner Continues Probe of Mystery Fire Near Lamar

Belief that a man perished in the mysterious fire which destroyed a hay-filled barn at the home of William Frey near Lamar early Friday morning was strengthened yesterday with the discovery of a metal overall buckle and metal buttons in the ruins where bits of charred bones previously had been found.

Mr. Frey reported yesterday to Coroner C. F. Konantz, who is investigating the blaze, that he had found an overall buckle and several metal buttons in the ruins of the barn almost at the same spot where he had earlier discovered what appeared to be parts of human bones. He reiterated his conviction that there was no livestock in the barn at the time of the fire.

One of the charred bones found in the gutted barn appeared to be part of the hip bone of a man. Another charred bit was thought to be a human tooth, but a dentist at Lamar could not identify it positively.

Coroner Konantz is seeking an unidentified man, dressed in slouch hat and overalls, who was seen about the fire shortly after it was discovered about 2 o'clock Friday morning. The man appeared suddenly out of the darkness, Frey told the coroner, asked about the cause of the blaze and then disappeared.

CORNER'S JURY CALLED TO PROBE LAWHON DEATH

A coroner's jury will meet at 10 o'clock this morning in the Frisco railway station at Galloway, five miles southeast of here, to fix responsibility for the death of Charles Leon Lawhon, Springfield youth, who was injured fatally when he made an unsuccessful attempt to board a moving passenger train at Galloway Monday afternoon.

Coroner Jewell E. Windle called the inquest after a preliminary investigation of the accident yesterday. Ross Kane of Galloway, the engineer of the train and other eye witnesses will testify during the jury's probe.

Funeral services for the youth will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Church of Christ, corner of Broadway and Madison street, with the Reverend William Ragsdale officiating. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

"I'VE turned over a new leaf—I'm going to start over, and from now on I'm going to do everything for her happiness and pleasure."

Crawford Williams speaking, 77-year-old bridegroom who yesterday was happy in his remarriage to Maggie Williams, 530 College street, who divorced him more than two years ago.

"He didn't want no other woman; and I didn't want no other man," Mrs. Williams sums it up, smiling contentedly. "We're getting along—" Mrs. Williams is 55—"and we need each other's companionship. He's good help—" Mrs. Williams runs a rooming house—"and I think I'll get along better with a man around."

Mrs. Williams has four sons, but two of them are married, and the other two—the youngest is 20 this week—she thinks are likely to leave at any time. There's more security in a husband; particularly a husband who has been tried and proved.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams first were married in Arkansas, eight years ago. Mrs. Williams, after 30 years of widowhood, was a lonely widow; Mr. Williams, too, was lonely, with two wives dead, and his three children grown. So they were married—

For six years they lived amiably, coming to Springfield in 1921. Then, still amiably, she divorced him—for reasons "too personal," she says, to be revealed. "We never did have any trouble," she said. "I just told him I was going to divorce him; and when I say a thing, I mean it. When the day to get the divorce came, he said to my lawyer, 'I guess there's no use my coming, is there?' and the lawyer said 'certainly not.' But he just came along anyway—" Mrs. Williams implies that he didn't want her to face the ordeal alone. "It was the first time I ever had been in court, and he sat right beside me and held my umbrella all the time. Then I got my divorce, and he brought me home."

Mr. Williams moved into the country near Willard—Mrs. Williams thought he might get lonely, so she wrote him regularly, and he wrote her. Then, further to keep him from feeling too lonely, she sent him a subscription to The Republican. The boy to whom she gave the order, misunderstanding, sent her copy of the paper to him instead of an extra one, and for a week she had to buy her own paper each morning at the newsstand—

"But I didn't mind," she says—"I knew he would want it."

In April, 1926, she married again, a man "who tried all the time to get me to sign over all my property to him; and I wouldn't do that for him, or for no man." After two months, he left—"He thought he could go away for a couple of days, and then come back and I'd do anything," she said. "But oh! it was a great relief to have him gone! I was so glad!" she says. And when he did come back, he found a closed door. In September, exactly a year after divorcing Mr. Williams, she divorced him.

She then resumed correspondence with Mr. Williams. Last summer he went to Florida for the winter, and repeatedly wrote her to come down there and marry him again. "But I couldn't leave Springfield," she explains. "I have a lot of Al friends here, and I didn't want to leave a sure thing for something that would be uncertain."

So he came back here instead, arriving Monday—and yesterday they were married.

Henry P. Walker, 26, Pryor, Okla., and Chloa Smithpeter, 24, Grove, Okla.; Harold E. Avery, 22, Nixa, and Lucille Stricker, 21, Ozark; Paul Burgan, 24, Sparta, and Glynn McCoy, 23, Springfield; Crawford M. Williams, 77, Tampa, Fla., and Maggie Williams, 55, Springfield.

Alleging that her husband was quarrelsome, and that he cursed and abused and struck her on different occasions, Naomi Smith has filed suit for divorce from J. Obie Smith. They were married October 20, 1924, and separated last June.

The entire estate of the late Elsie C. Farnsworth, Springfield nurse, who committed suicide by drowning recently at St. Louis, goes to her mother, Mrs. Lucy Elizabeth Farnsworth, under the terms of her will which was filed for probate yesterday.

The will contains no information as to the probable value of the estate but it is understood that she owned a small amount of real estate.

The will was drawn February 9, 1926, at New Bloomfield, in Calloway county, and names Senator Nick T. Cave of Fulton, as executor to serve without bond. It was witnessed by W. L. Proffier and W. A. Schoen.

SOCIETY GIRL KILLED, 3 HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Auto Accident on National Boulevard Culminates Dance Party.

COLLIDE WITH TREE

Downpour Causes Driver to Fail to Make Curve.

One person is dead and three others are in St. John's hospital seriously injured as a result of an automobile accident at midnight last night on the National boulevard at National cemetery.

The dead:

Miss Mary Bell Newman, 20 years old, prominent social leader of the Joplin younger set, and a daughter of Frank Newman, high Prieco official.

The injured:

Miss Emily Kingsbury, 21 years old, also prominent in Joplin society.

Lawrence Price, young automobile salesman of Baxter Springs, Kan.

Ralph Osterloh, of Joplin, son of T. W. Osterloh, of the Osterloh Stationery and Printing company.

Cash-Awake Family.

The tragedy of her friends came as a tragic climax to an evening's pleasure at Hark-a-Bill Tea house, where the two couples had attended a dance given by the Springfield Post-Examiner club in honor of the Joplin Post-Examiner.

The accident occurred when the Chevrolet car in which the young people were riding came to the sharp turn in the boulevard directly in front of the main entrance to the National cemetery. Mrs. Price, who was was unable to bring the car to a stop.

The car struck a tree on the left side of the road and was demolished, all of the occupants of the car being injured, and Miss Newman sustaining injuries resulting in her death an hour later.

The sound of splintering glass and the rending of metal attracted the attention of the caretaker's family at the cemetery, Mr. and Mrs. John McCarthy and their son, Harold. The son ran to the highway where he found the injured persons and the wrecked car.

All of the injured were taken into McCarthy residence and the Herman H. Lohmeyer ambulance was called, the alarm being received in Springfield at 11:55 o'clock. They were rushed to St. John's hospital, where Miss Newman died without regaining consciousness.

Examination disclosed that Miss Newman sustained a crushed skull, internal injuries and lacerations to her body. Miss Kingsbury's injuries are a fractured nose and serious lacerations on her hands, arms and face.

Of Prominent Families.

Mr. Price sustained a serious gash over the left eye and cut on his left arm and leg.

Of the men, Mr. Osterloh was the more seriously injured, sustaining several broken ribs and lacerations about the face.

All of the persons in last night's tragedy were of prominent Joplin and Baxter Springs families. Miss Newman was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Newman, who have been well known in Joplin for many years. Mr. Newman is chief passenger agent for the Prieco at Joplin, returning there from Kansas City yesterday after spending two years in that city.

Miss Newman attended Missouri university in 1924 and was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Miss Kingsbury is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Kingsbury, Joplin, and also is popular among the younger men and women of the city. She attended Missouri university and is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. Her father is an ore buyer in Joplin.

Mr. Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Price is connected with the Chevrolet agency operated in Baxter Springs by his brother, Herbert Price.

Mr. Osterloh is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Osterloh, both of whom are prominent Joplin residents. The elder Osterloh owns the Osterloh Stationery and Printing company, a large Joplin business firm, and is president of the Joplin Rotary club.

The families of all the persons in the accident were in Springfield this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Newman returning here from Lebanon, which point they had reached en route to Evansville, Ind., when word of their daughter's death was given them.

Mr. and Mrs. Kingsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Price and their son Herbert, and Mr. and Mrs. Osterloh arrived in Springfield early this morning, setting out immediately for this city upon receiving word of the accident.

The Newmans were en route to Evansville, Ind., to visit Mr. Newman's father, when they received word on a train at Buffalo of their daughter's accident.

Miss Newman was met at the train by Miss Kingsbury, Mr. Price and Mr. Osterloh, who asked her to drive to Springfield last night to attend the Pathfinder dance. The party left Joplin at 7.30 o'clock, arriving here in time for the dance.

When the Pathfinder affair ended at Half-a-Hill the two couples started back to Joplin. A heavy rain was falling when they left Half-a-Hill and when they reached the sharp turn at National cemetery the downpour had made vision practically impossible and Price did not see the turn in time to avoid crashing into a tree.

It was expected that Miss Kingsbury and Mr. Price would be taken back to Joplin late this afternoon, but Mr. Osterloh will be forced to remain in St. John's for several days for treatment.

Funeral arrangements for Miss Newman are incomplete. The body was accompanied back to Joplin by the girl's mother and father. Services probably will be held sometime tomorrow in Joplin, it was said.

Mrs. Newman was in a hospital here this morning under a physician's care.

77 REWEDS 58 AFTER DIVORCE

Mrs. Williams Had Married Another While They Were Apart.

Their faces aglow with happiness, Crawford Williams, 77, and Maggie Williams, 58, who were remarried yesterday after being divorced two years ago, today were receiving felicitations of friends at the elderly bride's rooming house at 539 College street.

Since they were divorced, Mrs. Williams had wed again, but soon after got a divorce.

"Mr. Williams and I have always been good friends," Mrs. Williams declared, "and there was no ill feeling at the time of our separation two years ago. Our only trouble was that he was in the rooming house business, which kept him away from my home, and I could not have the companionship I desired. At that time he didn't feel that he could give up his business, but now he has decided that he will stay with me and if he goes into any business it will be close to home so he can eat and sleep here."

Mr. and Mrs. Williams first were married nine years ago at Batesville, Ark. They removed to Bartlesville, Okla., shortly afterwards, and three years later they came to Springfield where they made their home until Mrs. Williams obtained a divorce two years ago.

Mrs. Williams was a widow and he a widower at the time of their first marriage. Mr. Williams had lost two wives and Mrs. Williams one husband. Both have grown grandchildren and are proud of their age.

During the time Mr. and Mrs. Williams were divorced she was again married, but soon became dissatisfied with her other spouse and divorced him within a year from the time she obtained a divorce from Mr. Williams.

Hunt Mother of Tot, Victim of Pneumonia At Children's Home

Chubby, good-natured little Lillian Caron, 4 years old, a favorite among children and attendants at the Springfield Children's home, died at the home early yesterday of pneumonia.

While the older children of the orphanage mourned the child's death, officials of the home tried vainly to find her mother, Mrs. Lillian Caron, and appealed to the press to aid their search for her.

The girl's father died here less than a year ago of pneumonia. Lillian and her 2-year-old brother, William, were placed in the children's home by their mother. Officials of the home last heard from Mrs. Caron three weeks ago. She then was in Monett, and wrote that she planned to move soon to an Oklahoma city. Attempts to reach her at Monett proved futile.

The little girl contracted pneumonia Monday afternoon, and a physician was called immediately. She failed to respond to treatment and her condition grew rapidly worse.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Herman Lohmeyer funeral home, with burial in Hazelwood cemetery.

CREW HELD BLAMELESS FOR YOUTH'S DEATH

The train crew of the Springfield-Chadwick Frisco branch line yesterday was absolved of blame in connection with the accident at Gallo-way Monday when Charles Leon Lawhon, Springfield youth, was fatally injured.

Bert Lyons, engineer, testified at the hearing that the youth made a frantic effort to grab a railing of the train. He missed and the bar apparently struck him and knocked him to the right-of-way, Lyons said. H. C. Parvin, conductor, gave a similar account of the accident.

The coroner's jury was composed of William Deese, foreman; Loyd Garrison, W. J. Richardson, A. L. Richardson, E. E. Gooch and J. C. Benton.

Funeral services were held yesterday at 2:30 at the Alma Lohmeyer funeral home for the Lawhon youth. Burial was in Memorial park cemetery under direction of the Modern Woodmen of America.

ENGLISH YOUTH HERE TO LIVE

His Sister, on Arrival Here, Is Surprised Not to Find More Gold Teeth; Orphans Are at Home of Their Aunt, Mrs. G. Parry Williams.

"The American people are a charming surprise to me," declared Miss Agnes Slocombe, 19, who with her brother, Ronald, arrived in Springfield from Swansea, England, to make their home with their aunt, Mrs. G. Parry Williams of the Virginia apartments.

When informed by a reporter that an interview with them was desired, Miss Slocombe, demurely gasped, "Why you must not put anything in the paper about us. Why in England people do not get write-ups unless they do something. Why your American newspapers certainly go after publicity."

"We are both surprised at America. We find that the people here are not so different from the English as we expected. We expected to find a lot of gold teeth. But the American people we have met do not seem to be any more money-grasping than the English, said Miss Slocombe.

When Ronald was asked what he thought of the American girl, he replied, with a smile:

"They seem to use more rouge than the English girl." Miss Slocombe was not wearing any.

"Oh, you must not say that, Ronald," she told him, with a little laugh, "you will have the American girls angry with us right from the beginning.

"That's right," he replied smiling at his sister. "Maybe you had better leave that out."

"You see," Ronald said, "we have not been in America long enough to form any definite opinions about it. But we are sure we will like it. The people we have met have been more than charming and have treated us lovely.

"We intend to make Springfield our home for the present."

Their father, who was an English ship captain, died recently. Their mother having died several years before, they decided to come to Springfield to live with their aunt.

Their future plans have as yet not been made.

Erects Own Tombstone; Is in 'Pink of Health'

"Uncle Dick" Smith, Union Veteran and Pioneer of Howell County, Just Wanted to Select His Own Marker, He Explains; Name Is Inscribed on Shaft.

Although he never "felt better in his life," E. G. ("Uncle Dick") Smith, Union veteran and pioneer citizen of Howell county, has had a tombstone erected for himself. It became known today.

The unpretentious marker that "Uncle Dick" selected to designate his eternal resting place has been placed in the Barnett cemetery, 10 miles northeast of West Plains.

Passers-by noticed the glistening new stone in the cemetery this week.

There was no fresh dirt to indicate a recent burial.

Closer inspection revealed the following inscription:

"E. G. Smith, commissary sergeant, Company A, 12th Missouri cavalry, born August 11, 1842, in a hunter's camp in Shannon county, Mo."

There is a place left for the monument workers to chisel out the date of his death.

Mr. Smith now resides at Mountain View. He is still hale and hearty, but declared he wanted to select his "own tombstone."

INJURED PAIR BEG TO ATTEND VICTIM'S RITES

the funeral this afternoon. Mary Belle Newman, killed here Monday night in an auto crash, two youths who were with the young woman on the tragic Halloween party at Half-a-Mill Tea House pleaded vainly to be allowed to attend the funeral rites. Both are patients at St. John's hospital.

Willing to face the danger of complications that they would invite by leaving their beds at the hospital both tried to get friends to take them to Joplin for the funeral, it was learned.

One Victim Leaves.

The youths are Ralph Osterloh, son of T. W. Osterloh of Joplin, and Lawrence Price, Baxter Springs, Kan., auto salesman.

Miss Emily Kingsbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Kingsbury of Joplin, who also was injured in the crash, was released from the hospital yesterday.

Rash Act Forbidden.

She will attend the funeral.

"Both youths feel terribly about being unable to attend the funeral," the physician attending the two youths said. "But it was necessary that they be forbidden from carrying out their desires."

Osterloh is suffering from a broken rib and several severe cuts about the mouth, while Price is suffering from wounds on the arm and forehead.

Funeral services for Miss Newman were to be held at 2:30 o'clock today from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Newman, 402 Moffet avenue, Joplin.

Schoolmates Are Pallbearers.

The Rev. B. F. Crisman, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, will officiate. Burial will be in Mount Hope cemetery near Joplin.

Pallbearers will be Monte Taylor, Everett Askins and Howard Sharp of Joplin, and James Harrington, Joe Collins and Joe Hubbell of Kansas City. They were schoolmates of Miss Newman.

The accident occurred at a curve on South National avenue near National cemetery.

Price, driving the coupe in which the four young people were riding, failed to make the turn and the auto crashed into a tree. Miss Newman died an hour after the accident in St. John's hospital.

A heavy downpour of rain blinded Price.

ST. LOUIS WAS HIS HOME
WHEN BUT A TRADING POST

Came to Springfield 60 Years Ago; Drove to St. Louis With Friends Only Last Month; Knew End Near

THE colorful and dramatic life of "Uncle Job" Newton, last survivor of the famous "Forty-niners" in Greene county, pioneer business man here and "the grand-old man of Masonry in Missouri," ended at 6:45 o'clock last night in the quiet sleep of death.

On July 27 of this year, Mr. Newton had observed the first anniversary of his birth with a merry festival of fellow Masons and state leaders of the Eastern Star in Phelps Grove park.

He died early last night as he slept at his home here. All the time of his death was 80 years old. Dwight Newton of Springfield, and a few close friends of the family

KNEW DEATH NEAR

Death of the widely known citizen-ship had been feared for several days. For two months, since the worst of the unusually warm fall weather, he had suffered occasional heart attacks. A few weeks ago he confided to friends that "my time is almost up."

Leaders of the Eastern Star, an order which he founded in Missouri, entertained "Uncle Job" Tuesday with a dinner at his home. An annual affair, the dinner had been arranged earlier this year than before because of a fear that Mr

Newton could not live much longer. He appeared drowsy during the dinner, and was forced to retire before the guests departed. He lapsed Tuesday afternoon into a half-stupor, trying vainly to talk to his son, and apparently never recovered complete consciousness.

"Uncle Job" spent his last fully conscious hours Tuesday in the company of his old friends of the Eastern Star and Masonry—Mrs. M. D. Welch, Mrs. Lena Miller, Mrs. D. T. Kizer, Dr. Laura Chambers, Mrs. B. B. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Henry O'Bryant and Mrs. E. M. West.

HIS HEART WEAKENS

Dr. W. P. Patterson, the family physician, called at the Newton home shortly before 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Newton's heart action had become very weak, and the physician said death was inevitable within a few hours.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night, pending the arrival of another son, Emmett Newton, from New York City. Mr. Dwight Newton believes, however, that his father had requested a Knight Templar funeral, and such a service probably will be conducted Sunday afternoon at the Paxson funeral home, with burial in Maple Park cemetery.

ST. LOUIS TRADING POST

Born on a Delaware farm in the early days of another century, Mr. Newton at the age of 12 moved with his widowed mother to St. Louis, then little more than an Indian trading post, in 1838, making the long overland journey across wilderness trail. It was the beginning of a colorful, adventurous life on the western frontier.

The rest of his boyhood he spent in the gay river town that was then St. Louis. A youth of 13 when the first rush of adventurers to the gold fields of California began in 1849, he led one of the first covered wagon trains on the perilous journey into the west.

LED TRAIN ACROSS DESERT

Five years later he brought the first supplies into the little Mormon village on the banks of the Great Salt Lake of Utah which was to become the great Salt Lake City of today. Freightling across the deserts of the southwest, he led a train of 25 wagons into Utah, going on from Salt Lake City to California with a great herd of cattle, and adding in the building of the second house in the city of Grass Valley, Cal.

Almost 60 years ago, at the age of 43, he decided to "settle down" in Springfield, apparently deciding to leave the rough life of the frontier to younger men.

For a time here he had a woolen mill, and engaged in fur trading. Later he established a dry goods store, and after a time launched the Newton Grain and Commission company on the corner of the street where he has lived for many years.

ACTIVE AT 90

Until past 90 years old, he remained active and interested in business life and in affairs of Masonry and the Eastern Star. Then he retired and was content to spend his time chatting with old friends and working in his carefully kept garden. He was able to get about in his garden with the aid of crutches until about four years ago, when he was forced to resort to a wheel chair.

After coming to Springfield, Mr. Newton took an active interest in fraternal work, being credited with organizing the first chapter of the Order of Eastern Star in Missouri. He was a member of several Masonic orders, including the Knights Templar and the Abou Ben Adhem Shrine. He also was a past grand patron of the Eastern Star of Missouri.

HONORED BY MASONRY

In his famous freighting trip to Salt Lake City and California, Mr. Newton left St. Louis early in the spring, arriving in California the following October. He returned to St. Louis in 1851 by the Nicaragua route on a Vanderbilt vessel, the first free run in opposition to the Pacific Mail route. He crossed the Isthmus of Panama in 1855 on his way to San Francisco, returning to St. Louis in 1856. Selling his business interests in St. Louis, he came to Springfield in 1868.

In recent years "Uncle Job" had been signally honored on many occasions by state leaders of Masonry and the Eastern Star, who gathered here each year on his birthday to pay tribute to him as "the grand old man of Masonry in Missouri."

ST. LOUIS BY AUTO

Three weeks ago he made an automobile trip to St. Louis with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. O'Bryant, marveling at the speed and ease with which the trip was made in comparison with the old days of the covered wagon. He seemed to enjoy the trip tremendously, and to suffer no ill effects from the unusual activity.

Less than a week ago he drove out into the country with his son, Dwight, and enjoyed the outing a great deal.

He is survived only by the two sons, Dwight and Emmett Newton, and a niece, Mrs. George Teaffe of Cherryvale, Kan.

Death Was Feared.

heart attack. Not many days ago he confided to close friends that his "time was almost up."

"The grand old man of Masonry" was entertained Tuesday by the Eastern Star, an order which he founded in Missouri, with a dinner at his home. This dinner had been an annual affair for several years.

Lapsed Into Stupor.

The dinner was given a few weeks earlier this year for fear that "Uncle Job" would not live long. Mr. Newton was forced to leave his guests and retire before the dinner was over.

Late Tuesday afternoon he lapsed into a stupor. He vainly tried to talk to his son. Apparently he never recovered complete consciousness.

Dr. W. P. Patterson, the family physician, called at the Newton home shortly before 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Newton's heart action had become very weak. The physician said death was inevitable within a few hours.

Worked Until 90.

Mr. Newton remained actively engaged in business until after he was 90 years old. When he first came to Springfield, Mr. Newton took an active interest in fraternal work. He was credited with organizing the first chapter of the Order of Eastern Star in Missouri. He was a member of several Masonic orders, including the Knights Templar and the Abou Ben Adhem Shrine. He also was a past grand patron of the Eastern Star of Missouri.

"Uncle Job" was prominent in Springfield's early business affairs. For a time here he had a woolen mill, and engaged in fur trading. Later he established a dry goods store. After a time he launched the Newton Grain and Commission company on the corner of the street where he has lived for many years.

Took an Outing.

Mr. Newton was instrumental in building of the famous Metropolitan hotel, in the early days this being the scene of all political gatherings, and the old Mansfield theater, formerly located where the Rogers-Baldwin Hardware company now stands.

Mr. Newton recently made a trip to St. Louis with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. O'Bryant. He marveled at the speed and ease with which the trip was made in comparison with the old days of the covered wagon.

Last week he drove out into the country with his son, Dwight. He greatly enjoyed the outing, his son said.

Mr. Newton was born on July 29, 1834, on a farm five miles from Georgetown, Dela. While yet a child he came west with his mother to St. Louis, making the trip by steamboat and wagon train. The route followed by "Uncle Job" and his mother was by the way of Wabash, Ind., Philadelphia, Penn., Pittsburgh, Penn., and Alton, Ill. Mr. Newton, his mother and three brothers arrived in St. Louis, then a small trading town, in 1839.

Braved Unknown.

From 1839 until March 17, 1849, "Uncle Job" was engaged in the pastimes of youth and in training himself in the grain and freighting business.

In 1840, Mr. Newton was one of a party that set out for Salt Lake City with a cargo of freight. The wagon train of which "Uncle Job" was a member was composed of only a few men and three wagons.

The freight trip was a success, the wagon train reaching Salt Lake City many months later, and returning to St. Louis almost a year after its original departure.

From 1849 until 1854 Mr. Newton engaged in freighting cargoes from St. Louis to the west, making his last trip in 1854. Upon his return to St. Louis, after the last trip in 1854, Mr. Newton became one of the leading buyers of wool, furs and produce in St. Louis.

In 1854 a representative of Mr. Newton's company in St. Louis was sent to Springfield to purchase a building site for a woolen mill. A site was obtained at the intersection of Campbell avenue and Mill street, but "Uncle Job" did not like "the sound" of his representative's letters and came to this city in 1856.

After inspecting the site in Springfield, as well as sites throughout this region, Mr. Newton decided that a woolen mill would not be practical in this region, but was so attracted by the beauty of the Ozarks that he decided to make his home here.

Wife Died in 1864.

Mr. Newton returned to St. Louis after his first west trip, and moved with his wife to Springfield, Mo. His wife, who died in 1864, was formerly Miss Minerva Ault, and was born in Pennsylvania, the daughter of one of the oldest and most prominent families of that state. Mr. and Mrs. Newton were married in 1856 in St. Louis by Alexander Campbell, who later formed the Campbellite church, which is now known as the Christian church.

On making his home in Springfield, "Uncle Job" entered the grain and feed business. For many years he operated a firm on the public square, and later moved to a site on South Market avenue. The Newton Grain and Feed company was known throughout southwest Missouri as one of the leading establishments of its kind in this state.

"Uncle Job" resided in Springfield continually since the time he moved here in 1860, with the exception of one year, 1892, when he made his home in Kansas City.

100-YEAR-OLD HISTORY OF CHURCH COMPLETED

A history of the First Baptist church of Springfield has been compiled by M. M. Richardson, of the Turner Furnishing Goods company, church clerk and senior deacon. The history begins with the first religious service in the county and includes life sketches of all the pastors of the church, and of a number of church leaders. The book will be published immediately after the diamond jubilee celebration of the church and the events of the celebration will be included in the book.

Miss Addie Livingston has contributed the story of the missionary work of the church for the history. Mr. Richardson has been a member of the church for twenty-five years and is active in the church work. He has compiled the history with a view to giving the people interested in the church a clear insight into its activities and familiarizing them with the interesting facts of its early life.

CHARGE DOCTOR WITH MURDER OF CITY MARSHAL

Southwest City Physician Is Spirited to Joplin Jail as Feeling Runs High; Officer Shot to Death on the Streets.

Charges of first degree murder were filed late yesterday at Pineville against Dr. Edward Croxdale, Southwest City physician. Prosecuting Attorney J. T. Pinnell of McDonald county said today. Croxdale is charged in connection with the slaying last August of Night Marshal W. H. Hatfield of Southwest City.

Dr. Croxdale is being held in the city jail at Joplin for safe keeping. The Southwest City physician was taken into custody 10 days ago on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Raced to Joplin.

He probably will be arraigned for

The doctor and his physician was spirited to the Joplin jail for fear of his safety, authorities said.

Art Craig and Luther McDonald, arrested several days ago, are held under bond as witnesses, Prosecuting Attorney Pinnell said today.

Fair Talked.

Filing of the murder charges against Dr. Croxdale came after Craig and McDonald are said to have furnished information to McDonald county authorities in connection with the case. Craig is still in jail at Pineville. McDonald has been removed to the county jail at Neosho.

McDonald county officers said Hatfield had conducted a campaign to "rid the town of bootleggers and law violators." Attorney Pinnell stated. There had been enmity of long standing between the two men, according to Pinnell.

Hatfield was shot and killed August 10 on the main street of Southwest City and his body was found the following morning. Theories that he was slain by bank bandits or bootleggers have been abandoned.

The centennial celebration will last all day and will be featured by addresses by W. D. Upshaw, congressman from Atlanta, Ga., and W. O. Anderson, a former pastor of the First Baptist church here, who will speak on "The World's Debt to the Baptists." A basket dinner will be served at the church at noon, and the day will be spent in exchanging reminiscences of the past history of the church, and in summing up the Baptist work of the county.

And So Uncle Job Built His Bridge For Those to Come

ON HIS hundred and first birthday Uncle Job Newton gave to his friend a little card which bore the lines of this verse, "The Building of the Bridge."

"An old man going a lone highway Came at the evening cold and gray
To a chasm vast and deep and wide.
The old man crossed in the twilight dim,

The sullen stream had no fears for him,

But he turned when safe on the other side,

And built a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man," said a fellow pilgrim near,

"You are wasting your time with building here,

You never again will pass this way.

Your journey will end with the closing day.

You have crossed the chasm deep and wide,

Why build you this bridge at evening tide?"

The builder lifted his old gray head,

"Good friend, in the way that I've come," he said,

"There I'll meet after me today,

A youth, whose feet must pass this way.

"This stream that has been as naught to me,

To the fair-haired youth might a pit-fall be.

He, too, must cross in the twilight dim.

Good friend, I am building the bridge for him!"

JOB NEWTON

associated with his father in the grain business here until his retirement about 10 years ago, since that time has lived with and cared for his father, and was with him at the time of his death.

Wherever older Springfieldians met yesterday, the death—but even more, the life—of "Uncle Job" was the topic of conversation. In homes, in offices and shops, and over restaurant tables, old acquaintances were recalling tales and anecdotes of his long life here.

HIS CRONIES GONE

"Uncle Job," at 101, had outlived by 15 years the last of his own generation of intimate cronies; but there are scores of younger men, white-headed themselves now, and associates of his later years, who recalled and related the things which had made him for half-a-century an outstanding and well-loved figure—

How for 66 years he had been in the grain business here, known and dealt with virtually all of the farmers in Springfield's trade territory, as well as with the business men of the city, until he probably had a wider acquaintance than any other man in the Ozarks.

How he was noted for his square dealing, so that "his word was as good as his bond" throughout the region.

SAW CITY'S FUTURE

How he was civic-minded, foreseeing in Springfield's earlier days how the city would develop, and making his vision effective—how, with two associates, he recognized that one day the city would need downtown properties and so bought "the city lot" to hold for that need. It was the block bounded by College, Campbell, McDaniel and Market, where convention hall, the city fire department, and the city jail now stand.

Years later, when the city did need the property, values had increased enormously. In the meantime, one of the three holders had sold out. Mr. Newton and the other had held the rest as a sort of trust established by themselves, and they sold it to the city at the price they had paid for it—and even then took payment in long-time warrants.

BUILT FAMOUS HOTEL

This, old friends pointed out yesterday, was merely an example of the activities of "Uncle Job," who was ever a moving spirit in city progress. They recalled that he was one of the builders of the famous Metropolitan hotel, by far the finest hotel in all the southwest, which was built in an attempt to "save" Springfield when the Frisco went through North Springfield—and was a big factor in the success and growth of the city, for years a headquarters for social, political, and commercial life. That he was, too, one of the builders of the splendid old Mansfield Opera House, at 315 South street, where the artistic activities of the southwest centered for years.

HIS BIG HEART

There were many to recall that Job Newton, frequently from "behind the scenes," assured the success of many civic and Masonic ventures—and that his great but unostentatious generosity was the foundation for many a successful business and successful life today; how frequently his right hand gave what his left hand knew not of, and sometimes months or even years later, his closest friends, or even members of his own family, would happen by chance onto some act of free and generous giving which had never been revealed.

So it was that recollections of his genial humor, his consideration, honesty, and leadership, formed many a conversation again yesterday.

Friday evening, his work long since done, and his fine, vigorous old body too weary to carry on, Job Newton died at his home, 515 West Walnut street.

Today his friends, and the children and grandchildren of friends of former generations, will gather to do him final honor—

Husband Awarded Decree of Divorce At Second Hearing

The second trial of a divorce suit between Joseph Gaddy, Frisco telegraph operator, and Dolly Gaddy, resulted in a verdict for the husband in Judge Warren L. White's division of the circuit court yesterday. The father also was awarded the custody of the two children, Franklin, eight years old, and Connie Elizabeth, four.

The first suit was filed by the husband and was tried at the last term of court before Judge Guy D. Kirby. When Judge Kirby intimated that he would grant the wife a divorce on her cross bill, a non-suit was taken by the husband, which amounted to a dismissal of the case.

The wife then filed suit for divorce, and the case was transferred to Judge White's division. A cross-bill was filed by the husband.

Abuse and association with other women were charged by the wife, while the husband claimed his wife had nagged at him and neglected her housework.

Of Freight Train at Fair

LIVES TO EMBRACE SON, WHO HURRIES TO BEDSIDE

George M. Forrester of Springfield, Wins Race With Death; Mother Conscious to the End

IGNORING the shrill warning of the train's whistle and the loud clanging of its bell, Mrs. Martha E. Forrester, 70, mother of George M. Forrester of Springfield, suffered fatal injuries at 11 o'clock yesterday morning when she walked into the path of a slowly moving freight train near her home at Fair Play.

The aged woman was struck by the engine of the train and thrown clear of the track, sustaining a deep scalp wound, possibly a fractured skull, a fracture of the collar bone and injuries to her spine. She died at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in her little home at Fair Play.

Mrs. Forrester had walked to the business district of Fair Play yesterday morning to transact a few matters of business and get her mail. Walking homeward, she approached the Frisco railway crossing at the east end of the passenger station as local freight train No. 56 moved slowly into the town from the south. Members of the crew said the train was not traveling more than 12 miles an hour.

WALKS TO DEATH

Men at the station shouted to her vainly to stop as it became evident that she was deeply engrossed in her own thoughts and did not see the train or hear its crossing whistle blast. W. E. Knapp, of Clinton, the engineer, did not see her approach, but the fireman, William Ackerman of Clinton, noticed her a moment before the train struck her and tried frantically to avert the tragedy by ringing at the bell.

Mrs. Forrester was almost across the track, still apparently unaware of her danger, when the engine struck her.

Members of the train crew were the first to reach her. She was unconscious for several minutes, but then recovered from the stupor and did not appear to be dangerously hurt. She was taken immediately to her home for treatment.

RECOGNIZES SON

Her son, George M. Forrester, commercial agent for the Frisco here, won a race against death to her bedside, reaching Fair Play with Mrs. Forrester about 23 minutes before his mother expired. She still was conscious when he arrived at the home, recognizing him and talking to him.

Mrs. Forrester had lived in Fair Play for 15 years, since her son, B. U. Forrester, now of Pittsburgh, Pa., was first named passenger agent for the Frisco there. She chose to remain in Fair Play and live alone when Mr. Forrester later was transferred.

She is survived by the two sons and two daughters, Mrs. Willard Estes of Des Moines, Iowa, and Mrs. Zula Forrester of Kansas City.

The body was brought to Springfield for burial yesterday evening by the Alma Lohmeyer funeral home.

WIDOW OF VETERAN

Mrs. Forrester was the widow of Thomas D. Forrester, a Civil war veteran and for many years a merchant at Rogersville, in Christian county. Soon after her husband's death in 1901, Mrs. Forrester moved to Springfield, living here until 1911, when she went with her son, Bentley Forrester, to Fair Play.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, pending arrival of relatives, but burial will be in Maple Park cemetery under direction of the Alma Lohmeyer funeral home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Forrester had hoped, when they left Springfield by bus at noon yesterday after receiving word of the accident, that the aged woman might be rushed to a hospital here for treatment, but she was near death when they reached Fair Play.

After a brief investigation, the coroner of Polk county told Mr. Forrester an inquest would not be necessary.

FATHER LOSES PLEA FOR HIS CHILDREN

A plea of Frank Carr of Republic for custody of his two children, Leola Carr, 3, and Margaret Annabel Carr, 4, inmates of the Children's home here, was denied by Circuit Judge Guy D. Kirby yesterday.

The father asked to take the children to the home of his parents in Republic. His father volunteered to take care of the children, but said it "would be costly" and that his home was small.

The children were placed in the institution on September 2, at the request of the mother, who is separated from her husband.

'UNCLE JOB' TO BE BURIED BY MASONIC LODGE

Body of 101-Year-Old Pioneer Will Lie In State.

THRONGS EXPECTED

Eastern Star to Pay Homage to Its Founder.

Friends of "Uncle Job" Newton, known throughout the state as "the grand old man in Masonry of Missouri," who died Friday night at his home in his 101st year, will come from all parts of the state to pay their last tribute to the pioneer.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Shrine Mosque under the auspices of the United Lodge No. 5, Knight Templars and the Eastern Star. He was the Missouri founder of the Eastern Star.

Dr. Corona H. Briggs will have charge of the services. A double mixed quartet will sing two selections. Mr. J. Wyman Hogg will sing a solo, "Crossing of the Bar."

The body will lie in state at the Paxson Funeral parlors until a few minutes before the funeral services. Friends may view the body until it is removed to the Mosque.

Following the services at the Mosque, the funeral procession will proceed to Maple Park cemetery for burial.

The pallbearers as announced by J. H. Cavin, commander of the Knight Templars commandery, are: G. W. Custer, John J. Schneider, W. O. Swinney, D. T. Kiser, Bert S. Lee and A. C. Dally.

The Mosque was selected for the services in order to accommodate the hundreds expected to attend the funeral.

A double quartet will sing two selections, "Gathering Home" and "Home Sweet Day." The members are Mrs. C. R. Coulter, Mrs. Robert Woods, Mrs. William James, Miss Della Gustafson, J. Wyman Hogg, Ralph Matthews, Walter Delo and Ted Trapp. Miss Nellie Ross will accompany them.

Mr. Newton is survived by two sons, Dwight Newton of Springfield, and Emmett Newton of New York City, and a niece, Mrs. Agnes Tate of Cherryvale, Kan.

He made a trip to St. Louis three weeks ago with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. O'Bryant. He apparently stood the trip fine.

At a dinner given in his honor by the Eastern Star Tuesday, he was forced to leave his friends and retire. Late Tuesday afternoon he lapsed into a coma, losing control of his voice. He quietly expired at his home Friday evening with only his physician, Dr. W. P. Patterson, his son, Dwight, and a friend present.

"Uncle Job" was a business man, a prominent Mason, and a "friend to man." Hundreds of letters of sympathy were received by the son yesterday at the home, 515 West Walnut street.

Coming to Springfield when the town was young, Mr. Newton took an active part in the business life of the community. He was active in fraternal work, being the founder of the Eastern Star in Missouri and an early member of the Masonic order.

Mr. Newton first opened a woolen mill here. Later he engaged in the fur trade. He established a dry goods store and then launched the Newton Grain and Commission company on the corner of the street where he has lived for many years.

Mr. Newton was instrumental in building the famous Metropolitan hotel, in the early days this being the scene of all political gatherings, and the old Mansfield theater, formerly located where the Rogers-Baldwin Hardware company now stands.

3000 IN FINAL TRIBUTE AS 'UNCLE JOB' NEWTON BORNE TO HIS LAST REST

Loved Centennarian's Life Built on Teachings of Masonry and Christ, Says Pastor; Fellow Masons Bear Body to Grave

INTO a grave heaped with thousands of fragrant beautiful blossoms—as from afar "taps" sounded with tender finality—the body of Job Newton, 101-year-old Springfield pioneer, was reverently lowered yesterday afternoon by his Masonic brothers.

The funeral at the Shrine Mosque, attended by nearly 3000 of the aged man's friends and associates, was one of the largest ever held in Springfield.

MYRIADS OF FLOWERS

At 1:30 o'clock, in the Paxson
Funeral home, a brief, private service for members of the family and a few intimate friends was read by Dr. Corona H. Briggs; and then uniformed Knights Templar carried the body to the Mosque, where the public service took place. The platform was heavily banked with myriads of flowers, received from all parts of Missouri and the Ozarks. But the casket itself was most simply and impressively decorated only with the emblems of Masonry, which spoke eloquently of Mr. Newton's long Masonic service and the love of his fellow members.

Doctor Briggs, who for 47 years had been a friend of Mr. Newton, made the funeral address, in which he spoke of their enduring friendship, and of Mr. Newton's long life in Masonry.

"UNCLE JOB'S" CREED

"His character," Doctor Briggs said, "was moulded by his belief in the teachings of Masonry and the great Christian verities—faith in God, the brotherhood of man, a life which ends in death, but is followed by resurrection and immortality.

"Early in his Masonic life he had been taught that the Bible is the inestimable gift of God to man, to be used as a rule and guide to faith and practice; and that he never should engage in any important undertaking without invoking the aid and blessing of the Deity.

RELATIVES SEEK PROBE IN DEATH OF AGED FARMER

First Degree Murder Charge Filed Against Alba Woman
Despite Report Made by Coroner's Jury

BELIEVE MAN KILLED WHILE UTTERING PRAYER

Prosecutor Thinks William McKee Kneeling When Attacked; Preliminary Hearing Scheduled Today.

Facing a web of circumstantial evidence which the prosecutors interpret as the gruesome story of a carefully planned slaying, Mrs. Viola McKee, farm woman of near Alba, Mo., in Jasper county, will be arraigned in justice court today on a murder charge in connection with the death of her aged husband September 21.

Filing of a first degree murder charge against Mrs. McKee came after a long investigation prompted by relatives.

The body of the farmer, William McKee, 67, was found lying on the floor of their farmhouse September 21, two bullet wounds in his head.

SHOT WHILE PRAYING?

His investigation, according to Mr. Birkhead, has brought conclusions from leading physicians that it would have been virtually impossible, from the physical standpoint, for McKee to have died by his own hand. The aged farmer was shot twice in the back of the head. Birkhead's theory is that, if the first shot did not produce instant death, it would paralyze the victim to the extent that he would not be able to fire a second shot.

TROUBLE REPORTED

Many other factors enter into the case of circumstantial evidence built up against the woman. Among these are reports of domestic trouble between Mr. and Mrs. McKee. At one time a divorce suit was filed by one of them, but later dismissed.

Prosecutor Birkhead has learned also that property which McKee owned recently was transferred to a third party by a legal process, and then deeded back to Mr. and Mrs. McKee making either one of them the heir in the event of the other's death.

CHARGE IS DENIED

Mrs. McKee denied the prosecutor's charge when placed under arrest, repeating the story she related before a coroner's jury. She returned home late on the afternoon of September 21 to find her husband lying dead on the floor, she said, and declared she knows nothing else of the death.

Testifying before the coroner's jury, which convened soon after Mr. McKee's death, Mrs. McKee declared that her husband had been of unsound mind.

Arraignment at Carthage today will be before Justice G. W. Asendorf.

Southwest's Esteem For 'Uncle Job' Spoken In Costly Flowers

Southwest Missouri spoke its esteem yesterday for "Uncle Job" Newton in the language of the flowers.

Floral tributes running into hundreds of dollars banked his casket.

Several thousand people—many of them from Carthage, Joplin, Sarcoxie, Mount Vernon and other southwest Missouri towns—were in Springfield yesterday afternoon to pay personal tribute to "Uncle Job," who died Friday at his home on West Walnut street.

Funeral services for Mr. Newton probably were the most impressive ever held in the city.

Private Services First.

Private services first were held at 1:30 o'clock at the Paxson funeral home. The services were read by Dr. C. H. Briggs. The family and close friends attended this service.

The body was carried to the Shrine mosque by uniformed Knights Templar for the public service.

Around the casket was banked probably the greatest floral tribute ever seen in Springfield.

Next to the bier were the floral emblems of the Masonic bodies.

Taps Sounded.

The funeral address at the mosque was delivered by Dr. Briggs, who had been a friend of "Uncle Job" for 47 years. He spoke of their enduring friendship and of his friend's long life in Masonry.

From the mosque the body was taken to Maple Park cemetery, where the ritualistic burial service of the Masons was read by E. F. Hanna. Into a grave heaped with thousands of fragrant beautiful flowers—while from afar "taps" sounded softly—the body of Job Newton was lowered into its eternal resting place.

"His character," Dr. Briggs said, "was moulded by his belief in the teachings of Masonry and the great Christian verities—faith in God, the brotherhood of man, a life which ends in death, but is followed by resurrection and immortality.

"Early in his Masonic life he had been taught that the Bible is the inestimable gift of God to man, to be used as a rule and guide to faith and practice; and that he never should engage in any important undertaking without invoking the aid and blessing of the Deity.

"The great lessons taught in Masonry are the story of human life," Dr. Briggs said—"its trials, emptiness and dangers, death and immortality.

"These were the things Job Newton believed and the things which shaped his life and character.

"His great popularity was based on his fine integrity; and the belief, reverence and affection which the members of the Eastern Star, which he founded in Missouri, had for him, showed the good that was in him. Such devotion is not given undeserved."

SCIENCE PAYS DR. HUBBLE ITS HIGHEST HONOR

Nephew of Dr. E. F. James Elected to Academy of Science.

"SUN IS A STAR"

"Island Universe" Discovery
Made from Mt. Wilson Observatory.

Dr. Edwin Powell Hubble, former Springfield boy, and a nephew of Dr. Edwin F. James and Misses Sarah and Janie Hubble, of Springfield, has been awarded one of the highest honors possible for a scientist to receive, according to word received here today by his relatives.

Dr. Hubble was elected to a membership in the National Academy of Science, America's most eminent scientific organization, which has as its president, Thomas A. Edison.

Dr. Hubble is a brilliant young astronomer of the Mount Wilson observatory, in California, and has given to science the "island universe" theory.

His election to the National Academy of Science was in recognition of his discovery.

Likens Stars to Bees.

The society has as members the leaders in every branch of science.

Before a man may be elected to a membership he must have accomplished some scientific research resulting in a discovery of paramount value to the scientific world.

In a letter to Dr. James, his uncle, Dr. Hubble explained his theory, which developed the "island universe" theory, the reaches of space and gave his conclusions as to the distances and nature of the farthest objects observed therein.

Planet One Swarm.

"The stars form a definite system which, like a swarm of bees, is drifting through open space," is the way Dr. Hubble explains his theory, so astounding to science. The system is lens-shaped—like a thin watch—and the sun, a typical star, is somewhere near the center. The Milky Way indicates the direction of the rim of the stellar system.

"Ours is but one swarm: out in space beyond the borders of our system, there are countless others. We see them as small, faint patches of light scattered over the face of the sky and we call them nebulae. The largest telescopes show the most conspicuous of them as swarms of stars of the same general nature as our own.

"Among the stars in these neighboring nebulae, several types have been identified which are well known in our own system. We know their intrinsic brightness, hence their apparent faintness as we see them, indicates their distances. This gives us a measuring rod with which we can explore the universe out as far as telescopes can reach.

"The largest telescope—the 100-inch reflector on Mt. Wilson—reveals most of the nebulae out to a distance so great that light, traveling at 186,000 miles per second, takes nearly 150,000,000 years to reach us. A sphere of this radius represents the observable region of space. Several million nebulae are scattered throughout this sphere and in the midst of one of them is our sun with its family of tiny planets, including the earth on which we live."

Doctor Hubble, who is 35 years old, was born in Marshfield, Mo., the son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hubble. His family later moved to Wheaton, Mo., where he graduated from the Wheaton high school. He stayed here at numerous times.

He entered Chicago university, graduating from there with high honors. He won the Cecil Rhodes scholarship from Illinois for Oxford university in England.

Upon completion of his work in Oxford, Doctor Hubble returned to the United States, which shortly afterwards went to war with Germany. The scientist entered the service and served throughout the war, at the close of which he again took work at Chicago university.

He was sent to Mount Wilson observatory from the university, where he has established a national reputation in science by his "island universe" theory.

'Needing Wife Right Away' Seymour Farmer, 84, Wedded To 'Little Girl' of Just 49

"I DECIDED I ought to have a young wife, and I picked this little girl and she and I want to be married right away."

With this abrupt announcement, Andrew J. Harris of Seymour, 84-year-old veteran of the Civil war, indicated 49-year-old Julia Sanders of Ava as his bride-to-be, and informed Sam A. Moore, deputy recorder, that they desired a marriage license.

"Yessir," continued the groom as he stepped briskly back and forth while the license blank was being filled, "there's nothing like a young bride for a youngster like me.

"We want to be married right away, 'too, for we're in a hurry to get back to Seymour, where we're going to live."

"Do you want a minister or a judge to perform the ceremony?" inquired Mr. Moore.

"Whichever we can get the quickest," the groom replied, and a very few minutes later they left the building as Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Harris, after J. W. Tippin, presiding judge of the county court, had performed the ceremony in record time.

CIVIL WAR "YOUTH," 84, IN BIG HURRY TO WED "LITTLE GIRL," 49

Because he was "needing a wife right away," a Seymour farmer boy, 84 years "young," was wedded to a "little girl" of 49 here yesterday.

Impatient to get the ceremony over and get back to his home at Seymour, Andrew J. Harris, Civil war veteran, asked for a license to wed Mrs. Julia Sanders of Ava.

Asked if he wished to be married by a minister or by a civil authority, Harris declared he had no preference.

SHOOTS SQUIRREL WITH GUN OF GREAT-GREAT-GREAT GRANDPA

Lee Evans of Springfield Demonstrates Pistol of Revolutionary Days Still Is Deadly; Ancestor's Commission Bears Independence Signer.

A flint lock pistol of 1776 with carved silver mountings was given to Lieutenant Joseph Evans during the Revolutionary War by a French officer in exchange for his own pistol. The exchange was an act of courtesy.

The pistol is now owned by the great-great-great grandson of the warrior, Lee Evans of Springfield, who recently took the gun on a hunting trip and shot a squirrel with it just to prove that it still is in good condition.

The pistol is displayed at Heer's store, along with other old weapons with a historical background.

In the pistol case is an old yellowed scrap of paper with writing in faded ink. It is the commission of Lieutenant Evans, signed by W. A. Biddle, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

It was given, it states "to Lieutenant Joseph Evans, gentleman, for valor, service and patriotism during the Revolutionary War."

There also are other old weapons of warfare, including a long range rifle of 1790, used in the Stockdale defense in Daniel Boone's times. The front sight of the gun is set with an animal's tooth. Rifles of this type were used in the old forts. The rifle is the property of Dr. Robert Love.

There are bullet molds of later days. One of 1860, which, incidentally, is the date of the founding of Heer's Store company, was found in the pocket of a soldier in a grove on the old Campbell place. It was furnished the exhibit by Mrs. J. P. McCammon. There is also a spear

Funeral services for G. W. Watts, 77, who died Wednesday at his home in Rogersville, Mo., were held at 2 p. m. yesterday at the Palmetto church near Rogersville, with the Rev. C. W. Gen. Sumner Newton, assistant to the manager of the Long Island college hospital, who has been here to attend the funeral of his father, Job Newton, returned to New York last night to resume his duties. While here General Newton received many telegrams of condolence from New York friends. General Newton is well pleased with his work on Long Island and intends to reside in New York indefinitely.

A Jefferson avenue photographer is displaying a fine picture of John Newton, a pioneer who did much for Springfield in the early days. It has been mentioned he was for a long time the manager of the Mansfield opera house, one of Springfield's show places. It was on the second floor of the wholesale house of the Rogers & Baldwin Hardware company. Several actors of importance have appeared at that theater. Sol Smith Russell gave several performances there. Fay Templeton gave the first "leg show" there and it created many jokes and winks. The chorus dressed about like the girls do now when going to work, and the show was viewed with alarm by the more solid and cautious citizens who feared the country was going to wreck and ruin. The depravity of the human race was deplored and the recklessness of womankind regretted. However, womankind has steadily shed clothes ever since and the morality of the sex measures up just as well as it did in the days of Fay Templeton. Fay was from Arkansas and is buried at Little Rock.

Another pioneer citizen of Springfield joined the majority this week when Mrs. Martha Booth died. She was 87 years old, and the wife of the late Waldo C. Booth, an early tobacco manufacturer. He was associated with George H. McGinn in the manufacture of Old Oreb and Old Crow smoking tobacco. The company erected the large building at Olive and North Jefferson. Trust competition became too strong for the local company and it was merged with a new independent company in St. Louis, known as the Wetmore Tobacco company, but it, too, could not meet trust competition and went out of business. Waldo C. Booth for many years was secretary of the board of education.

Mrs. Booth, as has often been published before, was the daughter of Calvin Thomas, the first publisher of Edgar Allen Poe. Thomas had a job printing shop in Boston and he had Thomas print his first book of poems. Thomas died without ever knowing Poe was a great poet and probably didn't think much of the book he had printed. Poe didn't make a reputation until long after death. The author of "The Raven," "The Goldbug," and other masterpieces, which became world famous, didn't make a quick hit. Mrs. Booth knew nothing whatever about Poe as his early works attracted about as much attention as some of the poetical outbursts which appear in this column.

ROMANCE LASTS 10 DAYS, THEN WIFE GETS DIVORCE

A MARRIAGE in which the romance had lasted but ten days came to a legal close in division No. 1 of the circuit court yesterday when Judge Guy D. Kirby granted Ruby Stagner Joyce a divorce from T. H. Joyce, and ordered the restoration of her former name of Ruby Stagner.

The wife testified that almost immediately after their marriage, her husband informed her that he did not care for her, that their marriage was a mistake, and that their marriage should be ended.

The two were married on last July 31 and separated on Sept. 10.

THIRD YOUTH HELD IN PIE PARTY ROW ENDING IN KILLING

Lebanon Sheriff Arrests Richard Lillard, Accused of First Blow in Fight Causing Death Of His Friend

Special Dispatch to The News.

LEBANON, Mo., Nov. 11.—Richard Lillard, 23, was arrested here tonight by Sheriff Sam C. Allen on an assault charge growing out of a row which began Saturday night, October 29, at a pie supper in the Mill Creek school, near here, and which terminated a few hours later with the killing of Ollie West by Irisco Allenstein on the road near the schoolhouse.

Lillard is alleged to have struck the first blow in the fight which occurred at the pie supper when he, Ollie West, Carol West and Herman Smittle were asked by Allenstein and J. D. Brakefield to stop a disturbance which they were making, according to Sheriff Allen.

Fails to Post Bond

Being unable to furnish bond of $500, Lillard was placed in jail here.

Following the fight at the school in which both Allenstein and Brakefield were knocked down, the youths left the scene. On his way home Allenstein was accosted by Ollie West, Carol West and Smittle, who attacked him, his wife and daughter. Knocked to the ground and with Ollie West straddling him Allenstein drew his knife and stabbed West in the side, killing him almost instantly.

Alenstein Exonerated

The other youths put West's body in their car, unaware he was dead, and drove to Lebanon where Dr. T. H. Casey told them he was dead. Not believing him, they drove to the Fulkerson place where the youths had been working, but Fulkerson saw that the boy was dead and sent them back to Lebanon where they were found by the sheriff and coroner.

FRISCO VETERANS PAY BOX TRIBUTE

Ninety-One Year Old Citizen Served Railroad for Many Years

Hundreds of years of loyal service to the Frisco railroad were represented by the large number of veteran employees of the railroad, many of whom are now pensioned, who gathered yesterday afternoon at the Starnes mortuary to pay a tribute to William M. Box.

Several of these veterans wore the faded blue uniform of the Grand Army of the Republic. From this organization pall bearers had been selected for the service, and in which Mr. Box had been an active member.

During the 43 years that he had lived in Springfield, Mr. Box had acquired many friends, as was attested by the crowded gathering at the mortuary.

Hale Pays Tribute

In delivering the funeral address, the Reverend Louis M. Hale, pastor of First Baptist church, said in part:

"We may not all live to the age of 92 years, but God may give us something noble and sweet in life after the grave as He has given to our brother. It is the tendency of all who live on earth to want to live on, but for all who place their faith in God, He will hold a great reward in store."

"Death always is adventure, a renewal of life, a life where we know eternal youth and no age. As I think of the life, rich in adventure of Mr. Box, I know that he faced the supreme adventure with no fear. It is only the earthly house in which we live that wastes away, while our spirit continues throughout eternity."

"Our friend is honored today" by the loving and faithful wife, took at her home to attend these services. He is honored by the neighbors who knew him so well; and by his comrades who fought with him for their country. He is honored by the church, for he was a faithful member; and God honors him.

"We do not remember bad men, they pass on and are forgotten; but we do remember good men who are ordained by God. The life of this man has been such as to cause us to cherish his memory."

"We thank God for this memory and for the blessed hope we cherish for him as he leaves this earthly house in which he has lived for 92 years and departs into his eternal home in the skies."

Invalid Several Years

Mr. Box, who died Friday morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. Henry Kelpo, 1444 West Mount Vernon street, had been confined to his bed for the past six years as a result of a paralytic stroke suffered six years ago.

He was born in Tennessee in 1835, but came to Missouri when still a young man and enlisted in the Union army for service in the Civil war, after which he operated a mill at Brighton, Mo., and later at Humansville, Mo., before moving to Springfield in 1885.

Burial was in Maple Park cemetery, with services at the grave under direction of W. C. Calland, of the G. A. R.

Pall bearers, members of the G. A. R., were, W. C. Calland, John Boehm, E. A. Nixon, J. R. Ferguson, Amos Edwards, W. A. Coon and Bob Knight.

ORION E. COOVER IS DEAD IN CALIFORNIA

Word has been received here of the death November 3, in Long Beach, Calif., of Orion E. Coover, formerly of this city. Mr. Coover spent his boyhood days in Springfield. He is survived by his wife and four children, of California; two brothers, W. W. and F. L. Coover, both of Springfield, and two sisters, Miss Amy S. Coover, Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. Libbie A. Stewart, of this city.

Col. John Sobieski died Saturday in Los Angeles at the age of 85. He was well known in the Ozarks and resided for many years in Neosho. Back in the 80's the Thirteenth congressional district contained counties in southwest Missouri, Greene and Newton being part of the district. In 1886 the prohibition party nominated Col. Sobieski for congress. Col. H. F. Fellows, who founded the Springfield Wagon Co., was the Greenback candidate and there was rivalry as to which would receive the largest vote on the minor tickets. Sobieski was called "Sobberwhisky" by jokers. Soon after the election he moved to California.

Sixth descendant of King John III of Poland. An exile with his widowed mother at 6 years of age. A stowaway bound for America at 12, a fighter against the Indians at 16, a bugler "mortally" wounded at Gettysburg at 22, and at 24 a colonel in the Mexican army and condemned to death. At 26 a Minnesota legislator; subsequently for more than fifty years a dauntless reformer. Such is the amazing record of John Sobieski.

To hear this man's story is to have intimate glimpses of many of the outstanding events in history for the last three-quarters of a century. To know the man himself is to receive both a benediction and an inspiration. More than fourscore years of age, he yet retains a buoyant, almost youthful spirit which seems only to have been mellowed by all the fierce strife through which he has passed. His is an uncompromising optimism which gives one new faith in the cause of democracy and the upward march of the human race.

Above all else, this man is a rare exemplification of living patriotism. Having freely offered his life on many battlefields he turned in time of peace to other battles for the right and gave himself with equal abandon to every cause which he espoused. Though gravely wounded in the Civil war, he never consented to ask for a pension until just a few months ago. At the close of his brilliant services for Mexico, that republic sought to reward him with rich lands, but these he declined.

It was something more than two years ago, at a dinner of the Los Angeles Adventurer's club, that I first saw Colonel Sobieski—the hero of whom I had read since boyhood, writes John Anson Ford in the Dearborn Independent. He was a guest of honor and before I learned his name one glance at his massive head and powerful frame told me that he was a man of distinction.

He was called on for a few words of personal reminiscence. He rose deliberately and paused a moment as he straightened himself up, his dark eyes sweeping the company before him. It was difficult to believe he was 85. The speech, which sketched briefly the outstanding adventures of his life, was short and possessed a simplicity and frankness which removed it far from a boasting or self-praise.

In 1646 his father, Count Sobieski, fifth lineal descendant of King John III of Poland, shared in an insurrection against Russia, was captured and imprisoned for eighteen months.

"From the day of my father's capture, my mother had not heard a word from him," he related. "Then unexpectedly we were visited by a detachment of Cossacks who commanded my mother to follow them to Warsaw. Though I was but 6 years old, that two days' journey in our own carriage escorted by those Cossacks is stamped indelibly on my mind. Even more poignant are the memories of the day that followed.

"The viceroy, the czar's brother, into whose presence we were led, lost no time in imparting his tragic message. My father was still living but was to be put to death the next morning and my mother's own father and two brothers were in the same prison and were to die at the same time. By authority of the czar the viceroy proposed that my mother consent to have me, her only child, educated as a Russian by the Greek church and that she herself take the oath of fidelity to the czar. But do not suppose that in return for this the lives of any of our kin were to be spared. In return for her sacrifice she was to have the privilege of continuing to live on her own estate. The penalty for refusing this offer was to be immediately exiled and confiscation of all estates and belongings. My mother indignantly refused."

After six years of wandering in strange lands, haunted by fears, the spirit of the brave mother broke under the strain and she died in England, leaving her only son an orphan and an exile at 12.

Being without money the little fellow succeeded in stowing away on the warship Comet, and arrived in New York February 22, 1862. This date he calls his "new birthday," as well as Washington's, for it marked the beginning of a new life.

"I enlisted in the army as a bugler soon after reaching the United States," the colonel explained, "and saw several years of service against the Indians of the Southwest and West. Then the Civil war came on. I threw myself into the Union cause, I participated in forty-two engagements and was under fire six times. On the field of Gettysburg I received an abdominal wound which the surgeons pronounced 'mortal.' They carried me to an emergency hospital."

But, as all the world knows, Sobieski proved the surgeons wrong in their diagnosis.

The colonel is one of the few still living who came into close contact with Lincoln. It was toward the close of the war that he met the Great Emancipator. To him Lincoln assigned the perilous task of going to Richmond as a spy and appraising the strength of the Confederate capital's fortifications. He easily assumed the role of a Polish nobleman, and under the pretense of being a refugee, passed through the enemy's lines and into Richmond, where he remained three weeks.

He interviewed the leaders of the rebellion, including President Jeff-son Davis and members of his cabinet, and Gen. Robert E. Lee. Eventually he reported to Lincoln that Richmond, in his judgment, was impregnable. The colonel believes if Grant had heeded his advice the North might have saved a great number of lives that were sacrificed in the struggle to reach Richmond.

Later Sobieski was dispatched as a spy to Mobile. Arriving there in safety, he presented letters of introduction to various prominent Confederates, one of whom boasted:

"The enemy has been trying to get into Mobile ever since the war began, but not a damned Yankee has succeeded in getting in yet, except prisoners of war!"

When the zealous young Pole was mustered out of the United States army in June, 1865, he at once determined to enlist in the cause of Mexico's republic, then in dire straits by reason of the French invasion and Maximilian's determination to set up a monarchy. After a futile attempt to take a company of American comrades with him into Mexico, Sobieski and three companions turned north and then westward, making their way as best they could across country until they penetrated Mexico.

Just sixteen days before Sobieski enlisted under the Mexican flag Maximilian had decreed that any man found fighting for the republic should be shot! The young Pole had a good cause to remember Maximilian. But as a volunteer who soon became a colonel, he little dreamed how fate was to turn the tables which had been so against him and his mother eighteen years before.

Maximilian had banished Sobieski and his mother, together with a number of other political exiles, from Milan, Italy, for engaging in a popular demonstration in that city. It so happened that Sobieski was placed in charge of the would-be emperor of Mexico the second day after his capture by the republican forces and he could not refrain from going personally to Maximilian and reminding him of the decree which had banished him, Sobieski, and his mother from Italy.

"Maximilian could scarce comprehend all that I told him," the colonel remarked. "He seemed partly dazed by the swift progress of events. But by the swift progress of events. But at length the significance of the situation crept over him and he uttered this brief but significant comment:

"Well, time rounds up all things!"

"I was in command of the reserve firing party at Maximilian's execution," Sobleski continued. "When the order to fire was given he fell mortally wounded. I then ordered one of the men from my party to advance and, handing him my revolver, ordered him to place it to the ear of the suffering man and fire. Thus ended his career."

"Perhaps my reason for this act calls for an explanation. In no sense was it personal revenge that prompted me. Rather, I wanted to be sure that the dying man's sufferings would not be prolonged. I had my own weapon used because I was sure it was loaded, whereas there was the possibility that any gun which could be selected from those held by the firing squad might be loaded with a blank cartridge."

Colonel Sobleski was sentenced to death, on one occasion, for refusing to put to death more prisoners of war. Various sad experiences had convinced him that it was not only futile, but morally wrong to take human life. The incident in question, which came so near having a tragic end, occurred at Sonora when Sobleski declined to execute twenty-two French boys who had been taken prisoners.

"I was tried and sentenced to be shot for my refusal to obey orders, the sentence being subject to the approval of General Escobo, who at that time was 500 miles away. After waiting in suspense for a month, one morning General Casteno in whose command I was, hurrying toward me, waving a paper in his hand. Embracing me and kissing me in Mexican fashion he exclaimed. 'You are pardoned! You are pardoned!'"

Sobleski learned afterward that General Casteno's beautiful daughter had ridden a thousand miles to secure that pardon and speed with it back to the camp. When the republic was re-established this son of Poland and adopted son of America was hailed as one of Mexico's saviors, and showered with honors. He was also offered 10,000 acres of Mexican land but declined the gift.

Followed peaceful but strenuous years in the United States. While still a young man he was elected to the Minnesota legislature as an avowed advocate of temperance in a time when anti-liquor activity was not popular, to say the least.

Until five or six years ago Colonel Sobleski lectured constantly, chiefly in America, on various great reforms and historical figures. His lectures were made doubly brilliant by the introduction of personal anecdotes concerning these individuals.

He was born March 24, 1834, in Burgettstown, Pa. When he was two years old he moved with his parents to Hillsboro, Ill., where he resided until he was 20 years old, at which age he was married. He came to Joplin in 1890 and resided there until his death.

In loving memory of our dear departed husband, son and brother, Richard H.
Dearly, age 24 years.

When the evening shadows are falling,
And I am sitting all alone;
In my heart there comes a longing,
If he only could come home.

Often times my heart hath wandered
To a grave that's far away;
Where they laid our darling Richard,
Just one year ago today.

He is gone but not forgotten,
Never from our minds to fade;
One lonely heart will linger
'Round the grave where he is laid.

God took him home; it was his will.
But in our hearts we love him still;
His memory is as fresh today
As in the hour he was laid away.

3— CARDS OF THANKS.

STUART—In loving memory of our dear baby, Mary Louise Stuart, who died two years ago yesterday, Nov. 18, 1925.
 A precious one from us is gone,
 A voice we loved is stilled,
 A place is vacant in the home,
 That never can be filled.

The pearly gates did open wide,
 A gentle voice said "Come!"
 Angles on the other side,
 Welcomed dear baby home.

Softly the stars are gleaming,
 On a neatly mounded grave,
 There is sleeping without dreaming
 One we loved but could not save Sadly missed by mother and daddy.

The bay window of the living room was banked with a profusion of palms and ferns and formed an attractive background for the bridal couple. The bride entered the ceremony room on the arm of the bridegroom and the ring service was read by the Reverend John W. Pearson, pastor of the St. Paul Methodist Episcopal church, in the presence of about 75 friends of the young couple.

The bride wore an afternoon frock of blue velvet with harmonizing accessories and she carried pink roses and valley lilies. Her only ornament was a rope of pearls with a lapis lazuli pendant, a gift from the bridegroom. For her going away frock she wore a tan knitted frock with coat and hat to harmonize.

Following felicitations refreshments were served in the dining room where the bride's cake, ring shaped and filled in with white roses and valley lilies, held the center of the table.

The bride is a graduate of Drury college and a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. She is prominent in social circles and was the honoree at many pretty teas, luncheon bridges and dinners following the announcement of her engagement.

Drumwright, 2130 North Campbell avenue, took place at 8 o'clock last night at the home of the bride's parents before a group of 30 friends and relatives of the young couple.

The ceremony was read beneath an improvised archway of white between the living room and reception hall with a mass of ferns forming a pretty background for the bridal party. The colonade was of pure white and white chrysanthemums and ferns added to the attractiveness of the arrangement. The stairway down which the bridal party descended was covered with white, with vines and ferns trailing the balustrade which also was decorated with large white bows. Fluted shades of white covered the lights from which white bows were suspended.

Prior to the ceremony Miss Margaret Bridwell sang Cadman's "At Dawning," accompanied by Miss Edith Preshears who played Lohengrin's wedding music as the bridal party entered the room. The bride entered with the bridegroom and they were preceded by Miss Betty Nell Rainey as maid of honor and Mr. Paul Bohman of Kansas City as honor man. The ring service was read by the Reverend J. T. Bacon, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

The bride's gown was of white canton crepe and she carried yellow chrysanthemums, while her maid of honor wore turquoise blue crepe and she carried pink chrysanthemums.

Refreshments were served in the dining room where the bride's cake of pink and white, decorated with rosebuds, held the center of the table.

The bride and groom both are graduates of the Springfield Senior High school. Mr. Drumwright is connected with the Morrison Clothing company and after a brief wedding trip the couple will return to this city to make their home.

167-Year-Old Bible Was Carried in War of 1837

John T. Wood of Dickens, Mo., Cherishes Book His Soldier-Father Toted in His Knapsack 17 Years; Was Printed in Cambridge in 1760; Letters in Old-Style Print.

A hundred and sixty-seven year old Bible is the treasured possession of John T. Wood of Dickens, Mo. The Bible is one that has been in Mr. Wood's family for generations.

Mr. Wood's father enlisted in the British army in 1833 and carried the Bible in his knapsack for 17 years.

He brought it to America in 1857

when his regiment was sent to Canada to crush a rebellion.

The Bible combines with it an almanac. It carries in the back a table of time, weights and measures, and of scripture measures; days of the week, and hours of the day.

A foot note states that the Bible was made by Joseph Bentham, printer in Cambridge, in 1760. It is of old style print, and well preserved.

COUPLE MARRIED 67 YEARS

FORGET DETAILS OF WEDDING

Mrs. Stutzman, 86, Barely Remembers Riding in a Sleigh To a Justice of Peace; "It Has Been So Long Ago," She Explains; Husband, 90, Dozes While Mate Talks.

Married for 67 years—longer than most people live—is the record of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Stutzman, 1000 Blaine street.

Mrs. Stutzman, 86 years old, looked up from a quilt on which she was working yesterday to discuss the strange ways of this modern world.

"Bobbed hair is all right; I think it's nice. Short skirts are all right—lots better than long dresses that dragged in the dirt; but divorces—they are dreadful," Mrs. Stutzman said.

Got Up Early.

A long, full life has been Mrs. Stutzman's. If she had it to live over, she says, she'd do it just about the same. "She hasn't any instructions to give those who would seek continued health like hers. "I've worked hard, had ten children and reared eight. When I was young I kept the house and cooked the meals, milked the cows, spun the wool, made my husband's and my children's clothes. I've always eaten just what I wanted to, and gotten up early in the morning."

Mr. and Mrs. Stutzman came to Springfield in 1868 from Goshen, Ind. They came from St. Louis in a wagon.

Assails Divorce.

"Young folks shouldn't flare up over every little thing that doesn't please them and get a divorce," Mrs. Stutzman said. "We didn't do that,"

and Mr. Stutzman, dozing by the fire, offered no denial.

Mr. Stutzman will be 90 years old in March. The sixty-seventh wedding anniversary will be celebrated the first of January.

"I can't remember very much about our wedding," Mrs. Stutzman smiled. "But I do remember we went in a sleigh, with the sleigh bells ringing, to a justice of the peace."

Mrs. Stutzman's father was a preacher. She lived in a German community in Indiana. Until she came to Springfield she could not read a word of English, or speak the English language, having been educated in Germany. She learned to read English through the newspapers.

Can't Remember It.

"It may be true that airplanes are safer than automobiles," the little old lady agreed, "but I don't intend to ride in one to find out."

However, she was enthusiastic about most modern developments. She doesn't think that prohibition is a failure, and says saloons were far, far worse. She returned now and then to the subject of divorce.

"I just don't like to hear of it. It isn't right. People have no business to think of divorces; they should overlook the little disagreements, and if people want to live happy married lives, they must be companions and go around together. They must share each other's interests."

And so the little white-haired lady and the complacent old gentleman who were married so long ago they really can't remember much about it, sit by their fire and reflect on a long, contented life, which they have lived happily.

They have six children, two of whom, Mrs. Lizzie Harrington and Charles Stutzman, live in this city. Their son, Will, and daughter, Mrs. Annie Rhea, live in Houston, Tex., Mrs. Alice Gage in Seymour, and Robert in Pittsburg, Kan.

PROFESSOR FINDS OZARKIANS FORGET ANCIENT DIALECT

Arkansan Says Many Outside Two States Still Believe Razorback Hogs Run Wild In District

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 20.

—A pretty myth has grown up outside Arkansas and Missouri that along the detour trails of the Ozarks natives still cling to the tongue of their Chaucerian ancestors. That legend is as false as those of the absence of shoes and the prevalence of undomesticated spindle-backed swine in the mountain retreats of the present-day Ozarkians. Dean Virgil L. Jones, professor of English at the University of Arkansas, declared today.

Makes Long Study

For many years Dean Jones has been making a study of mountain dialects, comparing that of the Ozarks with those of his native knobs in Tennessee and of the Carolinas in the Appalachians. But one word has he found in the Ozark regions that smacks at all of Chaucerian origin. The word is "hit" in referring to the impersonal pronoun it. "Hit's a boy," a jubilant father will explain to an awaiting throng outside his cabin door at the birth of a son. But that is as far as this descendant of pure Anglo-Saxon stock will lapse into the vernacular of his Chaucerian progenitors, Dean Jones said.

"Our speech in the Ozarks," he explained, "has less dialect than the of the Appalachians. Its peculiarities are gradually dying out, however, as our language becomes standardized by the schoolmarm, the spelling book and the dictionary. But little of the dialect of the Ozarks antedates the 18th century. So standardized has the Ozarkian tongue become that even in the most secluded recesses of the Ozarks, one today might hear parents in unconscious mimicry of their offsprings of school age pronounce 'aunt' as Webster would have us with a broad 'a' accent."

Mountain Dialect

Probably only about 200 of the many dialect expressions of America are peculiar to the mountain sections alone, Dean Jones said. Some words yet individual to mountain folk, he said, are "infare" in referring to a bridal reception at the home of the groom; "adraw" in referring to a small streamless valley; "on the berry" for one always attempting a loan of his neighbors; "norate" for narrate; "Jagger" for thorn; "fetched" for reached; "fetched" for fetched; "dauncy" for fastidious and "weepon" for weapon.

SWALLOWING ACID, MOTHER OF 5 DIES IN HOSPITAL HERE

Regaining Consciousness Before Death, Springfield Woman Whispers Vain Regret for Suicide Attempt

RECOVERING consciousness a few hours before her death to whisper through acid-seared lips that she regretted her attempt early Saturday to end her life, Mrs. A. J. Riggs, 52, of 306 1/2 East Commercial street, mother of five children, expired in a hospital here early yesterday morning.

A quantity of fiery acid she drank early Saturday morning in a bedroom of her home caused death. Officials investigating the case said it was "a plain case of suicide," and Coroner Jewell E. Windle announced there would be no inquest.

Bad Health Caused Act
Despondency over failing health was blamed by relatives for Mrs. Riggs' suicide. She had been confined in bed for several weeks, seriously ill. Early Saturday morning she sent her son, Ray, 29, to a drugstore for a bottle of acid and some milk for her. The acid was of the same type she had been instructed to use in a medical wash, and her son did not suspect her intent to end her life.

Shortly after her son returned with the acid, Mrs. Riggs was found lying in a half stupor on her bed by her daughter, Sunbeam Riggs. Her condition improved slightly during the day, and she was removed to the Burge hospital. A short time before midnight Saturday night she regained consciousness, recognized her children and talked in whispers to attendants, voicing regret for her action.

Five Children Survive

She is survived by five children: Mrs. Sarah Evans, Sunbeam Riggs, Roy, Basil and Seth Riggs, all of Springfield; two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Newton of Willard and Mrs. Ida Matthis of Springfield, and her husband.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Klingner chapel, with burial in Greenlawn cemetery.

Sobleski Is Recalled.

Col. John Sobleski, noted temperance lecturer, for several years a citizen of Neosho, died recently at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Mary Gilhausen Sobleski, in Los Angeles, where he had lived for many years. He lived in Neosho in the 80's and early 90's and is remembered by many of the older citizens. After leaving there he returned at intervals to make speeches on temperance and politics.

When they lived in Neosho Mrs. Sobleski's mother, Mrs. M. P. Lemen, lived with them and was a teacher. His son, John, died in Neosho and Mrs. Sobleski a few years ago in Los Angeles. Since her death he has made his home with his daughter. In order to keep the name Sobleski alive, his daughter, Mary, when she married kept her own name with her husband's and so she is known as Mrs. Mary Gilhausen Sobleski.

While he lived in Neosho in 1886 he was nominated for congress on the Prohibition ticket. The night before the presidential election of 1892 he made a speech and predicted the election of Grover Cleveland as president. His predictions came true.

Sixth descendant of King John III of Poland; an exile with his widowed mother at 8 years of age; a stow-away bound for America at 12; a fighter against the Indians at 16; a bugler "mortally" wounded at Gettysburg at 22, and at 24 a colonel in the Mexican army and condemned to death; at 26 a Minnesota legislator; subsequently for more than fifty years a dauntless reformer—such is the amazing record of John Sobleski.

Though gravely wounded in the civil war, he never consented to ask for a pension until just a few months ago. At the close of his brilliant service for Mexico, that republic sought to reward him with rich lands, but these he declined.

SHOOTS SELF IN GRIEF OVER HIS WIFE'S DEATH

Farmer, 65, Found With Bullet Wound In Head by Son; Discovery Made When Youth Investigated Mysterious Light In Barn.

Found unconscious in his barn with a bullet wound over his left eye. D. P. Gates, 65, farmer, who resides northeast of Springfield, is in a hospital here. He is believed near death.

The farmer is believed to have attempted suicide by shooting himself in the head.

Early this afternoon, physicians stated that the man was in a critical condition. The lead bullet is believed to have penetrated his skull and lodged against his brain.

"My father had been in failing health for sometime and had on several occasions declared that he was going to end it all," his son said. "He had brooded over the death of his wife in July. He had no financial worries.

Used Own Gun.

"Shortly after 5 o'clock this morning, our tenant awakened me. He said there was a light in the barn.

"When I first saw the body, I did not recognize my father. I ran to the house and secured a gun. I also looked in my father's room and discovered that he was not in bed.

"On returning, I recognized my father. The gun was laying by his side. The lantern had almost gone out. A high wind made it flicker until there was danger of it turning over and setting fire to straw.

"I carried my father to the house.
I then telephoned the Klingner Undertaking company for an ambulance," Gates said.

Pioneer Farmer.

"From all indications the shooting had occurred about an hour before I found him. The blood had begun to clot and his hands were cold.

"The gun with which the wound was inflicted belonged to us."

An X-ray photograph of the man's wound was taken this morning to determine the seriousness of his injuries. Physicians said the wound probably would prove fatal.

Gates had lived on the same farm, located six miles northeast of Springfield on the Valley Water mill road, for 26 years. He has three sons and six daughters.

George Gates had remained on the farm with his father.

GRAVELY ILL AS SHE NEARS 101 YEARS OF LIFE

Last Centenarian of This Vicinity Seized With Influenza.

BIRTHDAY SUNDAY

Quiet Celebration, if Any, to Contrast With Colorful
One Last Year.

Mrs. Nancy Ann Price, pioneer woman of the Ozarks, who will be 101 years old Sunday, may never reach her birthday.

Suffering from an attack of influenza, Mrs. Price's condition is grave. A special nurse is attending her.

On her 100th birthday last year one thousand helped her celebrate. There will not be a crowd this year even if she lives until Sunday.

Only Centenarian.

If she celebrates at all, it will be probably from her bedside with only immediate relatives attending.

Death of "Uncle Job" Newton recently left Mrs. Price the only centenarian in this vicinity.

Mrs. Price came to Springfield when she was 10 years old.

She recalls incidents that forge a chain of events in the Ozarks.

Son Attends Mother.

When her parents passed through Springfield her father was forced to guide his oxen around stumps where the public square now is. There was only two stores here then, but rudely constructed log cabins, typical of the pioneer days.

The family settled on a farm near the city of Springfield. At her home now stands the farm and helps to care for her aged mother.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sumner, a sister of Mrs. Price, 90 years old, until recently cared for the centenarian. Mrs. Sumner's health failed recently. It became necessary to get a nurse. Many of the events which played so great a part in Mrs. Price's life also were experienced by Mrs. Sumner.

Mrs. Price was born in East, Tenn., McMinn county, November 27, 1826. Her parents were Mr. and Mrs. George Washington Simms. Her father traveled extensively throughout the unsettled country.

Back in 1833 Mrs. Price thought her time had come when the heavens virtually rained stars.

Vall Smith Marries J. F. Cox

ST. JOHN'S Episcopal church was the scene of one of the prettiest weddings of the season yesterday at 1 o'clock when Miss Vall Smith, only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur Smith, 602 South National avenue, became the bride of Mr. John Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Cox of St. Louis.

The church, beautiful in its natural appointments, was unusually attractive with its profusion of flowers and greenery. Vases of white chrysanthemums were placed about the altar, and baskets of huge golden and bronze chrysanthemums tied with tulle of golden and bronze hues were placed on either side of the entrance to the chancel, while overhanging baskets of ferns were suspended along the walls of the church. About two hundred friends and relatives of the couple were in attendance.

Before the entrance of the bridal party Miss Susie Dillard played "The Bride's Song" (Strelezki) and "O Perfect Love" (Barnby). The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, to the strains of "Nuptial March" (Guilmant) and she was preceded by her cousin, Miss Mabel Smith of Little Rock, Ark., as maid of honor. The ring service was read by the Reverend Lewis R. Anchutz, rector of St. John's, during which Miss Dillard softly played "Liebestraum" (Liszt) and Loret's "Marche Nuptiale" was used for the recessional. Mr. Cox was attended by Mr. Ernest Konze of St. Louis.

The bride's frock of rose taupe transparent velvet, trimmed in heavy lace and gold ribbon, and with it she wore a large hat of the same shade. Her bouquet was of Ophelia roses. Her maid of honor wore a tan velvet frock with small close fitting hat of tan and black and she carried yellow and bronze pompons.

Following the service a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents attended by close friends and relatives. The bride threw her bouquet from the stairway and it was caught by Miss Marian Barry of St. Louis. Refreshments were served in the dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox left on the afternoon train for Kansas City, where Mrs. Cox will be matron of honor at the marriage of her cousin, Miss KILPATRICK, to Mr. HANLEY on Thanksgiving day. Upon their return to this city they will be at home at the Smith residence for the present.

The bride is the daughter of Springfield's most prominent families, is popular in society circles, and has been honored at many parties, luncheons and dinners. She received her education at St. de Chantal academy here, Tudor hall, at Indianapolis, Ind., the University of Illinois at Champaign, Ill., and Drury college here, receiving her A. B. degree from the latter institution last June. She is a member of Tau Alpha Lambda and Tau Phi Gamma High school societies and of Pi Beta Phi sorority. Mr. Cox is a graduate of the University of Illinois and is affiliated with Kappa Sigma fraternity. It was while both were students at the Champaign school that their friendship began. Mr. Cox is connected with the Phillips & Son Insurance company.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Isaac M. Lantz, 57, Osceola, and Alice Roberts, 39, Fayetteville, Ark.; Russell Roe, 25, and Marie Murdock, 21, both of Springfield; Millard Brady, 21, and Lucy Gainer, 17, both of Phenix; Joe Gorman, 35, and Mary Quick, 24, both of Monett.

MARRIED 60 years, and celebrating with the justice of the peace who married them, is the unusual occasion enjoyed at Unionville by Richard W. Mannon and his wife, who were married in Missouri November 20, 1867.

Newton B. Abbott, the justice, was the honor guest. The former justice is also a resident of Unionville.

Mannon is 81 years old, and his wife is 1 year his junior. Both are enjoying splendid health.

Joe Gorman and Mary Quick, both of Monett, were married at the court house yesterday. The ceremony was said by the Reverend Thomas H. Willes.

Blamed for Act; Son Finds Aged Man Dying in Barn On His Place

D. P. GATES, 65-year-old farmer who lives six miles northwest of Springfield, died in a local hospital yesterday as a result of a bullet wound in his head, believed by his son, George Gates, to have been self-inflicted.

SON FINDS BODY

Gates was found early yesterday morning lying in the barn, blood streaming from a wound in his head, caused by a .22 calibre bullet which was found to have penetrated his skull and lodged in his brain.

Advised by a tenant that a light was visible in the barn, the son hurried to the building where he made the discovery. A small rifle was lying by the body.

A J. W. Kilgner ambulance took the injured man to a hospital here. X-ray photographs were made in order to determine the position of the bullet and every effort was made by attending physicians to save the life of the patient.

MISS VAIL SMITH IS WED TO JOHN F. COX.

The marriage of Miss Vail Smith, only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur Smith, 302 South National avenue, to John F. Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Cox of St. Louis, was celebrated Tuesday at 1 o'clock in St. John's Episcopal church. The decorations, in which bronze and gold chrysanthemums predominated, were very effective. At the foot of the chancel were large baskets of white chrysanthemums and tall white tapers against a background of palms. The pews were marked with small bouquets of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums tied with gold and bronze tulle. Bronze chrysanthemums in tiny pots bordered the path to the altar. The windows held palms and ferns and hanging baskets of ferns were suspended from the beams of the church. About two hundred friends and relatives of the young couple witnessed the ceremony. Before the entrance of the bridal party Miss Susie Dillard played "The Bride's Song" (Strelezki) and "O Perfect Love" (Barnby). The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, to the strains of "Nuptial March" (Gullmant). She was preceded by her cousin Miss Mable Smith of Little Rock, Arkansas, who was her maid of honor. Reverend Lewis R. Anchutz, rector of St. John's Episcopal church read the ring service, while Miss Dillard softly played "Liebestraum" (Liszt). Ernest Kunze of St. Louis acted as best man for Mr. Cox. Miss Dillard played "Marche Nuptiale" (Loret) for the recessional.

The brides' dress was of rose taupe transparent velvet, trimmed with real lace and gold ribbon. She wore a large hat of the same shade and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. The maid of honor wore a tan velvet dress with a small hat of tan and black and carried yellow and bronze chrysanthemums.

After the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the brides' parents for a few close friends and relatives. Miss Marian Berry of St. Louis caught the brides' bouquet when she threw it from the stairway. Refreshments were served in the dining room where the same color note was used in the decorations as was used in the church. A huge bow of the bronze maline was tied on the chandelier and drooped almost to the table. The center of the table held the brides cake which was surrounded by a lovely wreath of flowers in several varieties in the pastel shades. The place cards held lilies of the valley and small bags of rice.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox left for a motor trip to Kansas City where Mrs. Cox will be matron of honor at the wedding of her cousin, Miss Nelita Vail, who will be married Thanksgiving Day to S. K. Helsley.

The bride is a popular member of Springfield society and many social affairs have been given in her honor since the announcement of her engagement. She has attended St. de Chantel academy here, Tudor hall at Indianapolis, Indiana, the University of Illinois at Champaign, Illinois, and Drury college here where she received her A. B. degree. She is a member of Tau Phi Gamma and Tau Alpha Lambda high school sororities and Pi Beta Phi society. Mr. Cox is a graduate of Illinois university and a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR WEST PLAINS MAN

Special Dispatch to The News

WEST PLAINS, Mo., Nov. 23.—Funeral services were held for Luke Harvey Smith, 81, who died at his home here following a lingering illness. Mr. Smith was born in England but came to America when 17 years old.

SUICIDE VERDICT ENDS GATES PROBE

Coroner Satisfied Aged Farmer Ended Own Life With .22 Calibre Rifle

Statements of George Gates, the man's son, yesterday made it unnecessary to call an inquest into the death of D. P. Gates, 65-year-old farmer living six miles northwest of Springfield, who expired in a hospital here Tuesday of bullet wounds apparently self inflicted.

This was announced by Coroner Jewell E. Windle after George Gates had signed a formal statement in which he expressed the belief that his father had ended his own life. He recalled that the father had grieved much over the recent death of his wife, and had longed at times to live apart from his son and begin farming again

"on his own." Several times, the son's statement said, Mr. Gates had threatened to kill himself, but these threats never were taken seriously.

Used Small Rifle

Gates was found early Tuesday morning lying in the barn at the home of his son, blood streaming from a head wound caused by a .22 calibre bullet. A rifle of similar calibre, belonging to the family, was found at his side.

Coroner Windle scouted the belief that Gates might have been slain when he went to investigate a disturbance in the barn. Should his attention have been attracted to the barn by a disturbance, his son declared, his aged father would have called upon him before venturing out.

Funeral Services Today

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Bellevue church, and interment will be in Bellevue cemetery under direction of the Klingner funeral home. Mr. Gates is survived by nine children, J. W. Gates of Carrington, N. D., W. C. Gates of Alberta, Canada, G. D. Gates, Mrs. J. W. Price, Mrs. W. D. Price, Mrs. Ralph Stockstill, Mrs. Winifred Gates, Miss Mavis Gates and Miss Florence Gates, all of Springfield.

90 AND 86 WED 67 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Stutzman, 90 and 86 years old, respectively, who will celebrate their sixty-seventh wedding anniversary soon. They live at 1060 Blaine street, still happy in the companionship of each other, and deplore the frequency of divorce suits. They have been married so long they scarcely remember details of their wedding, said Mrs. Stutzman.

Early Settlers.

The first settler within the present limits of Howell county was a hunter named Adams, who settled at the "town spring," in the summer of 1839. His nearest neighbor was twenty miles away. Adams sold his improvements to Josiah Howell, who may be called the first permanent settler in the county which now bears his name.

In 1840 Eli L. Tabor settled on Spring Creek. He was, so far as can be learned the only settler of that year. In 1841 Nathan McCammon settled three miles east of West Plains, and about the same time a man named Hutton located on the valley. He was one of that class of pioneers, now extinct, who could not bear to be crowded, and finding that he had neighbors within eighteen or twenty miles, he left his valley indignant and plunged still deeper into the western wilderness.

'OUR LOVE WILL LAST,' SAY PAIR TO LIVE APART

Companionate Marriage Couple at Joplin Reveal Future Plans Which Have Shocked Their "Staid Friends."

Josephine Haldeman-Julius, the 16-year-old "modern" girl, who has startled the country by her companionate marriage with a young man she has known since childhood, today told in an interview at Joplin why she believes such a marriage is superior to the old-fashioned form.

The girl is the daughter of E. Haldeman-Julius, famous book publisher of Girard, Kan., and in taking this ultra-modern step, she is testing the naive marriage theory of one of her father's closest friends—former Judge Ben Lindsey of the Denver juvenile court. The "companionate bridegroom" is Aubrey Clay Roselle, 20-year-old youth, who formerly was a student in the University of Kansas and is now employed in the editorial department of Haldeman-Julius' publishing house.

Mr. and Mrs. Roselle were in Joplin, where they went directly after leaving Girard, where they were married. A Leader representative learned from Mrs. Roselle why she believes a companionate marriage superior to the old-fashioned form.

"A Puritanical Love."

At the outset, she emphasized the fact that this marriage is in no sense a "trial marriage."

"My most enduring hope is to make our marriage a lasting one, and it is my aim, as I know is the case with Aubrey, to have this tie hold for the rest of our lives," she said.

"At the age of 18 I find myself filled with ideas and impressions of the emotional life I see on all sides. Why should we young people be expected to wait for marriage until we have reached economic independence? Why should we let our best years slip by? Why cannot parents help us solve this problem so that we may avoid the pitfalls that so often cause tragedy?

"In our own case we have been most fortunate. Father and mother have co-operated with us, have studied our heart problems from the viewpoint of youth, and as a result we are receiving help instead of discouragement in living normal lives. I shall, though I am married, continue with my school work and Aubrey will continue his. We will meet often—as often as we really desire. We will live in a healthy love instead of bearing the burden of puritanical inhibitions.

Will Face the Facts.

"We shall try to make it last, but if it doesn't we shall face the facts calmly and admit a mistake instead of continuing to live a lie.

"When we are ready to make our home together like other married people, we shall have children. We certainly want children eventually, but not until we are ready for them.

"That is what companionate marriage means to me, and I shall strive to uphold my part of the contract. I sincerely believe that if many of the boys and girls I know were to do likewise we should have fewer tragedies. Companionate marriage, to my viewpoint, means happiness and the full life—not in some distant future, when youth is gone, but now when life is still rosy and filled with laughter.

"I know that countless hundreds of thousands of young people feel as I do, but they are bewildered by the conventions of an older generation. Those parents serve their children best, I believe, who are willing to take into consideration the new and great difficulties youth must surmount before they are able to take their formal places in the community.

"Life is short. Why postpone happiness when one may sensibly achieve life's fullness without waiting for youth to pass? It is ridiculous to tell us young people of 18 and 20 that we are not men and women. I am as much a woman today as I shall be 15 years from now. This means, to me, that the intelligent and civilized thing to do is so to arrange one's life that its best and noblest expressions may be taken before youth is passed.

Legally Married.

"Of course, we are legally married—a license, minister, two rings and the rest. There is no other way while we are waiting for changes in our laws to allow complete companionate marriages.

"I know that this will sound extremely forward to our more conventionally-minded friends, but I cannot, in all honesty, take a different position and still be true to my best ideals.

"I hope my own step and the attitude of our parents may prove an encouragement to other young people and their parents to follow our example."

MANY HEIRS HERE TO CLAIM ESTATE OF AGED RECLUSE

FORMER WIFE DEMANDS ESTATE FOR HER SON

Two Nephews of Man Burned

In 1925 Also Seek Their Legal Shares

SOMEWHAT of a recluse, he was, preferring often to be by him- self, coming and going alike unex- pectedly with nothing to say as to where he intended to go nor where he had been, spending the last few years of his life in a humble home near Fair Grove, northeast of Springfield.

Such, according to witnesses who testified in Judge Guy D. Kirby's division in the circuit court yester- day, was John Macht, or, if the contention of others be correct, Guy Turnbo, as he was known. And for the property he left, several hun- dred dollars in cash and 40 acres of land near Fair Grove, four claim- ants are contending.

MYSTERIOUS CHARACTER

Macht, or Turnbo, appeared in Fair Grove some few years ago, and lived by himself, meeting his neigh- bors infrequently, mingling little with those about him. Occasionally he would disappear. No one knew where he had gone—and when he appeared again he told no one where he had been.

Then came the fire in which his home was destroyed and he was severely burned. Brought to a hospital in Springfield, he died a few days later, on September 27, 1925, with no one apparently knowing much of his life or anything of any of his relatives.

His property was found to in- clude some $1200 in cash and the little acre farm he had bought.

The estate was taken in charge by the probate court, and James A. Nelms, public administrator, was appointed administrator.

FORMER WIFE HERE

Then appeared Mrs. Corn Ahlsted, former resident of Gainesville, Jop- lin and Webb City, but now a resi- dent of Chaffee, Mo. With her was her son, known as Guy Turnbo, who was, she declared, her son by her first marriage with a man who mar- ried her under the name of Frank Turnbo, but who told her a few days after their marriage that his real name was John Macht.

This son of the father from whom the mother had been divorced, she asserted, was the heir to the prop- erty left by the aged recluse.

There appeared, too, Charles Macht from Minneapolis, Minn., 32 years of age, and who had a birth certificate and other records to show that he was the son of John Macht. His mother and father, he said, had been married in 1892 and he had been born in 1895. The par- ents later were divorced.

NEPHEWS ADVANCE CLAIM

Two other claimants also appear- ed, Martin and Andrew Macht, sons of a brother of John Macht who had followed the latter to America from Germany. They reside near Peirce City.

Suits involving the property were filed, and by agreement, the vari- ous actions were combined in the case which began yesterday and will be resumed this morning.

Mrs. Ahlsted, among the wit- nesses who testified yesterday, said that she met Macht, or Turnbo as she knew him, at Gainesville where he was boarding at the home of one of her sisters. After an ac- quaintance of some eight or nine months, she said, they were mar- ried at Gainesville on April 21, 1907.

MOVED OFTEN

Leaving immediately, and moving frequently from place to place, she said, they were for a time in Har- rison, Ark., Joplin, Webb City and other towns in northwest Arkansas and southwest Missouri. Frequent- ly, she asserted, her husband would disappear for a time and then re- turn unexpectedly. He never told her where he had been, and she said he told her nothing of any rela- tives.

The only information he did give her, she said, was that his name was not Turnbo but Macht.

The son, Guy, she said, was born in Webb City in September, 1907.

Later, she declared, her husband disappeared, and finally she obtained a divorce in Joplin on January 5, 1915.

Some time later she married Ahlsted.

In the meantime, however, she had been in Gainesville much of the time, and in 1911 had heard of a man by the name of Turnbo in Springfield. She had come here, she said, to try to learn if the man was the same as the one she had tried to get divorced from.

IDENTIFIES BODY

Finally came the fire in which Macht or Turnbo was fatally burned, and Mrs. Ahlsted, learning of it from newspaper accounts, visited Springfield and went to the Klingner Undertaking company establishment to see the body of the recluse. She identified the body as that of her former husband, she testified.

Mrs. W. T. Brown of Gainesville, a sister, accompanied her, and she also testified that she recognized the body as that of Macht or Turnbo as she had known him.

Other evidence on the part of the plaintiff will be offered when court reconvenes this morning.

Hickory County Man Dies of Gun Wound; Hold Services Today

Injuries suffered in a hunting accident November 17, when accidental discharge of his shotgun sent a charge of shot crashing at close range into his abdomen, proved fatal yesterday to George F. Fowler, 29, prominent Hickory county farmer who lived three miles west of Pittsburg.

Fowler was the son of Andrew Fowler, one of the largest land-owners in Hickory county.

The young farmer was hunting alone near Pittsburg on the afternoon of November 17. Deciding to return home, he walked toward the highway, and thinking he heard a motor car approaching, climbed upon a stump to hail the car. The trigger of his shotgun was cocked, and the gun fired when he leaned against it.

The man managed to drag himself to the road and hail a motorist, who took him to his home.

He is survived by his wife and three small children. Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning at Antioch church, two miles west of Pittsburg, and burial will be in the cemetery there under direction of the Hutchison-Blue funeral home of Bolivar. The Reverend Manville Caldwell will officiate.

TWO HELD TO BE BROTHERS PART AS STRANGERS

Youths Trace Paternity to Recluse With Mysterious Manners; Court Divides Farm and Cash Between Them.

Although a court ruling established their relationship as half-brothers, Charles Macht, 32, of Minneapolis, Minn., and Guy Turnbo, 18, of Chaffee, Mo., left Judge Guy D. Kirby's court room this morning as strangers.

The half-brothers had never seen each other prior to the trial of their case, which started yesterday. They did not speak during the trial. Macht said he had no intention of establishing friendly relations with Turnbo. Turnbo indicated willingness to be on friendly terms with his half-brother.

"I do not expect to appeal the decision of the court," Macht said, "but I can see no reason why I should accept Turnbo as my brother.

Died of Burns.

The trial resulted from claims of Turnbo and Macht to the estate of the late John Macht, who died September 27, 1925, in a Springfield hospital from burns received when his home in Fair Grove was destroyed by fire.

The actions were filed against James A. Nelms, public administrator, who was appointed by the court to take charge of John Macht's estate. The estate includes $1,200 in cash and a 40-acre farm at Fair Grove. Under the court ruling the property will be divided equally between Turnbo and Charles Macht.

Untangling of the story of John Macht's life as accepted by the court, showed that he was a man of peculiar actions and lived virtually the life of a recluse during the years he spent in Greene county.

Mystery Element.

In establishing his identity as the son of John Macht, Charles Macht produced a birth certificate and other records. According to his story his father and mother were married in 1892 and he was born in 1895. His parents later were divorced.

Turnbo's mother married Guy Turnbo in Gainesville, Mo., on April 21, 1907. During the time of her marriage they moved from one place to another, she said, and the son was born at Webb City. The husband left her on several occasions without telling her he was going and would return as unexpectedly, she testified.

Finally, she said, her husband disappeared completely and in 1915 she obtained a divorce from him at Joplin. Later she married Ahlstead.

On learning of John Macht's death through newspapers, Mrs. Ahlstead went to the Klingner Undertaking company's establishment here and identified the body as that of her former husband. She resided in Springfield at the time.

Characteristics of the John Macht known to residents of Minnesota, where he formerly resided, the Guy Turnbo, to whom Mrs. Ahlstead formerly was married, and the John Macht who died here, were similar in many respects, according to testimony. All witnesses testified that he never told anyone of his actions. Residents of Fair Grove testified that during his residence there he would disappear at times and reappear without offering any explanation.

In announcing his decision Judge Kirby declared: "There is no doubt in my mind that the two young men are brothers. I could stand them against a wall and look at them and reach this decision. Their looks, actions and carriage are so similar that their relationship is unquestionable."

SOLON EVANS, STOCK BUYER, DIES HERE

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Evans, of Carterville, Mo.; three brothers, Clinton Evans of Baxter Springs, Kan.; Clithenese Evans of Carterville, and George Evans, star end on Drury college football team, a sister, Miss Myrtle Evans, of Carterville.

KILLS WOMAN IN ROW OVER COW

Mrs. George Lane, aged 25, a widow who lived about three miles from Green Forest, was shot and killed instantly by A. E. Richardson, a farmer, following a quarrel over a cow. Richardson surrendered to officers.

The shooting occurred about midway between the homes of Richardson and Mrs. Lane. Richardson had put a cow belonging to Mrs. Lane in his barn, and when the owner came after the animal, he refused to give it to her, it is said. She returned home and secured her shotgun and started for the Richardson home when she was met and killed by Richardson, witnesses say.

Mrs. Lane is survived by six children, three of which are still small and are at the Lane home.

BATTLE OF ONLY SKIRMISH HAS WELL.

Ozark Historian Tells Brave of Southwest on During Civil War; Short Family Praised

By A. M. HASWELL

Special to The News

MANSFIELD, Mo., Nov. 26.—That which has come down in history as the "Battle of Dug Spring" was really no more than a slight skirmish. A few months later in the great civil conflict it would hardly have been mentioned in army reports. The only thing that gave it importance was that here, for the first time, the forces of North and South met in southwest Missouri.

The skirmish grew out of a movement by the Federal army at Springfield, to feel out the strength of the Confederate forces to the south, with the view, on Lyon's part, to convince General Fremont, in St. Louis, that the southern army greatly outnumbered his, Lyon's forces. Lyon had made such representations repeatedly to Fremont and begged, almost piteously, for reinforcements, which never came.

LEAVE SPRINGFIELD

But to the story of Dug Spring. It was late afternoon of Thursday, August 1, 1861, that Lyon, leading his little army in person, marched out of Springfield, on the Fayetteville road. His scouts had kept him well posted, and he knew that the Confederates, under General Price, and McCullough, were gathering near the head of Crane creek, nearly on the line between Stone and Barry counties, some 28 miles southwest of Springfield. All his information, too, indicated that his enemies were nearly ready to march to attack him at Springfield, and, like the brave and experienced soldier that he was, he had marched out to make a surprise attack, and strike the first blow if possible.

That night his army camped on Wilson Creek, some nine miles from Springfield, on the very spot where, in a few days, Price's Missourians were encamped, when Totten's battery opened the battle of Wilson Creek. The camp too was at the foot of that "Bloody Ridge" where after nine days Lyon and six hundred other men were to die. Early next morning the army was again on the march. Some miles from their camp the Fayetteville road, passes through a long and narrow valley, with low wooded hills on either side. About midway of the length of this valley was a farm, and at a short distance from the road, the settler had dug into the hill and developed a fine spring: that is the "Dug Spring."

SEVERAL STOPS MADE

It is about 10 miles from Springfield, in Christian county, where there were frequent halts to allow the soldiers to rest. At about most 6 o'clock in the afternoon when the head of the Union column came in sight of the Dug Spring. The Confederates had thrown up a slight earth work, on one of the hills, commanding the road, in which they had probably one hundred and fifty men, and two or three field pieces. It was simply an outpost, set to warn the large army of the approach of the enemy. In passing, it may be said that a large part of the men in that earthwork were from Greene county mostly. Indeed, Springfield boys under Captain Dick Campbell, son of that grand old pioneer, John P. Campbell "Father of Springfield."

When the Federals came within range the Confederates opened fire. Probably if the head of Lyon's column had been untrained volunteers they would have fled, for the fire was effective and men were killed and wounded. But Lyon had placed in the van some of the few regulars he had, together with three guns from Totten's battery, that was to do such havoc on "Bloody Ridge" a few days later. Totten swung his guns into position in an instant, and, as one of those in the little fort told me twenty years afterwards, "Them Yankees fired the cannons faster than a feller could count the shots." That flight of shrapnell, grape and canister, whistling around their ears, was more than those untrained lads could stand, and they fled post haste.

FEW KILLED

And that was "The battle of Dug Spring." It had lasted but a short time, but it, too, had taken its toll of blood. The Confederates are said to have lost one man killed, and some 30 wounded. The next day Lyon pushed his scouting expedition a little further, and then returned to Springfield. Neither side were yet ready to risk a pitched battle. There was an incident following the skirmish at Dug Springs that is well worth the telling. It has been told before, but it is one of those heroic happenings that will bear a thousand repetitions.

One of the men of the neighborhood, acting as guide for Lyon, was John Short. A stalwart Union man from the whisper of war. After the skirmish he asked and received permission to visit his home, a few miles away, in the edge of Stone county. He reached home safely, and after dark sat in his doorway chatting with his wife. Then there came a halt from the dark road in front of the house, which said that two Union men were on their way to Lyon's camp, and had lost their way, and asked Short to come and set them right. Unsuspecting Short walked to the fence and vaulted over. Instantly he was seized from behind by a pair of stalwart arms, that pinned his own arms to his side. He grasped the butt of the revolver hanging at his hip but before he could draw the weapon his wrist was seized by a second man, who strove to twist it out of his hand. It was but a moment before Short was down on his knees and one hand, with one man on his back throttling him, and the other gradually gaining possession of the revolver.

WIFE AIDS SHORT

Then, when the poor fellow was almost at the last gasp, the man on his back dropped off, and the other started on the run down the road. It took but an instant for Short to send a bullet through the fleeing rascal, who dropped dead. Then the Union man turned to settle with the other assailant, and there sprawled face down on the road, lay the man who had been choking him to death, and sunk under the shoulder blade, almost out of sight was an axe, while leaning against the fence, almost fainting now, was Short's wife! She had rushed to the help of her husband, seized the axe, and with one swift over-handed blow, she had literally split the heart of that murderer in twain!

It would take too much space to tell in detail the remainder of that brave woman's acts, that dark August night. Suffice it to say, that she had heard the two struggling scamps encouraging each other to hang on for "The balance of the boys will be here directly." So she forced her husband, man against his will, to start at once for Lyon's camp. Then she dragged those two dead men by the heels into the field, and, alone in the dead of night, and darkness, for a light might bring her foes to the spot, she dug a grave and buried that bloody pair.

HOUSE IS FIRED

Next morning the remainder of the gang came. They robbed the house of everything that took their fancy, while the brave woman, as she told it in after years, "set there the yard. The knaves as these, were so impressed by her bravery, that they left and women...

There are many of the good old name of Short in the Ozarks today. Leaders they, in all that makes for progress and righteousness. One of them is Rev. Henry Short, whom all good republicans hope to see as the next congressman from the Fourteenth District of Missouri. The old-time spirit is still true to name, so that when, in 1917, the call came for men to save the world, no less than nine of the name were among the first to enlist, and served in the trenches of France until the fight was won.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Starne mortuary, with the Reverend John Crockett, pastor of Tabernacle Presbyterian church, officiating, for George Ryan, 51, who died Friday night. Burial will be in Hazelwood cemetery.

John S. Farrington was appointed by Judge John H. Fairman in probate court yesterday as guardian for Spencer Finn, a minor.

KIRBY RULES TWO SONS OF THE SAME FATHER ENTITLED TO SHARE EQUALLY IN MACHT ESTATE

Property Left by Aged Recluse Buried in Death in 1925, Will Be Shared Equally by Pair

LEARNING, forward intently as they occupied seats in the same row in the circuit court room yesterday, Charles Macht of Mineapolis, Minn., and Guy Turnbo of Springfield yesterday heard Judge Guy D. Kirby render a decision holding them to be sons of the same father by different marriages and entitled to share equally in the property left by John Macht, aged recluse who died two years ago.

The case, begun Friday, was submitted to Judge Kirby after further testimony had been given by Mrs. Cora F. Ahlsted, mother of Turnbo, and brief statements had been made by Perry T. Allen, attorney for Turnbo and his mother, and Nat Benton, attorney for Charles Macht.

Died at Hospital Here

The aged recluse, who lived alone on a little farm near Fair Grove, had died in a hospital in Springfield two years ago as the result of burns suffered when his home was destroyed by fire. Neighbors knew little of him and nothing of his relatives until after his death.

His property, comprising some $1200 in money and a 40-acre farm near Fair Grove, was claimed by Turnbo as his son, by Charles Macht as his son, and by Martin and Andrew Macht, nephews, of Peirce City.

Charles Macht testified that his father and mother were married in 1892 and that he was born in 1895. The parents later were divorced.

Mrs. Ahlsted testified that her first marriage was to Macht, under the name of Frank Turnbo, at Gainesville in 1907. Later, she said, she obtained a divorce in Joplin, some time after their son was born. Turnbo, she said, had told her after their marriage that his name was not Turnbo, but John Macht.

Body Identified

She further testified that she and a sister had identified the body of Macht as that of her former husband.

"It is, the decision of the court," Judge Kirby said, "that these two men are sons of the same father and entitled to share equally in his property."

"I have heard all the testimony and read the depositions, and I have watched these two in the court room. They look alike, they act alike, their features are much the same, and I believe them to be brothers. It strikes me that any unprejudiced observer, without even studying them closely, would recognize them as brothers."

"I have no doubt that John Macht and the mother of Charles Macht were married in the north in 1892, as the testimony indicates, and that he is entitled to a share of the property. Furthermore, I have no doubt that Mrs. Ahlsted, then Miss Cora F. Upton, and Macht, under the name of Turnbo, were married in Gainesville exactly as she has testified, and that the other son, Guy Turnbo, was born of this union."

Plan No Appeal

"The order will be that the two are brothers, sons of the same father, and that each receive one-half of the property he left."

Attorneys said that it was likely that any appeal from Judge Kirby's decision would be on either side.

"I believe Charles Macht is the son of my former husband," Mrs. Ahlsted said. "He looks and acts so much like my boy that I'm sure they are brothers. I wouldn't think of opposing giving him half of the property."

SAYS HUSBAND NAGGED

Alleging that her husband quarreled and fussed at her continually and that he failed to support her property, Margaret C. Gargis has filed suit for divorce from John T. Gargis. They were married April 17, 1926, and separated last June 5.

The marriage of Miss Myrtle Chumbley of Peirce City, and Olaf Lund of Stafford, Mo., was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ona Chumbley at Peirce City Saturday evening, November 26, the Reverend Ward of the First Methodist church, officiating. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Lund will be at home in Peirce City to their many friends. A 6 o'clock dinner was served to the immediate relatives.

ASH GROVE YOUTH KILLED BY POISON WITH TWO OTHERS DANGEROUSLY ILL

STRANGE TOMATO WINE THOUGHT FATAL POTION

All Keep Silence Concerning Drink Resulting Tragically; Death Comes After Week of Agony for Boy

ONE youth is dead and two others are dangerously ill at Ash Grove, victims of poisoning which physicians believe resulted from a strange tomato wine they drank at a party more than a week ago.

The poisoning proved fatal to Noble Hughes, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hughes and a junior at Ash Grove High school.
Funeral services were conducted for him at Ash Grove yesterday afternoon.

Physicians believed yesterday that Cecil Hagar, 16-year-old son of Constable John Harris, and the 11-year-old son of Fred Robinett, employee at the Ash Grove Lime company, would survive the effects of the poison wine. Of 13 youths said to have attended the wild party, only Hagar, Robinett and Hughes were stricken.

Hughes refused to tell the source of the poison wine. He said he did not know where it came from.
The police, however, are making a thorough investigation and reached last night that the officer at Ash Grove had promised a thorough investigation of the case, centering about an attempt to find the source of the liquor.

The drinking party believed responsible for Hughes' death was more than ten days ago. Hughes suffered poisoning of the stomach and kidneys soon afterward, and, according to Dr. Charles McHaffie, died in convulsions.

The youth's father, Dan Hughes, is an employe of the Ash Grove Lime and Cement company, as is the father of young Robinett.
Hughes is survived by his father and mother, three sisters and one brother.

Liquor blamed for the poison death is believed to have been purchased near Ash Grove, but everyone who attended the party has refused to reveal where it was obtained.

The condition of both Hagar and Robinett was regarded as dangerous for a time, but they now are thought to have a good chance to recover.

Jewell E. Windle, Greene county coroner, was not notified of the poison death, but may conduct an investigation.

Constable John R. Harris of Ash Grove is conducting an investigation into an alleged drinking orgy a week ago last night which, he says, resulted in the death of an Ash Grove youth and the serious illness of two others.

The death had not been reported to Coroner Jewell Windle last night.

Funeral services and burial of the youth already have been conducted.

MURDER CHARGED TO COUNTY YOUTH HELD UNDER BOND

Captive Confesses Selling Two Gallons of Tomato Wine for $1.50; Two Other Lads
Made Seriously Ill

ACCUSED of selling the liquor which physicians blamed for the death of Noble Hughes, 19-year-old high school youth of Ash Grove, Millard Robinett, 20, was arrested by county officers at Ash Grove yesterday on a second degree murder charge.

Robinett was in the Greene county jail here last night in default of $7500 bond, awaiting a preliminary hearing on the murder charge Friday.

The youth was taken into custody by Deputy Sheriff Ollie Crosswhite who accompanied Prosecutor W. W. Hamlin to Ash Grove to attend the "blue law" trial of L. D. Metcalf, theater owner. He confessed to Crosswhite and Hamlin, they declared last night, that he sold two gallons of tomato wine to Hughes and his companions two weeks ago for $1.50.

KEPT SOURCE SECRET

Young Hughes, a junior at Ash Grove High school and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hughes, died in convulsions early Friday morning after he had suffered a strange poisoning more than a week. Cecil Hagar, 16-year-old son of Constable John Harris, and Robinett, both of whom accompanied Hughes on a liquor party two weeks ago tonight, suffered similar poisoning, but both have recovered.

Hagar and young Robinett admitted their sickness was due to a strange tomato wine, but refused steadfastly to reveal where they had obtained the liquor.

UNCLE FACES COMPLAINT

Robinett is said to have obtained the liquor in turn from an uncle, whose name is being withheld. It is understood that this relative will be arrested today on a liquor selling complaint.

Of 13 youths who attended the liquor party which resulted in Hughes' death only three suffered ill effects. Mr. Hamlin said he was told by Dr. Charles McHaffie, Ash Grove physician, that the youth's death was mainly due to liquor poisoning.

The youth held as Hughes' slayer is an employe of the Ash Grove Lime and Cement company. Hughes' father also was an employe there.

YOUTH CHARGED WITH MURDER AFTER DEATH OF ASH GROVE BOY

Millard Robinett Tells Hamlin He Sold Tomato Wine; Student Drank a Half Gallon of It and Suffered No Ill Effect, Prosecutor Told.

Millard Robinett, 18, Ash Grove youth, was arrested yesterday at Ash Grove by county officials on a charge of second degree murder in connection with the death of Noble Hughes, 18-year-old high school youth, also of Ash Grove. Physicians claim the youth died from poison liquor.

Robinett is in the Greene county jail here in default of $7500 bond, awaiting preliminary hearing on the murder charge Friday. He was taken into custody by Deputy Sheriff Ollie Crosswhite.

Prosecuting Attorney W. W. Hamlin said he made a statement that he sold two gallons of tomato wine to Hughes and his companions two weeks ago for $1.50.

Never Hurt Him.

Hughes, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hughes, died in convulsions Sunday morning.

Young Robinett declared this morning that he drank a half gallon of the wine and that it did not make him sick. The only effect it had on him, he said, was to burn his throat and make it swell. He said that he was feeling no ill effects of it now.

He said he sold the wine to Hughes for $1.25 and not $1.50. He said the wine, he declared, behind the canning factory at Ash Grove. According to the story told by him yesterday, he obtained the liquor from another source.

Thinks Wine All Right.

Coroner Jewell Windle said yesterday afternoon that he investigated the death of young Hughes by telephone and was of the opinion that the youth died from convulsions which were the natural followup of a weakened condition resulting from a recent attack of scarlet fever. He was unable to confirm the wine story, he said, or find evidence that poison liquor caused the death.

Robinett said this morning that he believed that if the wine was the cause of Hughes' death, he himself would have died, for, he said, he drank more than the others.

Robinett said he had heard that Hughes had been afflicted with heart trouble for several years. He thought that this trouble might have caused the death.

Mrs. Willard Merriam Dies While Visiting Daughter in Columbia.

Mrs. Willard Merriam, 60 years old, owner of Rockaway Beach, died yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Columbia, Mo., where she was visiting her daughter, Miss Helen Merriam, who is attending the state university.

She was prominent throughout the Ozarks—as well as the central states—for her activities in promoting the resort and playground interests of the Missouri-Arkansas region.

Ozark Booster.

More than a score of years ago, Mrs. Merriam's husband, now deceased, who was one of the leading real estate men of Kansas City, established a summer home and resort on Lake Taneycomo.

Upon the death of her husband, Mrs. Merriam took over complete management of the resort. About 50 summer cottages, the Taneycomo and Rockaway hotels, a large dance pavilion and a concession pavilion were owned by her.

Services at Kansas City.

Several years ago, Mrs. Merriam was instrumental in arranging for a power line being brought from the Power-site dam to the resort, and has been in charge of supplying the entire resort with lights and power since that time.

She was a prominent member of the Ozarks Playground association and was active in all movements for the advancement of the Ozarks.

She is survived by one son, Wallace Merriam, and one daughter, Miss Helen Merriam.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in Kansas City, with burial there.

MRS. A. P. MERRIAM DIES AT COLUMBIA

Owner of Rockaway Beach Victim of Heart Attack
While Visiting Daughter

Mrs. Anna P. Merriam, 60 years old, owner of Rockaway Beach on Lake Taneycomo, died suddenly following a heart attack Monday afternoon in Columbia, Mo., friends here learned yesterday.

Mrs. Merriam was in Columbia visiting her daughter, Miss Helen Merriam, who is attending school. Funeral services will be held this afternoon in Kansas City, Kan., where the family lived for many years.

Husband Founded Resort

Mrs. Merriam, who was the widow of Willard Merriam, founder of Rockaway Beach, was widely known throughout the Ozarks for her work in developing the region. She was active in all movements for improving the Lake Taneycomo country and built her own resort up to one of the largest and most popular in the entire Ozark region.

After the death of her husband about three years ago, Mrs. Merriam took active charge of Rockaway Beach and made her permanent home there. Her husband had been a prominent real estate man in Kansas City, Kan., and about 19 years ago established the resort on Lake Taneycomo.

At the time of her death, Mrs. Merriam owned about 2000 acres of land in the Taneycomo region with about 60 cottages, two hotels, her home and other property at Rockaway. She has many friends in this section.

Injured in Accident

About four weeks ago Mrs. Merriam suffered a broken shoulder in an automobile accident in Chicago. She apparently was recovering satisfactorily from the injury and friends here did not know yesterday whether the accident had been a contributing cause to her death.

Mrs. Merriam is survived by three children, a daughter, who lives in Chicago, Miss Helen Merriam, and a son, Wallace, who is a student in Northwestern university, Chicago.

CORONER TO HOLD NO INQUEST OVER BOY

An investigation by Coroner Jewell Windle into the death of Noble Hughes 18-year-old Ash Grove youth, completed this morning, resulted in a decision not to have an autopsy and inquest into the death.

The coroner's investigation also resulted in Prosecutor W. W. Hamlin indicating that charges of second degree murder against Millard Robinson, 18, also of Ash Grove, may be dropped by Prosecutor W. W. Hamlin.

In summing up his investigation the coroner's report says:

"The body of the deceased was buried November 26, 1927, at Ash Grove. An autopsy would show a condition of nephritis and a weakened heart condition, but would not show evidence of acute alcoholism, said opinion being based upon the assumption that no liquor had been partaken of by the deceased since November 12, 1927. Furthermore, there is no evidence that the deceased had any liquor during that time. Furthermore, too long a lapse of time occurred between the supposed drinking of November 12 and the onset of symptoms, to justify suspicion of poison liquor contributing to the death. Furthermore, case history by Dr. C. H. McHaffie justifies in every detail the deceased's return of uremic convulsions causing death.

"This opinion is based upon case history borne out by consultation which leads me to the conclusion that a disinterment and an autopsy would reveal nothing other than what has been clinically diagnosed, and furthermore, would not assist in determining that liquor poisoning was a contributing factor to death."

Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon at Republic for Daniel Kuykendall, 86, who died at 7 o'clock Monday night. He was a veteran of the civil war. "A BRIGHT BOY," SAYS CLUB FOUNDER OF DEAN WILLIAMS

Friends-in-Council Members Today Pay Homage to Mrs.
Virginia Holland: Is a Great-Granddaughter of Patrick Henry.

Homage is being paid today to one of Springfield's oldest citizens. The members of the Friends-in-Council are visiting in a body the founder of their club, Mrs. Virginia Holland.

Mrs. Holland celebrates tomorrow her eighty-ninth birthday. Born in 1838, a great-granddaughter of the famous American patriot, Patrick Henry—she has lived practically all her life in Missouri. At the age of seventeen, she married Mr. Harper of Boonville, Mo., a teacher in one of the Boonville schools. Left a widow before the Civil war, she set to work to educate her two children.

Taught Dean Williams.

She succeeded in giving her sons college educations by teaching school in a seminary in Boonville. While there, she had as a pupil Walter Williams, the present Dean of the School of Journalism at Missouri university.

Mrs. Holland has often told her friends how her pupil, Walter, would place a newspaper on the floor before her, and sprawling out at her feet, would point to printed letters and ask what they were. Mrs. Holland not only holds the distinction of teaching Dean Williams his letters, but she also has the honor of having taught him to read and write.

A Bright Boy.

Mrs. Holland said yesterday that she remembered how Walter Williams used to bring a newspaper to her. "Yes," she added, "he was a bright boy."

Many years after her husband's death, while visiting in Springfield, she met John L. Holland, then a widower. She and Mr. Holland were married and took up their residence in Springfield. Mr. Holland, who was for years a stockholder in the old Keet-Rountree company, was one of the founders of the Holland bank.

Mrs. Holland has been connected with many philanthropic movements in Springfield. She was one of the chief organizers of the old children's home, and was at the head of the organization while it was still supported by voluntary contributions. After the home was destroyed by fire and was taken over by the city, Mrs. Holland remained in charge for a number of years.

Visited Ancestor's Grave.

As one of the members of the St. Paul Methodist church, she was influential in establishing the Centenary School for Girls.

Mrs. Holland has the honor of being the first woman to be elected to the city school board, but the sentiment of the time was opposed to a woman's participation in city affairs, and she was never permitted to sit in the school board meetings.

At the age of 75, she visited the grave of her great-grandfather, Patrick Henry, and when she returned to Springfield, she brought with her a slip of Ivy from the orator's grave. She planted this in front of her home at 319 South Kimbrough avenue, where it can be seen today growing around a large oak tree.

Most Beloved Woman.

Only one of Mrs. Holland's four children is now alive, two having died in infancy and a third in young manhood. The surviving son, Dr. Harper, is head of the chemistry department in Texas university at Austin.

Since she entered the Mary E. Wilson Home, two years ago, Mrs. Holland became one of the most beloved women there. Although feeble, she is able to crochet fancy lace for pillow cases and knit small wash cloths which she sells to her friends. Still true to her old philanthropic self, she gives the revenue from this fancy work to the Centenary Home.

And so, the Friends-in-Council continue their custom of celebrating the birthday of the club's founder, who was for almost 40 years its president, and in taking Mrs. Holland gifts of candy and flowers, the women of the club pay tribute to one of Springfield's most beloved citizens.

Mrs. Stark was the mother of Mrs. Highfill, wife of W. J. Highfill, cashier of the People's State bank at Thayer and also of Mrs. Ollie C. Lindley of Alton, superintendent of public schools of Oregon county.

Although Mrs. Stark lived in the Omaks in Oregon county for a number of years, it was not generally known that she was the grandmother of the noted movie actress. She was a Virginia woman, having been born June 22, 1854, of an old Virginia family, in Alexandria, Va., on the banks of the Potomac and in the shadow of the national capitol. Her father was George Langley, an attorney of Alexandria. She was married in Virginia in 1872 to M. L. Stark of Brookfield, Va.

Mrs. Stark's husband was a direct descendant of General John Stark, sagacious commander of Revolutionary war fame, which also makes the movie actress a direct descendant of that noted commander.

83-Year-Old Frisco Surgeon Still Serves

Dr. Billings of Lebanon Has Devoted Half of Life to Tending Frisco Employees—Recently Joined Wife Celebrating 60th Anniversary.

For forty-one of his eighty-three years has Dr. J. M. Billings been a Frisco local surgeon at Lebanon, Mo., and the winter of 1927-1928 finds him a kindly philosopher, tenderly cherishing the memory of the celebration by him and his wife of their sixtieth wedding anniversary recently and wondering if there are any other surgeons who have served the Frisco as long as he.

Doctor Billings was residing at Lebanon when he received his appointment as local surgeon for the Frisco in 1886. He has held this position at Lebanon ever since, and is in active practice in town and, as he says, "riding over the hills of the Ozarks."

As he recalls it Dr. John McIntire was chief surgeon for the Frisco at that time. "Following him was that splendid man and surgeon, Doctor Lutz," said Doctor Billings. "Then that quiet, unassuming man, Dr. Cole, whom we all admired and loved, and now the present chief, Dr. Woolsey, another prince of a fellow, with his pleasant smile and hearty handshake."

"During these forty-one years of service, many change and improvements have been made, both in road and equipment, from a small road to one of the large system of the United States.

Few Surgeons in Early Days.

"In the early days there were but few surgeons appointed. My recollection is that there were only two, between St. Louis and Springfield.

Now there are hundreds on the system, and all together they make a splendid bunch of doctors, qualified and willing to go any time to minister to the sick and injured to the best of their ability.

"The Frisco Medical association was organized several years ago while Dr. Cole was chief at Springfield and he was the first president. It was my pleasure to be one of the charter members of that organization and I have missed but two meetings since it was organized.

"Formerly we had poor equipment for taking care of the injured. Now we have a splendid system of hospitals, well equipped, where everything can be done that human skill can accomplish.

"We doctors do not have so much to do now as formerly, owing to the improvement in the road equipment and careful management of train crews and danger signals.

Wrecks were frequent then, now they are but few. All praise to the safety first movement which is saving many lives. This may be hard on the doctor's pocket book but life is of more value than money. Keep the good work going.

"Many of our former co-workers have laid down the scalpel and saw and gone to their reward in the Beyond. May we profit by their labors in this work for humanity."

Veteran in Service.

Doctor Billings said that if there are any Frisco doctors that have served the railroad as long as he, he would like to hear from them.

Doctor Billings was born near Indianapolis, Ind., March 2, 1844. He moved to Flora, Ill., when a young man. He was married to Miss Juliet N. Bowman, of Flora, daughter of Dr. J. Bowman, of Flora, October 22, 1867. To the couple were born three sons, only one, A. F. Billings, of Enid, Okla., living. One died in infancy and the other, Roy F. Billings, in middle life. The couple have three grandchildren, residing in St. Louis.

Doctor Billings was graduated from the Miami Medical College, now Cincinnati University, in 1873. He began to practice medicine at Clay City, Ill., shortly after his graduation and in 1881 moved to Lebanon where he has practiced ever since.

Mrs. Billings was born at Wheeling, West Virginia, and is eighty-two ~~years old~~ ~~years old~~

TRAPPED BY CAB FATHER AND SONS PERISH IN WATER

Harry Perriman, Prominent Monett Farmer and Merchant, and Two Youth Victims of Highway Accident

BODIES NOT DISCOVERED UNTIL HOUR AFTERWARD

Think Broken Rod Cause of Crash, Although Snow May Have Caused Machine to Skid Across the Road

PINNED beneath the wreckage of their car after it plunged off a 15-foot embankment, a father and his two sons drowned in the icy waters of Jenkins creek 12 miles south of Aurora at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The dead:

Harry Perriman, 45, of Monett, for years a prominent farmer and merchant at McDowell.

Eschal Raymond Perriman, 19, Monett, who is survived by a young wife.

William Dean Perriman, 21, Monett.

The Perrimans were returning to Monett after visiting their farm near Jenkins City when their Chevrolet truck left the highway at Jenkins creek and plunged off the high embankment, turning over as it fell into the stream. The cab of the machine was crushed in the fall, imprisoning the three men beneath the shallow water. More than an hour passed before the wreckage was lifted and the bodies taken from the stream.

CAUSE NOT FIXED

Cause of the tragedy has not been definitely determined. The truck may have skidded in drifts of snow, but those who investigated the accident believed it more likely that a broken radius rod, throwing the steering apparatus out of control on frozen brakes were responsible.

Mrs. Lester Long, whose farm is near the scene of the accident, saw the truck stop a short distance from the place it plunged off the highway. Perriman's sons climbed out to throw a cover over the radiator. From this point, tracks of the car indicated the machine moved straight to the place where it toppled off the highway.

FATHER AT WHEEL

Mrs. Long was the first to discover the accident. Finis King, Aurora undertaker, was summoned immediately, and attempts to free the drowning men had been futile when he arrived in an ambulance. The bodies finally were rescued as the front of the demolished truck was lifted by huge jacks.

The elder Perriman, who was found at the wheel, apparently suffered a broken neck and a fractured leg as the truck struck the creek bottom. He died almost instantly. Mercifully sudden death did not come to the younger men, an examination showing they suffered no broken bones or other serious injury.

BODIES TO AURORA

The bodies were taken to Aurora, and burial probably will be near Jenkins City tomorrow.

The Perriman family moved several weeks ago to Monett, after a store operated by the father at McDowell was destroyed by fire.

Ernest Perriman, a brother of the elder Perriman who lives at Jenkins City, was notified immediately of the tragedy and came to Aurora to claim the bodies. Another brother, Joe Perriman, died in a hospital at Aurora less than a month ago. Mrs. Harry Perriman, Mrs. Eschal Perriman and several other near relatives survive the three men.

MRS. MALINDA ROBERTSON of Lowry City celebrated her 100th anniversary at her home Sunday. Mrs. Robertson is in good health and can perform her household duties and cook her own meals. She has five children and makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Susie Reynolds. She has 35 living descendants. She was born near Effingham, Ill., and moved to St. Clair county more than 60 years ago. She moved to Lowry City nearly 30 years ago.

MRS. SARAH E. ROGERS.
 Mrs. Sarah Euphrasia Rogers, 76 years old, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Hammitt, in Milton, Ore., November 21, according to word received here by friends. Mrs. Rogers for ten years was a member of the board of the Springfield Public library and most of that time was on the book committee which is largely responsible for the selection of books. She also was a member of the Saturday club and the First Congregational church of this city. Mrs. Rogers is survived by two children, Mrs. Hammitt, and Miles Harold Rogers, of Welser, Idaho, and two grandchildren, Evan Rogers Hammitt and Miles Samuel Rogers. Mrs. Rogers was born in Vermont, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gosselin. She began teaching at the age of 15 and continued in this work 12 years. She married Samuel Rogers in Humboldt, Iowa. The family moved to Springfield in 1891 and Mrs. Rogers spent 39 of her most active years here. It was only a few years ago that she went to live with her daughter. Mr. Rogers died in 1924.

CAR HURLS 3 TO DEATH IN RIVER

Father and Two Sons Killed When Auto Goes Over Embankment.

Three Monett men, a father and two sons, met death late yesterday when their truck plunged over an embankment into the water of Jenkins creek, 12 miles south of Aurora. They are Harry Perriman, 45, Eschal Raymond Perriman, 19, and William Dean Perriman, 21.

They were returning to their homes in Monett after visiting their farm near Jenkins, when the accident happened. Their truck, either because of the snow or a broken radius rod, left the highway and plunged over a 15-foot embankment, turning over as it fell into the stream.

Neck Is Broken.

The truck cab was crushed, leaving the three men imprisoned beneath the shallow water.

Mrs. Lester Long, who lives near the scene of the accident, was the first to discover it. Attempts to free the men were at first unsuccessful. It was not until an hour after the accident and only after huge jacks had lifted the front of the demolished truck that the bodies were rescued.

Two Left Widows.

The victims were taken to Aurora by Finis King, Aurora undertaker, where burial arrangements will be made. They will be buried tomorrow near Jenkins.

The elder Perriman, who was driving the truck, apparently suffered a broken neck. He probably died instantly. The young men, however, met death by drowning.

Ernest Perriman, a brother of the father who lives at Jenkins, was notified and came to Aurora to claim the bodies. The men are survived by Mrs. Harry Perriman, Mrs. Eschal Perriman and several other near relatives.

Hunting Accident May Prove Fatal For Aurora Youth

Dangerously injured in a hunting accident yesterday morning, a youth of a hundred yards from his home near Madry, eight miles south of Aurora, Homer Jaynes, 22, former student at State Teachers college here, was near death last night in an Aurora hospital.

Young Jaynes was hunting alone at 11 o'clock yesterday morning when he stumbled and dropped his .22 calibre rifle. The gun was discharged as it fell, the bullet striking Jaynes in the abdomen and lodging in the pelvic bone. Suffering great pain and weakened by internal hemorrhages, the man dragged himself to his home and was taken to a hospital at Aurora. Dr. R. M. Smart said after an operation had been performed last night that Jaynes has but a slight chance to recover.

Jaynes left State Teachers college here several months ago when his father, who operates a poultry ranch near Madry, was crippled in an accident at the farm home.

Triple Services

that young Perriman might be with his wife and infant son. Harry Perriman, 45, the father, Eschal and a brother, William Dean, 21, all of Monett, were drowned when their Chevrolet truck left the highway 12 miles south of Aurora, plunged into Jenkins creek and pinned them under the icy water.

Monett Buried in Triple Service; One Was Father of Child Born Monday.

In one big grave at Leann today were placed three flower covered caskets containing the husband and two sons of Mrs. Harry Perriman of Monett. Triple services were held at the Leann church.

The lives of the male members of her family were snuffed out late hurtled over a 15-foot embankment into Jenkins creek, 12 miles south of Aurora.

The victims were Harry Perriman, 45, and his two sons, Eschal, 19, a born Monday, Mrs. Eschal Perriman was not present at the funeral. The body of her young husband was taken from Aurora yesterday afternoon to Monett and left for the night near the bed of the young mother.

The casket was opened at her bedside that she might view the corpse.

The body was returned to Aurora.

the embankment.

and drowned. The bodies were recovered an hour after the accident.

Mrs. Joel Perriman, of Jenkins, widow of the brother of Mr. Harry Perriman, was among the mourners

YOUTH ESCAPES ONE CRASH AND DIES IN SECOND

Was Surveying His Overturned Truck When Auto Struck Him.

LIVES SHORT TIME

Aged Mother Dependent On Son Faces An Uncertain Future.

Ernest Schrader, 28, 828 Peach avenue, died this morning at the Springfield Baptist hospital as the result of injuries sustained when struck by an automobile driven by H. W. McCoy of St. Louis.

After the Ford truck in which he and five others were riding had been struck by a speeding driver, Schrader was hit by McCoy's car when he stepped in front of it on East Division road, four miles from town.

Car Overturns

The truck, driven by Bryan Arnold, also of 828 Peach avenue, was struck by the speeding car, jamming the wheels and causing it to overturn. In it were Arnold, his wife and three children, and Schrader. No one was hurt. The speeding car did not stop.

As the group was surveying the overturned truck, Schrader was hit.

He and the others were brought to the police station by McCoy, from where Schrader was removed to the hospital. Examination by Dr. J. N. Wakeman, city physician, showed that the man suffered from concussion of the brain and severe injuries about the chest and face.

An inquest will be held by Coroner Jewell Windle at the Alms Loomeyer Undertaking parlor at 7:30 this evening.

Schrader was born at Gordon, Neb., August 12, 1899. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Dora A. Schrader, 828 Peach avenue; a sister, Carry Lillie, and a brother, Charles Evans, the address of both being unknown.

As Schrader was his aged mother's support, she is left in a rather distressful condition, friends say. She and her son resided with Arnold and his family. It has been several years, she said, since she has heard from the other children. Schrader's father has been dead 20 years, she said.

Funeral arrangements have not been made yet.

SHOT AFTER TAKING DRINK, FARMER NEAR DEATH HERE

SHOT by a Stone county officer when he fled after he was surprised taking a drink from a liquor jug at his farm near Reeds Spring. G. A. Turner, 55, well known farmer of the Reeds Spring section, was in a critical condition at a hospital here last night.

Blood poisoning has set in as a result of the gunshot wound, and the man was brought here late vesterday for an operation. Dr. R. W. Hogeboom removing the bullet from Turner's right shoulder. Turner had refused for several days to come here for an operation.

Details of the shooting were not revealed, but it was said that Turner, frightened by the officers, attempted to flee and was shot down. Attendants at the hospital fear infection resulting from the wound may prove fatal.

Motorist Is Cleared After Killing Man Who Escaped Wreck

A coroner's jury here last night exonerated H. W. McCoy of St. Louis of blame in the death of Ernest Schrader, 531 Peach avenue, who expired in a hospital here yesterday morning of injuries suffered Sunday night when he was struck by McCoy's car on the East Division street road.

After testimony from several witnesses, including McCoy and Bryan Arnold, who was with Schrader at the time of the accident, the jury decided Schrader died of injuries suffered when struck by an Oakland coupe driven by H. W. McCoy, and from evidence submitted we find that the accident was unavoidable on the part of Mr. McCoy as well as the deceased.

Testimony showed that a heavy fog, and the fact that Schrader's car was without lights, were principally to blame for the tragedy. A Ford truck in which Schrader, Arnold and several others were driving to Springfield had been knocked off the highway and into the ditch by a hit-and-run motorist. The truck's occupants escaped injury in this crash and had pulled their machine back into the center of the road when McCoy's car loomed suddenly out of the fog.

Schrader and Arnold both feared McCoy's machine would hit the truck. It appeared, both attempting to run from the stalled truck.

McCoy swerved to avoid striking their machine and did not see Schrader until within a few feet of him. He turned his car into the truck in a vain attempt to avoid striking the man.

Funeral service will be conducted at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Herman Lohmeyer funeral home, with the Reverend I. D. Harris, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal church, officiating. Burial will be in Hazelwood cemetery.

Did you know Joplin is a child of Greene county? Well, it is and it is a pretty husky one at that. This is taken from a boom article on Joplin:

"Joplin, once a mere mining camp with all that term implies, now is a busy and thriving commercial city of 42,000 inhabitants, with good homes, churches, schools, factories, stores, street cars, modern hotels and everything else that goes to make a good place in which to live. Although there have been found some indications that crude mining was done at an earlier date by Spaniards or Indians, Joplin really had its start in 1849 with the discovery of lead.

"The name of Joplin is that of a Methodist Home Missionary, who came to settle there in 1839. Harris G. Joplin was born in 1810 in Tennessee, received a liberal education, was ordained in Western Tennessee, came first to Greene County, Missouri and later to Jasper county. He lived in Jasper county until 1844, when he returned to Greene county where he died."

CHILD IS BORN TO TWO TRAMPS

Minister Dies at Greenfield— Webb City and Shoe Factory.

Born on a bed of straw in a shed when the thermometer hovered at zero and the wind whistled through the cracks, the infant child of Louis Fachler and wife, lived less than twenty-four hours, and the parents are both in a critical condition from exposure at Marshfield.

By tramping Fachler and his wife reached Marshfield from Dallas, Texas, the first of last week. He was hunting work and a place for shelter when their baby should be born.

In the Belle Springs neighborhood he found a woodchopping job with Will Montgomery who had no shelter for them except an old shed. They piled straw in the corner and were told by Mr. Montgomery if it got too cold to come to the house and there would be room for all to sit around the fire.

It did get cold, much colder, and the man and woman started to the house, but she became sick before going far and they had to return to the shed. There in the middle of the night was born a child, with no fire, no lights, no doctor, only a half frozen woman and helpless man to welcome it.

When morning came the man went to neighbors and told the story. The women got busy and with quilts and food went to the shed to assist. The men of the neighborhood got lumber and put a floor in and tried to repair the building. Meantime, that cold day, Fachler tramped hunting a bed for his family. In doing so he froze his feet badly without realizing it. In trying to thaw them out he bathed them in coal oil and blistered them. That night the baby died.

STATE TO TAKE ESTATE MOTHER LEFT TO SON, 10

Orphan Who Was "Farmed Out" in St. Louis Following Death of Parent Here Has Been Missing Years; Believed To Be in Mexico.

Because of the inability of the curator of the estate of the late Mrs. Fernando Martinez, who died here in 1915, to locate the only heir, Jose Martinez, the estate is to go to the state following the February term of court, unless the heir appears. It has been announced at the office of the probate court.

The estate at the time of the mother's death was valued at $364, but has dwindled considerably since that time. A statement filed by Mr. Martinez, who was born in 1905, but claims to be 22 years old, according to the records, which gave his age as 10 years at the time of the mother's death.

Disappears Again.

Young Martinez was placed in an institution in St. Louis shortly after his mother's death. Mr. Smith said today. After being there a short time, the boy was "farmed" out to first one family and then another, until at last he ran away from one of the homes.

He was last heard of in El Paso, Tex. He told Y. M. A. C. executives there that he had a large estate in Springfield. The El Paso men got in touch with the local institution and Mr. Smith was advised of the boy's whereabouts.

Believed To Be In Mexico.

The report of young Martinez being in El Paso was received here about a year before the entrance of the United States into the world war. He has not been heard from since.

Mr. Smith expressed the belief today that the boy, who is a Mexican, has crossed the border and gone to "his own people."

FORMER MINISTER DIES AFTER TAKING POISON

Dependent because of continued ill health, R. L. Moffett, former pastor of the South Avenue Christian church, died this morning at the family home, 604 East Lombard street, after swallowing a quantity of strychnine.

After taking the over-dose of poison about 8 a. m., he called members of his family to the bedside, informed them of his act and died about three hours and a half later. He was conscious to the end.

Dr. E. C. Roseberry and Dr. M. J. Armstrong made desperate efforts to save Mr. Moffett's life, pumping the poison from his stomach and administering every known anecdote.

However, Mr. Moffett had swallowed three grains of strychnine in capsules, enough to kill several men.

Mr. Moffett was for many years pastor of the South Avenue Christian church. He resigned 10 years ago when he suffered a severe nervous breakdown.

Dr. Roseberry also stated today that Mr. Moffett was a victim of high blood pressure. Mr. Moffett's condition had been growing worse during the past few months, although he still was able to walk about the house and yard.

Upon the arrival of the physicians this morning, Mr. Moffett expressed the desire to live, but it was too late. Members of his family doubted his statements about the swallowing of the poison until the arrival of the physicians.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete but will be under direction of the Alma Lohmeyer Funeral home.

The man was at work on a high scaffolding, removing forms from a ceiling, when one of the forms fell and he dodged backwards to escape. Losing his balance on the narrow framework, he toppled to the floor and his head struck the concrete. He never recovered consciousness.

The injured man was brought to Springfield in a Hutchinson-Blue ambulance from Bolivar, with Dr. H. F. Harrell of Morrisville attending him.

He is survived by a wife and daughter. Funeral services probably will be conducted tomorrow or Tuesday at Morrisville.

SPECTRES OF OLD SIGH AS LEFTWICH HOME TORN DOWN

Almost First of Springfield's
Two-Story Dwellings, Older Than Memory, It Falls to a Filling Station

FREMONT HEADQUARTERS
DURING STIRRING DAYS

Abe Lincoln and Jeff Davis,
The Ancient Maples, Stir Sadly Over Their Grave, and Too, Fear Death

THEY are tearing down the old Leftwich home at the corner of Grant avenue and College street to make way for a filling station at the entrance to the new Grant avenue viaduct.

Clapboards of native walnut, held in place with old-fashioned square-cut, headless nails, on the outside, and lath of handiewn pine on the inside, are being ripped away to reveal the heavy-timbered framework of solid oak, hewn and notched with axe and chisel and joined with wooden pegs. Tearing down the inside laths and plaster reveals the wide fireplace, long walled up, in whose capacious depths great wood fires furnished comfort and cheer for forgotten Christmases.

Handwrought wooden doors, imported from St. Louis by ox team, are being unhung; and the fine colonial "front door" of the type which is simulated in building new homes today.

LINCOLN AND DAVIS TREES

Watching the wreckage and raz-ing of the home even older than they, Abe Lincoln and Jeff Davis, stripped and old, shudder in the winter wind. Perhaps they, too, will be felled, victims of the demonstrations. Speed—these two old map-ples which were set out as stripplings in the first year of the Rebellion. Planted in a grim and heart-heavy time, with a courageous humor and determined whim-sicality—"This", said Mrs. William Leftwich, as she directed the tamping of the sod about it, "is Abe Lincoln. And this," as the second tree was set in place, "is Jeff Davis."

(Or perhaps it was vice versa.) "The one that grows the fastest," she said, and smiled a bit, "will win the war—"

But which is Lincoln and which is Davis, today no one remembers.

OLDER THAN MEMORY

Who built the first house on the site, or when, is no longer known, but when the Reverend Dr. William Leftwich bought it from William Fulbright in 1857, there it was —a small, story-and-a-half cottage, with an L kitchen.

Doctor Leftwich had left his Virginia home 20 years before, and travelling by carriage, while his slaves followed with ox teams and wagons bringing the household goods, had settled at Georgetown, 15 miles north of Sodalia.

In 1857 he was in frail health, and physicians suggested Texas, so again the family belongings were loaded into ox wagons, and started the new journey. Arriving in Springfield, he liked the promising little town so much that he stopped right here and brought 87 acres from Fulbright.

TWAS A FINE HOME

Immediately he remodelled and enlarged the house, making it a full two stories, and adding a colonial portico, which later was torn down so that a wide veranda could be built. The only other two-story houses in the city at that time were the homes of the Hollands and when Doctor Leftwich had completed his additions and improvements, he had one of the finest homes in the region.

He lived there, busy and happy, with his family, until after the beginning of the war. He was pastor of the Methodist church, South, and was much upset when the soldiers took over the church. In 1864 he leased his home and moved to Boonville, firmly resolved not to return until his church was restored. This was done five years later, and he came back in 1869 and remained in the old house until his death there in 1876.

But Mrs. Ruth Homan, Doctor Leftwich's granddaughter, who now lives here, relates that in the earlier days of the war while the family still lived there, there was excitement. She was a small child at the time, but recalls the strong feelings that prevailed with great vividness.

FREMONT'S HEADQUARTERS

General Fremont made the Leftwich home his headquarters, using the big living room as an office and the room above it for his private living apartments.

"I remember once," she says, "when I was eaving, he wanted me to kiss him goodbye. But I wouldn't do it, because he was a northerner and I was a little rebel.

"But he was a perfect gentleman," she says, and smiles to recollect how the military band, with instruments all of gleaming silver, came every night to serenade him.

The day before the battle of Wilson creek, Mrs. Homan says, General Lyon stationed himself on his horse before the house and reviewed his troops. The next day she went to visit kinsfolk near the old Percy's cave northwest of town, from where they could hear the cannonading, and see the final retreat—not knowing whether the fleeing soldiers were Union or Confederate.

A CANNONBALL'S VISIT

And during the Marmaduke raid, she says, a cannonball was shot through the house and passed directly through the stairway, but nobody was injured.

In those days, a fine orchard extended east of the house to Phelps street, and there was a magnificent walnut grove to the west. This was exceedingly valuable, and Doctor Leftwich at one time refused an offer of $10,000 for it. But during the war the invading soldiers cut it for firewood—

Back of the house was a large log cabin, the slave quarters; and across Grant street (outside the city limits) the carriage house, and beyond it the farm.

When Doctor Leftwich died, he left the place to his widow, who later died and left it to Mrs. Homan's daughter, Mrs. J. C. Hutchison, who now lives on South Fremont street. Shortly thereafter the old home passed out of the family, and has changed hands time and again in the past half-century.

GLAD TO SEE IT GO?

Of late years, it has been converted into a rooming house, and Mrs. Homan says that it has been little pleasure to the Leftwich descendants to see it continuously degenerating, indifferently cared for, so that it's old fine distinction was little evident. One infers that she is, perhaps, glad that it shall be cleanly razed—

The present owner, who bought it three years ago, is Arch Wright. He is wrecking the house, and has leased the site for a filling station. So another landmark is destroyed; another link with the past broken as a new one with the future is forged.

OLDEST MEMBER OF SOUTH CHURCH WILL BE HONORED

Springfield Man Joined Methodist Group When It Was Organized in '44; Has Had Highly Colorful Career

A MEMBER of the Southern Methodist church for 83 years—since 1844.

From rank private in the Civil war (which he says was the wrong name for it) to adjutant to a captain.

A man who has seen the world move along, who has traveled through the country in an ox-drawn wagon, later in a horse-drawn wagon, in an automobile, and who last summer tried out the airplane means of transportation.

David W. Woodruff, father of Oscar Woodruff, 423 Cherry street, has had an interesting and interesting life and today will be an honored guest at the "Family Day" celebration at St. Paul Methodist church, providing the weather permits him to go—and he's determined to do so.

He was 96 years old last July.

JOINED CHURCH IN 1844

Away back yonder, it seems to us now, but it's not so long to him, in 1844 when the Northern and Southern Methodist churches were created, Mr. Woodruff, then a boy of 13, joined the church at Fayetteville, Ark., and has been a member ever since. He at present holds his membership at Sherman, Texas.

And his friends tell of the time when he and a Mexican boy were camping out on the plains of Texas where he was homesteading 6000 acres of land, a grant for his service in the Civil war, and when he would ride 13 miles each week on the burro to attend Sunday school, starting on the journey early Saturday morning. That was after Mr. Woodruff was 70 years old.

"NOT A CIVIL WAR"

But it's about his war experiences that he likes most to talk. "It wasn't a Civil war," he declares feelingly. "There wasn't anything civil about it. Sometimes they called me a rebel. I wasn't. I was a secessionist, pure and simple. They were all sovereign states and had the right to secede. And thirteen of them did."

He joined the Confederate forces in Barry county and relates proudly that he was in "Bushnell's regiment, Bagby's division, Horton's cavalry corps, Louisiana.

He and his big bay horse, Spanky, must have been lucky, thinks Mr. Woodruff. For—"In the battle of every officer except my-

PLANE RIDE AT 90

In 1935 when he was four years old Mr. Woodruff with his father and mother passed through the "hamlet of Springfield" in a covered wagon drawn by oxen on their way to Fayetteville in what is now Arkansas.

Last summer while visiting a son in the aviation service at San Antonio Mr. Woodruff—96 years old—took his first ride in an airplane and liked it.

"It was a great big machine and about eight people went in," he relates. "We were flying over a great lake and I looked out and thought I could dip it up with my straw hat. Then one of the men running it stuck his head up through a little door and told us that we were going to make a turn and for us to follow around the curve with our eyes as the ship made the turn or we would get dizzy. The machine turned way up on its side like a crazy buzzard and I looked out and down and didn't get dizzy," Mr. Woodruff chuckles.

RETIRED PREACHER KILLED BY POISON AFTER BREAKDOWN

Reverend Frank L. Moffett Expires in Hospital After Vain Effort to Save Him; Held Many Pastorates

DESPONDENCY over the death of his wife three years ago and a second nervous breakdown suffered some eight months ago are believed to have actuated the Reverend Frank L. Moffett in committing suicide. BODY OF MISSING MAN DISCOVERED AT EDGE OF LAKE

Vanished Nearly 48 Hours, Found By Power Worker; Vainly Sought After Disappearing From Home

HALF submerged in a narrow lagoon running back from Lake Taneycomo near Ozark Beach, the lifeless body of Ray Rittenhouse, 25, who disappeared Friday afternoon from his home near Kirbyville, was found early yesterday morning.

The body was discovered by George Edwards of Powersite. Wading on the east bank of Lake Taneycomo opposite Ozark Beach, he noticed something in the water of the slough. Investigating, he found it was Rittenhouse's body, a deep wound on the head.

THINK HE FELL

Blood stains on a sharp rock near the edge of the lagoon, and the injured scalp wound, explained the youth's death satisfactorily to Taney county officers. Robert Thornhill, coroner, said after an investigation it appeared that Rittenhouse had stumbled near the edge of the slough, his head striking the rock as he fell and his body then rolling into the shallow water. There will be no inquest.

On several occasions before his disappearance Friday, Rittenhouse had evidenced periods of peculiarity and left home similarly.

FIND MONEY IN SPRING

The youth had lived alone on a farm a mile and a half east of Kirbyville with his father, Dave Rittenhouse. The father was away from home for a time Friday, and when he returned about 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon his son had disappeared. The father immediately instituted a search, and Saturday scores of neighbors and friends formed searching parties. Bloodhounds brought from the J. L. Wyatt kennels here aided in the search Saturday night, leading the searchers to a spring where the youth's jumper and money were found sunk beneath a barrel, but the dogs were taken off the trail about midnight.

The youth's body was taken to the Thornhill funeral home at Branson. Funeral arrangements are incomplete, pending word from relatives.

MISSING YOUTH FOUND IN SLOUGH

Jagged Wound in Head Indicates Farmer Boy Stumbled and Fell Into Water.

The body of Ray Rittenhouse, 25, who disappeared Friday from his home near Kirbyville was found half submerged in the water of a lagoon yesterday morning, according to word received here today from Robert Thornhill, coroner at Branson.

The lagoon where the body was found runs back from Lake Taneycomo near Ozark Beach, located at the lower end of the lake.

The body was discovered by George Edwards of Powersite. Walking on the east bank of Lake Taneycomo, opposite Ozark Beach, he noticed something in the water of a slough. Investigating, he found Rittenhouse's body.

Head Injury.

Examination of the body disclosed that the man had sustained an injury to his head.

Mr. Thornhill stated this morning that he believed Rittenhouse had stumbled at the edge of the slough, striking his head on some sharp object, and then had fallen into the water of the lagoon.

Blood stains on a sharp rock near the edge of the lagoon and the jagged scalp wound give weight to Mr. Thornhill's theory. There will be an inquest.

On several occasions before his disappearance Friday, Rittenhouse had evidenced periods of peculiarity and left home suddenly.

Find Money in Spring.

The youth had lived on a farm a mile and a half east of Kirbyville with his father, Dave Rittenhouse. The father was away from home for a time Friday, and when he returned about 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon his son had disappeared. The father immediately instituted a search, and Saturday scores of neighbors and friends formed searching parties. Bloodhounds brought from the J. L. Wyatt kennels here aided in the search Saturday night, leading the searchers to a spring where the youth's jumper and money were found sunk beneath a barrel, but the dogs were taken off the trail about midnight.

The youth's body was taken to the Thornhill funeral home at Branson. Funeral arrangements are incomplete, pending word from relatives.

A Boy Killed.

Fred Secrease, a 12 year old boy shot and instantly killed Orville Hilterbrand, 10 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hilterbrand in Carter county. Facts brought out at the inquest by Coroner T. W. Cotton indicated foul play so strongly that the jury recommended that the boy who did the shooting and his three companions be held for court action.

Based on his action on the jury's finding and other investigations, Prosecuting Attorney Moore has filed charges for first degree murder against the four boys and the bond of each was fixed at $5,000.

The boys, in company with three other boys, Alonzo Robertson, Johnny Massey and Lee Secrease aged 10, 12, and 14 respectively had gone hunting and were on their way home when the shooting took place. — IN MEMORIAM.

DOBSON—In sad and loving memory of my dear husband, Paul Dobson, who departed this life one year ago today, Dec. 22, 1926.

From the land of pain and sorrow,
To the land of peace and rest;
God has taken him to where
He knew was best.

No one knows how much we miss him,
No one knows the bitter pain;
Since we lost our dear one,
Life has never been the same.

Badly missed by wife, Veda Dobson, and mother.

DEATHS

ADOLPH C. ONKEN.

IN MEMORY OF JOE CURTIS.

Twenty summers—briefly told,
A sermon from a life so short.
Death took him with hand so bold,
As if to silence and distort
A life we now can understand.

But bitterness—you cannot Destroy for us the untold joy
To have known he shared the lot Of undying Faith with no alloy,
And lived his Life for us.

And you Joe Curtis—your life
Has told the world our Master's power,
And sends to us still mid-tide the strife
A sermon's light from heaven's tower
To lead us there with you.
Badly missed by

THE GANG.

The days are long since you left us—
One long year
Without your happy smile.
Fate has bereft us
Of your presence, dear,
But all the while
Our hearts are filled with pride.
Dear brother and son.

In the spring of life you had to go.
But through the years
The many friends you had Still love you, Joe,
And with our many tears
We yet are glad
You can walk by their side
And cheer them on

Badly missed by MR AND MRS W. P. CURTIS,
MR AND MRS CARL JOHNSON,
MISS GRACE MAYFIELD.

PERSONALS—1

In loving memory of Edward H. McFarland, our dear husband, father, son, grandson and brother, who departed this life one year ago today, Dec. 24th, 1924.

It is sad that him we cherished should be taken from our homes, but the joys that do not perish, lives in memory alone.

For his is a place, when the heart is still, and the lips are kissed with peace. The eyelids droop in dreamless sleep and the soul has found release. The hands have unclasped their work, which angels of time will test, that place is a place of shadowless day. The windowless place of rest.

And when our time on earth is ended, and our days shall be no more, we will gladly haste to Him, as He waits on yonder shore.

Mother Wins Child, 5, Grandmother Reared

Mrs. Thomas Friend Loses Son's Child She Took from Childrens' Home; Own Parent Plans to Put Girl in Catholic Home.

A drama which tugged at the heart strings of onlookers was enacted outside Judge Guy D. Kirby's courtroom this morning when 5-year-old Madeline Friend was taken from the custody of her grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Friend, by her mother, Mrs. Sterling Friend, to whom she had been awarded a few minutes earlier by the court. The grandmother was the mother of the child's father, who was shot and killed five years ago.

Bobbing and with tears streaming from her big blue eyes, Madeline, who had been in the grandmother's custody since she was a month old, grasped the grandmother's skirts and did not want to leave her. She finally was persuaded, however, and was led to another part of the courtroom.

Took Child from Orphanage.

The grandmother, also sobbing, left the building declaring that she would make every effort to again obtain custody of the child.

The drama started inside the courtroom when Judge Kirby called the case and asked the grandmother if she had an attorney.

"I have no money with which to hire a lawyer," Mrs. Friend declared, "but I have had this child since she was a tiny baby and it would not be fair to take her from me now. I have witnesses to prove that I cared for her properly. I took her from the childrens' home, where her mother left her, when she was so sick she couldn't hold up her little head."

Back to Institution.

The court directed that the trial proceed and Val Mason, attorney for the mother, called Mrs. T. K. Bowman. Mrs. Bowman testified she thought the mother should have the custody of the child.

Mrs. Harry Gabriel, in whose home the mother of the child is employed as a domestic, was the next witness. She testified that the mother had been in her employ for 10½ months and was of good character. She pays the mother $6 a week for her services, she said.

Father Was Slain.

The mother testified that it was her intention to put the child in a Catholic home at Nevada after the Christmas holidays.

Judge Kirby then directed the grandmother to introduce her witnesses. Mr. Mason took the matter in hand and had a son-in-law, who lives at the home of the grandmother testify. The son-in-law told of the treatment of the child during the past three years he lived at the residence of the grandmother. The grandmother has furnished the child with food, clothing and other necessities, he said, and was well cared for. His wife was called and told a similar story.

Mr. Mason then turned to the grandmother and asked her if she wanted to take the stand. "I have told all I know to say," she said.

Judge Kirby then announced that he could see no reason why the child should not be awarded to the mother and granted her the custody.

Throughout the trial Madeline large blue eyes wandered about the courtroom. She is a beautiful child and blond curls protruded from beneath the red stocking-cap she wore. She was led from the courtroom by the grandmother and the mother took charge of her there.

The child's father was slain 5½ years ago by Layton Glenn, a neighbor. Glenn was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary, but was taken from that institution to be for the care of insane persons here.

WEDDED PAIR GO TO SCHOOL HERE

Two can live more cheaply than one, declares Ralph Dowler, student at State Teachers college, who recently married and brought his wife to school with him. Both attended classes last semester.

Ralph is a senior and his wife is a sophomore. Their wedding culminated a high school courtship.

"Before we were married," Dowler said "I never studied nearly so much as I do now".

Mr. and Mrs. Dowler do lighthouse keeping in a two-room apartment six blocks from the college. Dowler is in charge of the janitor force in the education building.

He works about five hours a day at this task and carries a full ten-hour schedule. Mrs. Dowler also carried a full course.

Most of the housework falls to the share of Mrs. Dowler. She gets breakfast in time for her husband to get to his work by five-thirty.

Dowler explained that he in no way approved of hasty marriage. "When two people decide to marry they should also make up their minds that it is not a temporary affair of two or three years but that it will be a lasting union."

"Both of us have our careers planned definitely and we considered the marriage from a practical standpoint."

The husband will receive his teaching degree at the Spring commencement and then will teach school for awhile. His major subject is Agriculture. After a short time he plans to study for a graduate degree.

His wife is specializing in kindergarten supervision and elementary art.

Dowler has an older brother who is married and who also attends classes with his wife.

Patton alley has become Patton avenue. No one seems to know where Patton alley gets its name. No doubt it was named for some pioneer who owned property along the alley but Patton is now entirely forgotten. Whoever he was, the lower street was named after him. The man who ran the store at Brown and North Campbell. There is still a grocery store there and the property has been so used for 60 or 70 years. In the early days Brown owned the store and the street is named in his honor. Kimbrough street was named for a well remembered pioneer, but who was Patton?

FARMER IS DYING OF SLEUTH'S SHOT AS STILL TRACED

Ignored Officers' Command To Halt After Outfit And Whisky Found, They Declare After Shooting

WAS GIVEN NO WARNING, YOUTH'S DYING VERSION

Taken To Ozark Sanitarium, Little Hope Held For Recovery; Had Been Paroled By Federal Court Here

HENRY WORKMAN, 20, farmer living near Garrison, who faced a charge of moonshining at the last term of federal court here, is near death in the Ozark sanitarium at Ozark, as a result of being shot in the back by officers during a raid on a still in the southeastern section of Christian county.

Dr. Wallis Smith, who was called to Ozark to aid Doctors H. J. Wise and J. C. Young in an emergency operation, said the bullet probably would not live through the night. He said the bullet was entering the back and passing through his kidney, stomach and liver.

SAY TWO AT STILL

Complaint had been filed with federal officials in Springfield that a large moonshine still was being operated in the Garrison neighborhood in southeast Christian county.

Christian county officers were notified to watch the district and Deputy Sheriff Amos Johnson, William House, a constable and another officer were sent to the neighborhood.

About 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning, the officers say, they approached the still. Workman and another man were said to have been tending it. Officers said both broke into a run when they approached. They opened fire when the moonshiners refused to halt.

Workman was shot through the back but the other man escaped.

HIS DYING VERSION

Members of the sheriff's office at Ozark said they found 30 barrels of mash and ten gallons of whisky. A 120-gallon boiler was also said to have been in operation.

As soon as Workman was taken to Ozark, Prosecuting Attorney Tom R. Moore entered the operating room at the sanitarium and believing that he was near death, young Workman issued the following signed statement:

"I was standing in a hollow about one and one-half miles west of Garrison December 28, 1927, about one-half mile from the still when I saw Amos Johnson coming down a hill. I ran and was a half mile from the scene, walking, when Amos Johnson came from behind and shot me in the back."

"He didn't say anything before he shot me, he never hollered to halt. After he fired the shot, I ran about a quarter of a mile and fell over and was lying there when Johnson and House came up."

"I asked him why he shot me, he said I should not have run away. After that, I don't know what happened."

HAD KILLED ANOTHER

Workman denied to Prosecutor Moore that he was moonshining and said he was not armed.

Deputy Sheriff Johnson, accused by Workman, has been a peace officer in Christian county for many years. About five years ago, he killed Jack Dunn, of Springfield, near the old water mill on Finley river at Ozark.

When Workman was charged here in federal court with moonshining, Judge John T. Moore, father of the Christian county prosecutor, appeared as his attorney and asked for leniency.

"This boy has never before been charged with a crime," Judge Moore told Federal Judge Reeves. "I'll ask you to go rather light with him and if he's ever accused of any charge again, I'll bring him into your court myself." Judge Reeves paroled the youth.

Woman, 86, Stuck to Her Pipe and Husband

"I'll go With You if I Have to Live on Bread and Water,"
She Told Mate Before Perilous Trip; Spouse Planted
First Orchard in Webster County.

Mrs. Jasper Dodson has smoked a pipe for forty years, but she didn't start smoking at a bridge club, a sorority meeting, or even at a road house. She waited until she was over forty to commence, and what's more, she commenced at home with her husband.

Mrs. Dodson will be 86 next Sunday, New Year's Day. Two weeks ago she moved to Springfield from Webster county where she has lived for sixty years.

She remembers distinctly the Civil war, and spoke of it yesterday as the "recent" war. Living in Ray county, eastern Tennessee, at the time, she experienced many thrilling incidents in connection with the great struggle.

"One day two soldiers rode up to our house, and one of them said to my father, 'You belong to the rebels, don't you, old man? We'll have to take a few things. I hear you have a couple of race horses hidden in the woods'.

"My father never did have any race horses," Mrs. Dodson continued, "but he came right out and said, 'I don't have any race horses, but I've got the finest mare that you ever laid eyes on.'"

The soldiers saw the horse and took her, leaving their two horses in its stead.

After the war, she married Mr. Dodson, who had been a soldier in the Georgia regulars. Almost at once, they set out for the west in a covered wagon drawn by oxen.

Mr. Dodson warned his wife against the hardships of the trip, but she replied, "I'll go with you if I have to live on bread and water."

There were practically no roads in southern Illinois and Missouri at the time, Mrs. Dodson said. Some of the hills were so steep that the two women in the party were put in one of the wagons and covered with a wagon sheet so that they couldn't see how steep the hills actually were.

At night one of the men always had to remain awake to keep the Indians from stealing the oxen.

The search for more land brought the young couple to Mianqua, Missouri, where they settled. Here, Mr. Dodson built a log cabin, and, clearing away the brush and timber, set out the first orchard in Webster county.

Wild life was plentiful at first, and Mrs. Dodson has often told her children how wild turkeys would fly up out of the yard when they got up in the morning. Deer were so numerous that they were often seen jumping over the farmers' fences.

How She Started.

"My husband was a great hand to smoke," Mrs. Dodson said yesterday picking up her corn cob pipe. "After a while I began to ask him to let me try it, and he would let me puff at his pipe. One day I said, 'You ought to get me a pipe and let me smoke.' He did, and I've been smoking ever since."

Mr. Dodson was with the Frisco for 42 years. He died in 1912.

Mrs. Dodson is now living with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wheeler of 848 College street. A son, Hugh Dodson, lives here with her.

She was one of a family of twelve children. She has nine children living. She has 42 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

MARRIED HERE.

Edgar L. Howard, 42, Tahoka, Tex., and Josephine L. James, 25, Springfield, were married yesterday by the Rev. I. D. Harris, pastor of Grace M. E. church. The ceremony was performed at the office of Recorder Jack W. McKee, where the marriage license was obtained.

Child Lives with Her 4 Grandparents and Great Grandparents

Mary Belle has so many grandparents she can't keep track of all of them—five to be exact. Affairs wouldn't be so complicated if so many of them didn't live with Mary Belle, but four of them do. One of the four is away on a visit now but Mary Belle says she misses him so, she wishes he would hurry back.

Mary Belle's other name is Brackett and she lives at 985 Boonville. So do her great grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Humbird, her grandfather and grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. George Blair, and her great grandfather, E. P. Blair. Until two weeks ago, when her great-grandmother, Mrs. E. P. Blair died, Mary Belle lived with five of her grand-parents. Mrs. J. Brackett, another grandmother lives in Springfield.

Mary Belle tried to tell today about her grandparents. "Well," she began, naming them on her fingers, "There's grandma and grandpa and great grandma and great grandpa and grandma and—oh, grandma, you tell it." But Mary Belle, who is 7 years old, started again. "Well, you see," she said, very seriously, there's grandma and grandpa and then there's great grandma and great grandpa, but great grandma and great grandpa aren't any kin. You see grandpa is my cousin's grandpa, and grandma isn't.

To add to the confusion of "re-late-lives" as Mary Belle calls them, there are two cousins and some aunts and uncles at the house, to say nothing of mother and father.

When Mary Belle calls "grandma" three elderly women answer her and when she speaks to "grandpa" two old heads are raised to listen. The "re-late-lives" don't bother Mary Belle though. Somehow she manages to get the attention of the one she wants.

And with two parents and five grandparents, to say nothing of several aunts and uncles and some older cousins, Mary Belle ought to be a well-disciplined child.

The marriage of Miss Opal Nelson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Riley Nelson, to the Rev. Ben L. Schmidtke, was solemnized Monday evening at 8 o'clock in Grace M. E. church. Dr. Nelson performed the ceremony, using the double ring service and Dr. I. D. Harris stood with him as an honor guest. The altar of the church was banked with ferns, palms and chrysanthemums in a charming floral arrangement. Preceding the ceremony Bernice Strain sang "O Promise Me," and Miss Hazel Gates sang "Because." Miss Beale Bloomer accompanied them at the pipe organ. Miss Bloomer played Lohengrin's wedding march as the bridal party approached the altar. The bride was preceded by Miss Ruth Koewing, and Miss Lydia Schmidtke as bridesmaids; Mrs. Ray M. LOVE BUDDING 40 YEARS FLOWERS INTO MARRIAGE SURPRISING his friends with a marriage which consummates a romance begun nearly 40 years ago, J. S. Kennon of Wishart, Mo., was married to Mrs. Ida B. Looney Fite of Forrest Grove, Ore., Thursday.

The two were sweethearts at Wishart years ago, when he was 17 years old, and she 16. Later both married other persons, and Mrs. Fite moved to Oregon about 30 years ago.

The two never had seen each other since until she came back last week to marry him. Mr. Kennon's wife died about a year ago, and all unknown even to his closest friends, he revived a correspondence with Mrs. Fite, then a widow.

Mr. Kennon is justice of the peace and manager of the telephone company at Wishart. The marriage was performed by the Reverend James Becker, pastor of St. Luke's Methodist church of Springfield.

Page 14: W. H. Lieurance died.

A son David Guthrie Houston was born Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. DeVern Houston of 820 Grand street. Mrs. Houston was formerly Miss Jeanne Marks.

The Phelps Estate.

Judge Howard Gray of Carthage in probate court of Jasper county was appointed auxiliary administrator of the estate of the late William Phelps with will annexed, to attend to the administration of property of the estate in Missouri.

Mr. Phelps was the son of the late Colonel W. H. Phelps of Carthage and was himself a former Carthage resident. His death occurred in Los Angeles in 1927. Mr. Phelps committed suicide of his death was not generally known at the time.

Ill health was blamed for Mr. Phelps' action, he having suffered much agony from recurring attacks of a pain in his head, attributed to an old injury received some years ago when he received a blow on the head in an accident at his farm near Carthage. The attacks had increased in severity in recent years.

Copies of Mr. Phelps will and inventory of the estate as made in California were filed. The appraisal showed property estimated worth $541,981, consisting principally of California real estate, also bonds and other personal property.

A Baby Adopted.

Judge E. P. Dorris of Alton, in a special session of Howell county circuit court, granted adoption papers to Mrs. George W. Frederick of West Plains for an infant boy which was born a few months ago to a college girl from a distant town.

The mother of the baby came to West Plains a few weeks before his birth and rented a room on Jefferson avenue. She said that she and her husband had started to drive in a truck from their home in California to West Plains, but that the husband had trouble with the truck and sent her on ahead on the train. When days passed and the husband failed to arrive, it was thought the situation a little strange. The little fellow kept crying until it was decided to go in and offer her services to aid the young mother in quieting him. When the room was entered she found the mother was gone. She had left a note on her dresser telling she had been called out of the city for a few days, but that she would be back to claim her baby.

HYDE-ELMORE WEDDING CELEBRATED SUNDAY.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Elmore was the scene of a pretty home wedding Sunday when their daughter, Rena Bernice, became the bride of Charles Dillard Hyde, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Hyde of Marshfield. The ceremony was read by the Reverend N. H. Triplett of Marshfield. Miss Norene Robberson of Springfield was maid-of-honor and Herman Hyde of Marshfield acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Hyde are spending their honeymoon in Kansas City and will be at home, after January 3, in Marshfield.

DEATHS

W. H. LIEURANCE.

W. H. Lieurance, 79 years old, died Wednesday night at the home of his son, Grant Lieurance, at Cabool, Mo. Mr. Lieurance had been retired from active business for several years. The body was forwarded to Roswell, N. M., for burial beside his wife, who died more than a year ago. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Guy M. Rowe, of Roswell, and a son, Grant Lieurance of Cabool.

INDEX

It was my intention to make the index as complete and useful as possible. If it was uncertain whether a name was Heese or Hesse, I included both. If George Peterson married Sarah Gant, I included the name Sarah Gant Peterson in the index. If Mrs. Laura Banfield died leaving a daughter Mrs. Ada Toliver, in the index I included the name Ada Banfield. In some cases this led to errors. Perhaps Mrs. Banfield had been married twice and Ada was a child of the first marriage.

However I did NOT include the names of all those attending big events like family reunions and large weddings.

The index is to the date of the newspaper--NOT to the date of the event.

The abbreviations after the date indicate the following:

A = anniversary

B = birth of

C = child born to

D = death

DV = divorce case--also cases of annulment and separate maintenance. Remember that many divorce cases were dismissed and were never granted.

E = engagement

M = marriage

P = probate case. Remember that minor children and insane persons had estates as well as deceased persons.

In the last column on the right, the letter indicates in which newspaper the item appeared:

N = the Daily News

L = the Leader

The number after that indicates the page number of that issue.
